Westminster Boys With Base Hospital At Fort M'Pherson

When the U. S. Base Hospital Unit L received orders to mobilize at Fort McPherson, Atlanta, Ga., on Thursday, December 20, it meant that six more Westminster students and one who had been formerly a student were to enter the service of their country

Three members each of the Senior and Junior classes and one man who would have been a Sophomore this year had he returned to school, complete the personnel of Westminster men in the southern training camp.

The Seniors are Clarence E. Toy, president of last year's Junior class and reader for the Men's Glee Club. Wm. G. Douthett, president of the Van Club, member of the Glee Club, and varsity basket ball star forward, and Kraeer Ferguson, manager of last season's football team.

The Juniors are, Robert Dornon, full back on the 1917 team, Lawrence Milligan, basket bal manager, and member of the football squad. Wm. McNaugher, football manager in 1916

William McLaughry, brother of the famous "Tuss" of other years, and "Jim" McLaughry former football star here, is also a member of the Base Hospital. McLaughry was a student at Michigan at the time of his enlistmen but spent his Freshman year at Westminster.

From all reports the boys are enjoying camp life to the extreme and have nothing but praise for the southern hospitality which has been showered upon them since they arrived in training camp.

They received their khaki suits recently and have settled down to the regular routine of army life.

New Wilmington Gives Her First Son

New Wilmington has given one of her sons to the cause of world democracy. Last Wednesday night, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Braham received a telegram announcing the sad intelligence that their son Hall Braden Braham had died at 6 o'clock, of pneumonia.

The young man, who is 26 years old, had enlisted December 3 in Co. C., 30th Regular Engineers and was stationed at Fort Myer, Va. The news of his sudden death came as a shock to the community last night.

He was graduated from Westminster College with the class of 1915 and for some time previous to his enlistment had been employed in the powder mill at New Castle.

Surviving besides his father and mother are two brothers, Prof. W. W. Braham, of Johnston, Leonard Braham 11th Field Artillers, Douglas, Arizona, and four sisters, Eleanor, Olive, Mary, and Lillie, all at home.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday.

School Board Elects New Teacher

At a special meeting of the school board, held Monday evening, J. Glenn Berry, a member of the Senior Class of Westminster College, was elected to fill the vacancy in the high school staff, caused by the resignation of Prof. Oliver Love.

Mr. Berry assumed his duties at the opening of school, Wednesday morning. He is a young man of more than ordinary ability, and stood well in his classes in college. He was the efficient captain of last season's varsity football team, and is one of the most popular men in school. Mr. Berry came to college from Boise, Idaho.

At a second meeting, held Tuesday evening, E. M. Newton was chosen as successor to John Wright, Sr., who resigned several weeks ago. George Young was elected secretary.

The Right Sort of Men for The Ministry Pictured in Words

By WILLIAM FRASER McLOWELL

The kind of men required for the ministry of today is determined by several capital considerations. The ministry does not and cannot make its appeal on the basis of its need. It cannot demand strong men just because it has none; but must base its claim on fundamental and commanding principles. The best men must come in with their heads up and remain with are royal high heartedness.

The kind of men now demanded in the ministry is determined by the character of the person and institution whose ministers the men are to be. Small employers can take small employees. Empires must have emperors. The president has the right to call to the service of the commonwealth her able men. And the ablest men are honored by such call.

Now the Church at its best is the chief institution in the world today. Even at its worst, it is the chief institution in the world. The world's fate for good or ill is more dependent upon the Church of Jesus Christ than upon any government or all governments. The great institution naturally calls for the great personality.

The church ranks with any government or institution in the strength and sovereignty of its call, but when one considers that it is Jesus Christ's Church, a new situation is created. "Ministers of Jesus Christ is a royal term. He has the supreme right, because of what He is, to the ablest men that can be found. He claims them, because He is sovereign over life. It sets one's blood flowing fast to think of the ministry in this light. It is the ministry of Jesus Christ, the Master. In that light the ministry is set on high, far above all ordinary occupations. There is no argument with Him. He possesses what Matthew Arnold called invincible supremacy. Whatever He says must be done. He is always facing a crisis and needing strong men to help Him.

The character of the men demanded for the ministry is determined by the service which they are asked to render. The ministry proposes a larger service to humanity than ever before.

Now the ministry has not always seemed a commanding thing But when we apply to it the great terms that link it ith the best conceptions and illustrations of the ministry at its best; and when we bring this conception of the ministry face to face with the present task of the ministry, no true man can feel it to be an inferior thing, too small for him. He will rather humble himself in the presence of what must be done, and cry out, "Who is sufficient for these things?" When a living man appears to whom these great terms may all be truly applied, then the hearts of youth leap up because the ministry is reincarnated again in their presence.

The service of humanity for the love of Christ, this is the appeal. The service is noble and the motive compelling. The thing is big enough to do and the motive for doing it big enough to warrant either master or men giving life to it. It opens a career surpassing any other in life, as the interests of mankind surpass all other concerns.

The kind of men required for the ministry is also determined by the time in which one is to have his ministry. It is certainly true that it is a great age and shows no sign of growing less within the generation. It is a fine time for the right kind of man to live in. The ministry of this day is surrounded by giants. No other age since men began to preach has offered such a challenge or such a chance to a royal pulpit. Who wants to be a king among pigmies? Who wants to bring an eternal gospel to a petty period full of petty men? Every age will surely have its gospel. Ours has tried several—the gospel of science, the gospel of wealth, and even the gospel of pleasure. It cares for none of them. Now when the age reacts who will lead it into truth? Who will preach the eternally living Christ to the men of today, in modern speech, for imperative needs?

Christ waits for such men that they may help Him in the finest struggle His kingdom has ever seen. Age of Constantine, Age of Charlemagne, Age of Crusader, Age of Reformer—no one of them equals this for the ministry of Christ. The great Person, Christ; The great service for humanity; the great age, for life! The hour of the strong man has come.

Miss Mitchell Weds Western Man

A marriage of more than ordinary local interest took place at the home of Mrs. Margaret Mitchell, on Friday, December 28, at 3 o'clock. The high contracting parties were Mr. Thomas Greer Thompson of Lewistown, Montana, and Miss Erla Mitchell, the youngest of the three daughters of the late Professor John Mitchell, who so eminently served the college here till his decease in 1896 They are both graduates of Westminster of the year 1904.

Miss Mitchell for several years has been college librarian and her going away at this time leaves a vacancy in this position as well as in the teaching force.

Mr. Thompson is a son of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Thompson of this place, and a practising attorney at Lewistown, having graduated from the law department of the University of Nebraska.

The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. A. A. Graham, pastor of the Second United Presbyterian Church, assisted by Rev. R. G. Ferguson, D. D., in the parlor and dinner was served to a housefull of guests. The bride was given away by her brother, Professor Richard Mitchell of the University of Kentucky, Lexington, Ky. A little later, when the shades of evening began to fall, the couple took their leave of the company, amid a shower of rice. They went eastward and will stop for a short while on their way to their western home in Montana.

There were many handsome and appropriate gifts to the bride from friends far and near.

The guests fromo ut of town were Misses Sarah and Nancy Thompson, of Bethel; Misses Vera and Edna Criswell and Messrs. Edward and Walter Cree, all of Pittsburgh; Misses Velma and Ora Donaldson of Cleveland; Clyde Gibson, Esq., of New Castle, who stood with the groom; Miss Elizabeth Stewart, New Concord, Ohio, Miss Helen Scott, Tarentum, Mr. and Mrs. Gilchrist and Mrs. Root; Miss Mary McElree, Beaver, Pa.

The following New Wilmington guests were present: Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Thompson, and daughters Irene and Ella; President and Mrs. W. Charles Wallace, Rev. and Mrs. A. A. Graham, Miss Clara Elliott, Mrs. Martha Mehard Veazey, Mrs. Lambie, Misses Emily Johnston, Gladys Rose and Aurel Anderson.

Dr. Oppitz Teaches English.

Dr. Louis K. Oppitz, head of the Dept. of Physics, is now teaching English in place of Miss Mitchell, who recently resigned. The new arrangement is a temporary one and will terminate with the close of the semester.

Evangelistic Services To Be Held in Second Church

Rev. Ralph Atkinson, D. D., of Seattle, Wash. To Conduct Meetings Here From January 13 to 27

Rev. Ralph Atkinson, D. D., Seattle, Wash., who has gained a worthy reputation among the pastors of the various churches, as a successful evangelist, will hold a two-week series of meetings in the Second United Presbyterian Church of New Wilmington, January 13-27, 1918.

Rev. Ralph Atkinson, D. D.

Dr. Atkinson is an Englishman, that Mr. Moody met in one of his evangelistic tours of that country. Impressed with the personality of the young man and the possibilities for good in his life Mr. Moody suggested that he come to this country and complete his education

Mr. Atkinson did this; studying in Moody Bible Institute, and McCormick Theological Seminary, Chicago, Ill.

After graduation he held several successful pastorates in the Middle West, but eventually gave his whole time to the work of an evangelist for which he has marked qualifications.

Dr. Atkinson, besides being a strong preacehr of the Word, is a good singer, and leads his own chorus choirs in his evangelistic services.

The other churches of the town have been invited to co-operate in these meetings and to make them, as far as possible, a community movement, for the deepening of the spiritual life of Christians and an agency for bringing the unsaved into reconciliation with God thru Christ Jesus our Lord.

Marriage of Westminster Alumni

A courtship of college days was culminated in the marriage of W. Courtney Wilson, '17 to Miss MarieLytle, '16, on Saturday afternoon, December 22. The nuptial ceremony was performed at the home of the groom's sister, Mrs. William H. Baker, of 514 East 144th street, Cleveland, O. The officiating clergyman was Rev. Dr. J W. Giffon of the First United Presbyterian Church of that city. The wedding was followed by an afternoon tea and an evening theater party given in honor of the newlyweds.

The contracting parties in this ceremony were two of Westminster's most popular alumni. The bride was honored by election as May Queen in her Junior year and graduated as valedictorian of her class. The groom is at present teaching Chemistry in the University of Illinois, having been granted a Fellowship following his graduation. The faculty and student body unite in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Wilson happiness in their wedded life.

Prof. Love Goes to Uniontown.

Prof. Oliver M. Love '17, assistant principal of the local High School, recently tendered his resignation to the Board of Education, in order to take up a more lucrative position in the Uniontown High School.

Prof. Love goes to his new work with the best wishes of his friends here in college.

CHAPEL SERMON

"Wait on the Lord: be of good courage, and He shall strengthen thine heart: wait, I say, on the Lord." This last verse of the 27th Psalm was the text of the chapel sermon preached by Dr. Wallace last Sabbath evening, and it was a sermon well adapted for the first of the new year, and it was as a New Year's message that it was applied. Dr. Wallace spoke of this as a critical year. Its reaches, like those of some great Matterhorn, stretch away and above us into the silent gloom and we are looking for the sureness of our preparation for the climb. But there is still time for us to say to ourselves the words of the text—"wait on the Lord" etc. And in the climbing up the Matterhorn of this New Year we will need to say this often to ourselves.

In this verse the Psalmist is talking to his own soul of that wherein can be found strength and significance for life, and the words of this 27th verse are his answer to that self-made query. But what is the significance of this—"Wait on the Lord?" Some have thot that it means patience, others that it means prayer; but the original lying back of the translation means 'to tie a rope.' "Tie thyself fast to the Lord" is the root meaning of the verse. Once before in Isaiah the same Hebrew word was used—"They that wait—that tie themselves fast to the Lord—shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run and not faint."

In the climb up the Matterhorn of this new year to those who are tied fast to the Lord there will be a constant sense of companionship and guidance. There will come also a sense of rescue, when slipping on the upward climb, the guide to whom we are tied fast, will set the strong pull of His spirit to help us upward. Some there are who say that they do not need a guide in this upward climb, but they are those who know not the dangers and the perils which beset the way, and when they come unto the upper heights they fail, for the tests of the soul in its climbing up the Matterhorn of life are many. The first of these is loneliness. The soul out upon the Matterhorn of life experiences this to the full. To the youth especially there comes this sense of loneliness with greatest fullness—a longing for something, the youth knows not what; and the answer is, "Hope thou in God", and to him who has Him for guide, the loneliness will not overcome.

The second test is the cold, which, so numbing on the material Matterhorn, has its counterpart in the upward climb of the soul. It may mean loss of life if the soul is without the guide. Another thing to be overcome is the altitude. The atmosphere becomes thin, the head begins to swim, and if one can lean back upon the rope which ties one to the guide he will go safely thru. In the experiences of life which try the soul, he will come thru best who can test the strength of the tie which binds him to the invisible guide. The fourth test is the avalanche, hissing, rushing, it would overthrow, but the guide can push one into a cleft of the rock till it is past, for he knows well the ground. It is a terrible thing, if in the upper reaches of life the avalanche comes when one is alone.

The fifth danger is the false step. This may come, but tied to the guide all is not therefore lost. Thus in the upper reaches of life weakness may be made strong by Him. "He that keepeth Israel slumbers not and never sleeps." Tie thyself fast to Him, be of good courage and He will strengthen thine heart. Tie thyself fast, I say, to the Lord.

Use of the College Library

Students of Westminster are you using the college library in the most beneficial manner? The librarian makes the statement that the books and magazines most used are those which deal with the lightest of fiction, while the ones on subjects which should be of greatest interest to college students are rarely opened.

We are living in an eventful age, an age in which history, and empires, and kingdoms will be entirely revolutionized. The best periodicals of the times are full of the happenings of the great world war and we should acquaint ourselves with the situation as it develops and unfolds itself day by day

In the years to come, after the war is over and people have settled down to the pursuits of peace, the generations to come will naturally look to us for information concerning the extremely interesting times in which we live, and we will be unable to tell them the things they wish to know if we do not now, when the opportunity presents itself, keep abreast of the situation.

Let us think this matter over and make the resolution that each day we will read some article or articles pertaining to the international struggle in which our country is destined to play such a leading part.

The year just beginning promises to be one of the most interesting and momentous one in the history of man. To all it will bring new experiences and new conditions. New problems will have to be met and conquered. It promises to be a strenuous year, the like of which has never been seen, with more than half the civilized nations of the world grappling at each others throats fighting for their very existence.

To many of the men in college now it will mean that books will have to be replaced by guns and the serious duty of training for service over seas begun. Perhaps many who have come and gone from the sacred halls of old Westminster will lay down their lives that the democracy which we all love may live.

To others it will mean saying good bye to friends and loved ones, perhaps never to see them again. To some it will mean making sacrifices of time and money that those who have gone might have thin s a little easier wherever they are

To all of us who are left in school it should mean an increase of personal efficiency. Every moment of our lives should be made to count, each week should see us stronger, mentally, morally and physically than we were the week befor .

The desolated nations of the world will call as never before, for college trained men and women; men and women who have the power of initiative to take the places of those who have passed out.

Educators every where are realizing this hence the attempt to conduct the colleges on as high a plan of efficiency is possible is being attempted.

Dr. J. A MacDonald, editor of the "Toronto Globe" emphasized this in a recent address at Vanderbilt U iversity when he said

"My most earnest pleading, therefore, with you, with all citizens of the United States and of Canada, is for the preparedness of all our people in the things of the mind. The Army? Yes. The Navy? Yes. Fill up the ranks of the khaki and the blue. But when our bullets and our bayonets have done their fullest part, there will still be a call for leadership in schools and churches and parliaments of the world. The desolated war nations will call, as never before, for policies and programs that make for truth in our diplomacy and for integrity in our politics. From you and from class rooms like yours must go out that leadership of social good-will and that law of international service, in which alone is the hope of Europe's redemption, and through which alone can come enduring peace for the world. In the world conflict of ideas the college classrooms are our strategic heights. Hold them today, and the hinterland of the Vimy Ridge of Truth will be yours tomorrow."

The club picture was taken on Tuesday afternoon.

The men in the club who represent the Empire State rolled into school late, as might be expected. They were attending a "movie" and missed the train.

Allen Dickson and "Squeaky" Cummings attained much material prosperity during vacation in the service of the G. F. at Youngstown.

"Jim" Cummings found that the silverware baskets at the Hillside did not make a very substantial receptacle for crumbs.

KELLY CLUB

"Butch" Fornoff and Miss Willa Shaffer were quietly and ceremoniously married at the office of Rev. Phipps in Sharon December 1. Allen Wierman and a sister of the bride accompanied the happy couple to the altar.

Fornoff, altho he has been at Westminster but a short time, has made his presence felt among the students and will be greatly missed by all who know him. We wish him a prosperous and happy future.

We take great pride in announcing that Ferguson, Dornon and McNaugher were recently tendered the positions of corporal in the Base Hospital division of the army.

Word has been received that Prof. Hearn is at present afflicted wih a bad case of measles.

The busy season for Armstrong and Dunn has at last arrived. They are working night and day to make the Argo a success.

Prof. Shott Attended Convention

Prof J. A. Shott spent four days of Christmas week atending the Pennsylvania State Educational Convention at Johnstown. Prof. Shott spoke at one of the sessions upon the subject of "Education Courses for the Small College."

Dr. C. B. Robertson, '98, of the University of Pittsburgh, presided at one of the sessions of the convention.

The following is a poem writen in 1898 by Alfred Austin when the author was Poet-Laureate of England. At this time our country was at war with Spain and the poem was inspired by the coalition of the English with the American fleet when the German squadron threatened to ally itself with the Spanish forces. The poem was appropriate then as manifesting the alliance of the two nations of the same blood and race. once enemies, but then joined together by a common hatred of tyranny and oppression. How exceedingly appropriate is this poem now, when Brittania and Columbia are standing shoulder to shoulder as brothers and sons of the self-same race in defense of the rights and privileges of the individual and the freedom of the human race.

"What is the Voice I hear
On the wind of the Western Sea?
Sentinel! Listen from out Cape Clear,
And say what the voice may be.
'Tis a proud free people calling loud
to a People proud and free.'

And it says to them, Kinsmen, hail!
We severed have been too long;
Now let us have done with a worn-out
ttle,
The tale of an ancient wrong,
And our friendship last long as Love
doth last, and bestronger than Death
is strong.'

Answer them, sons of the self-same race
And blood of the self-same clan,
Let us speak with each other face to face,
And answer, as man to man,
And loyally love and trust each other,
as none but free men can.

Now fling them out to the breeze,
Shamrock, Thistle, and Rose!
And the Star Spangled Banner unfurl with these,
A message to friends and foes,
Wherever the sails of peace are seen,
and wherever the war-wind blows.

A message to bond and thrall to wake,
For, whenever we come, we twain,
The throne of the tyrant shall rock and quake,
And his menace be void and vain:
For you are lords of a young strong land, and we are lords of the main.

Yes this is the voice on the bluff March long:
But now we have done with a worn out tale,
The tale of an ancient wrong,
And our friendship shall last as Love
doth last, and be stronger than Death
is strong."

Alumni Notes

Word has been received of the death of Rev. H. W. McCartney, '01, pastor of the U. P. Church at Olathe, Kansas. Rev. McCartney was killed by burglars, who made their escape after the foul deed. He was aroused during the night by an explosion, which proved to have been caused by the blowing up of a safe by automobile bandits. As Rev. McCartney rushed from the house, one of the burglars shot and killed him. The deceased is a brother of Rev. R. H. McCartney, 04, pastor of the First U. P. Church, of Sharon, Pa. Rev. McCartney was expecting to be called into the service of his country, having been accepted for Y. M. C. A. work at the time of his demise.

Rev. Hugh G. Snodgrass, 02, has accepted a call to Salinesville, Ohio. Rev. Snodgrass has been pastor of the U. P. Church at Uniontown. Ohio.

Rev. Dr. Paul H. Yourd, '03, is now engaged in war work at Camp Travis, Texas. His special work is the organization and direction of Bible Classes. Although at the beginning the organizers met with little success, the project is now proving successful and will no doubt result in much improvement in the spiritual life of this camp.

The Westminster College Girls Club met in the Bessemer Building, Pittsburgh, Saturday, December 8. About fifty were in attendance and all seemed to enjoy the reunion to the utmost. A feature of the meeting was an "Honor Roll" of the Westminster boys in the service of the country. It was handsomely engrossed by Mr. W. H. Snodgrass, '96 of Bellevue, and was hung on the wall and could easly be read at some distance.

Clara Nesbit '96, of Franklin, Pa, was recently married to Dr. Cooper of Cooperstown, Pa. The wedding was solemnized at Pittsburgh, and was followed by a banquet at William Penn hotel. Prior to her marriage the bride was employed in a bank at Franklin.

WESTMINSTER DEFEATS STRONG "Y" TEAM

The initial game on the local basketball floor was played last Saturday night when the Blue and White five stacked up against the strong Y. M. C. A. team from New Castle.

The game was a close one from start to finish, neither team being able to get a strong lead on the other. During the second half the visitors began to get the lay of the floor and as a result played better basketball, making it necessary for Westminster to tighten up and play her best game.

Armstrong was the individual star of the evening, making 25 of Westminster's 37 points. Magee for the visitors showed himself to be a foul shooter of some ability by getting 16 out of 17 trys. Hoskin's, captain of last year's New Castle Hi team put up a great game at guard.

Line up:

Westminster—37		N. C. Y M. 36
Trimble	F	Herbst
Loghry	F	Borden
Armstrong	C	Bartholomew
Cummings	G	Hoskins
Wierman	G	Magee

Field goals—Armstrong 7; Borden 3, Hoskins 2, Loghry 3, Smith 2, Cummings, Wierman, Trimble, Herbst, Bartholomew, Ramsey. Fouls, Magee 16 out of 17. Armstrong 11 out of 18.

Substitutions— Wierman for Trimble, Lewis for Wierman, Smith for Borden, Ramsey for Bartholomew.

Referee—White; timer Lawther. Time of halves. 20 minutes

Bethany Abandons Floor Game

"No basketball," was the announcement made by the manager at Bethany a few days ago. The new gym which is being built there will not be completed in time to play on and their intercollegiate schedule, arranged some time ago, will be abandoned

Sol Metzgar in Camp Athletics

Sol Metzger, former U. of P. star and football captain and coach of W. & J.'s grid team during the last two years, will from now on devote his time to coaching the army athletes. On January 8, he succeeded H. J. Norton as camp athletic director at Camp Dix, N. J., under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. Metzger was persuaded some days ago to enter the work by the War Work Council.

Changes in W. V. U. Schedule

For the year 1918, West Virginia University has made no arrangements to play Dartmouth and Navy. Her only trips to the East will be to to West Point to play the Army team and possibly to New Brunswick to meet Rutgers.

U. of W. Va. will play Pitt on October 12 at Forbes Field and Indiana University will be the big game on the home field of the West Virginians.

Strikeout Records

Ferdie Schupp, young Giant southpaw has the distinction of holding the 1917 strikeout record in the big leagues. On July 7 he fanned a full dozen of Cardinals, the greatest number of strikeouts in any game.

Altho Schupp holds the record the strikeout crown should go to Jim Vaugn, the Yankee discard. He pitched eight games, each with over seven strikeouts, while Schupp pitched only two such games.

Vaughn's pitching for last season was brilliant to say the least. One game brought him eleven strikeouts, and one ten strikeouts, in three games he fanned nine men and in three others eight.

Hunting Season Totals

In Pennsylvania during the last hunting season twenty-five men were killed and seventy-four were wounded, according to official count.

Game killed was as follows:

680 legal deer, 31 illegal bucks, and 75 does, the killing of which is also forbidden.

Bear, 368; rabbits, 3,500,000; squirrels, 179,400; grouse 107,287 wild turkey, 2,950; ring pheasants, 1,362; quail, 26,223; woodcock, 25,660; wild waterfowl, 32,907; raccoons, 13,225; shore birds 17,695.

Y. W. C. A. Meeting

The Y. W. C. A. held its first meeting of the new year Tuesday evening in the Hillside parlors. At this meeting the subject was discussed which was presented to the association a few weeks before Christmas vacation, the subject of the Los Angeles Amendment. This amendment embodies the admittance into the association of non-church members. Heretofore only members of the Protestant Evangelical churches have been eligible to the association, but owing to various reasons, the leaders of the Y. W. C. A. movement have deemed it advisable to bring before the different associations this amendment. This question will be decided at the National Y. W. C. A. convention at Philadelphia which is in session at the present time. Miss Mary Sloane of the Senior class, is present at this convention and will be able to give a full report of the discussion regarding this amendment at the next meeting.

MABEL BEDDOE GAVE PLEASING CONCERT

The fourth recital of the artists course was given last evening, January 11, in the college chapel, when Miss Mabel Beddoe appeared. Miss Beddoe is a Canadian contralto and came to the Westminster audience highly recommended, and from the high tone of her concert at Westminster she surely fulfilled all her recommendations. Her program consisted of English, French and Italian selections. Especially fitting for this war time was her selection "The Soldier's Bride," by Sergei Rachmaninoff.

House Party at Wheatland

Miss Emma May had as her house guests, at her pretty home in Wheatland, before returning from Christmas vacation, the Misses Helen Rodgers, Mildred Allison, Claire Robinson, and Edith Petrie. In honor of her guests she entertained the Misses Maude Spenser, Hazel Phipps, Thelma and Elma Shaw, and Margaret Heasley of Sharon, at dinner Wednesday evening, January 2. The decorations were blue and white. A very prettily appointed dinner was served by the mother of the hostess assisted by Mrs. L. A. Kernes of Pittsburgh. As a fitting climax to the pleasant time enjoyed by all, the girls returned to New Wilmington via the Sharpsville Thursday

No Bible Classes Last Week

Owing to the fact that the college building could not be heated sufficiently last Sabbath morning the Y. M. C. A. and the Y W. C. A. Bible classes were abandoned for the day. This is the first time for many years that the regular Bible classes have been given up on account of the cold.

Marriage of a Graduate

Miss Clara Belle Cummings 16, daughter of J. O. Cummings of East Brook, Pa., was married to Walter Carnes of Youngstown. O., on Wednesday, December 20th. The ceremony was performed at the bride's home, by the Rev. S. L. Cooks, pastor of the Eastbrook U. P. church. The bride is a sister of Clarence Cummings of the Senior Class, and was teaching in the eighth grade of the New Castle public schools prior to her marriage. The young couple expect to make their future home in New Castle.

College Bulletin

The College Bulletin, which is just off the press, is one of the best quarterly issues ever published. It contains among the announcements for the coming year, the attitude which the college has taken toward the war situation. An account of the student activities and an interesting story relative to the Student Friendship Fund is also a feature of the publication.

The honor roll of men who were members of last year's Senior class and those who left school this year to enter the service of the country is also a distinctive part of the Bulletin.

Football Letters Awarded

During the regular chapel hour Wednesday morning, January 9th, Dr. Wallace awarded the football letters to the members of the varsity team. The men were summoned one by one to the front of the chapel, where the president in a few well chosen sentences conferred the "W" on the men, and made them realize what it meant to wear the insignia of the school.

The men who received the "W" are Captain Berry, Manager Ferguson, Cummings, Loghry, Wierman, Wiggins, Dunn, Armstrong, Martin, Hart, Furnoff: Runser, Ashton and Lawther.

Dr. Wallace in Pittsburg.

Dr. Wallace preached in the 6th U. P. church, Pittsburg, on Sabbath, Dec. 30th, in the place of Dr. Robinson, who has been doing field work for the Y. M. C. A. in the cantonements of the south. It is likely that Westminster people will have an opportunity of hearing Dr. Robinson relate some of his experiences in the army camps here in the near future.

No Chapel Sabbath Evening

There will be no chapel servcie Sabbath evening in the college, but the student body and faculty will unite with the congregation of the 2nd U. P. church in its evening service. Dr. Atkinson of Seattle, Wash., who is coming to conduct a a series of meetings in the local church will be the speaker.

Faculty and Students of Westminster College:

Dear Friends:

I have just finished reading "The Tale of Two Cities" and wish to thank you all very much for the gift and the pleasure derived in reading.

All the Westminster fellows seem more than satisfied with Army life at Ft. McPherson, enjoying our three hours drill and lecture work every day. Conditions here are all we can expect and the spirit of every man is fine, working hard and serious in order that they may be ready to answer the call to go 'over there.'

There is such a great demand for hospital men in the French armies that all Units are making preparations as fast as possible.

We have a fine corps of officers, taking a great interest in every man and mingling with the fellows as one of them.

Our wardrobes are nearly complete now, consisting of two full suits, overcoat, slicker, shelter tent, which accommodates two men, trench bag and most everything we need.

Our 'W' boys often speak of Westminster naturally and will be glad to return when we have done our bit.

With regards to all,
CLARENCE TOY

Monday noon

Faculty and Students of Westminster College:

Since I have a few minutes off at noon, I thought I should write to thank you for the book which you sent me for Christmas.

The one I received was the "Man From Home." It was very acceptable I am sure as it happened that I had played a part in the 'Man From Home' which was put on during Commencement 1915. Had often wished to read the book in novel form and am sure I will enjoy it during my short hours of leisure.

Every Westminster man here is enjoying the army life to the utmost.

During a recent meeting at the Y. M. C. A. the secretary called for college yells and Westminster's five men made more noise on a Ki Yi Blue than the whole U. of Syracuse made or any other bunch, and when it came to songs, we got the most applause of all.

There are more from Westminster than any other college in our unit; there being Lieut. Gilmore besides seven privates..

We are expecting to start across by the end of this month and are sure when Unit L gets after Kaiser Wilhelm the war will soon be ended.

We often wish we could get back to school, but not one of us are sorry we are in it, and not one ever will be sorry

Thanking you for the remembrance, I am,

Yours sincerely,
WM. G. DOUTHETT, Jr.

Dear Faculty and Students:

I wish to take this way to thank you for the book which you sent me.

Camp life here is very interesting to all. The Westminster boys are well and happy.

Hillside Girls Register

Through the Woman's Committee of the Council of National Defense, cards have been sent to the local committees in the different communities for the registration of women over sixteen years of age. This week these cards were received at the Hillside and many of the girls pledged themselves for the work during vacation months. Almost every field is open to them, including professional, industrial, domestic and public and social service work.

The government has also offered training along any line which is needed.

Miss Mary Sloane left Monday evening to attend the annual Members Convention of the east central field of the Y. W. C. A Association, which is being held at Swarthmore College, Philadelphia. She will represent the branches of the association from Pennsylvania College for Women, Juniata, Grove City, and Westminster.

Preparations Being Made For Active Work in College Debates

Girls are Preparing for Schedule Which Will be One of Best in Years. Boys Will Meet New York City Team.

Tryout for Men's Debating Squad

The tryout for the men's Inter-Collegiate Debating Squad was held Friday afternon, January 11. The tryout this year was a departure from the customary mode of conducting such contests, in that the speeches were extemporaneous. The question was: "Resolved, that compulsory military training for all male citizens of the United States before they reach the age of twenty-two years should be the permanent policy of our government." Fourteen men contested for places on the varsity squad from which number ten were selected as follows: McGeoch, Lostetter, Duff, Brandon, Hart, Foster, McKnight, Spenser, Skellie, and Forbes. From this group will be selected the teams to represent Westminster on the debating floor during the coming season.

Sophomore- Freshman Debate

The annual Sophomore-Freshman debate will be held in the College Chapel, Friday evening, January 25. This event is always one of the most interesting of the entire college year, because of the intense rivalry between the classes. The struggle this year promises to be no exception, for the representatives of each class are striving to their utmost ta achieve victory. The proposition for debate this year wil be: "Resolved, That Federal legislation should be enacted providing for the compulsory arbitration of industrial disputes." The Freshman Class upholding the affirmative side will be represented by Spenser, McMorris, and Mechlin; the Sophomore representatives will be Reed, Foster, and McKnight, and will maintain the negative.

Varsity Debate Schedule

The officers of the Tau Kappa Alpha, with the assistance and co-operation of Professor H. S. Hollopeter, have nearly completed the inter-colegiate debate schedule for the coming season. The Westminster debaters will be compelled to exhibit their best efforts to win a majority of their debates, for the schedule includes contests with larger institutions.

On March 14th at Waynesburg a Westminster team will uphold the negative side of the question, "Resolved, That the United States should adopt the Canadian plan for dealing with industrial disputes."

A team from Thiel College will debate in New Wilmington; a dual debate with Bethany College, and a debate with Pitt will be staged in March. The season will close on April 7th when our team will meet a team from the College of the City of New York in the college chapel, and maintain the affirmative side of the question, "Resolved, That the United States Government should take all necessary measures to prohibit, in the United States, the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors as beverages." this contest is considered the greatest event of the debating season, for the College of the City of New York is one of the largest institutions in the country. The team which met and defeated them in New York last year, composed of McGeoch, Lostetter and Ashbrook, brought fame and renown to Westminster by dint of their meritorious efforts.

Girls' Debate Schedule

The girls' debating team has already started work. The class meets with Prof. Hollopeter on Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons, where a stiff course of work is planned out. Westminster has secured a place in the triangle debate with Geneva and Grove City. Also a debate with Pitt is scheduled which will probably take place at home. It is also very likely that a dual debate with Thiel will be scheduled. The team at present consists of Misses Speer, Moffat, Phipps, Springer, Rodgers, Robinson, Moore and Freed.

Harvey Bush Promoted

Harvey Bush, ex-'18, now serving with the American Expeditionary Forces in France, has recently been appointed interpreter at the port of Tours. Bush enlisted and "went over" as a member of the Engineers Corps, but his ability to speak French was soon recognized and he was removed from his company, and appointed interpreter to assist the American troops when they arrive upon French soil. He is also serving as Senior Bugler in his company, due to his proficiency and practice with the cornet while in school. While at Westminster, he was enrolled as a student in the French Department, and pursued the course for two years; his recent promotion reflects great credit upon the head of this department, Miss MacLaggan, and the pedagogical methods practised there.

DR. C. J. SMYSER TO ENTER ARMY MEDICAL SERVICE

New Wilmington is to be represented in the Medical Department of the army. Next Monday morning Dr. C. J. Smyser will leave for Camp Greenleaf, Oglethorpe, Ga., to report for duty. Dr. Smyser passed the medical examining board some months ago, and has been expecting a call at any time. He will enter the service with the rank of captain.

When the doctor goes to work for Uncle Sam, he will bring to the service some years of experience as an army surgeon and inspector. During the war with Spain he went with General Miles to Porto Rico, and after the war entered the Marine Hospital department, doing work in the Coast Life Saving service. Consequently army life will not be a new venture to him.

Dr. Smyser has tendered his resignation to the Board of Health, a work in which he has been much interested during the past year.

Prof. Horace G. Byers, Ph. D., head of the Chemistry department of the University of Washington, and a graduate of Westminster, class of '93, has been called to service in the 30th Engineers, Camp University, Washington, D. C. Dr. Byers left Seattle on January 5, and stopped in New Wilmington this week to visit friends.

Josh Perkins calls his wife "Honesty" because he declares she is the best policy.

PRESIDENT CAMPBELL SPEAKS IN CHAPEL

Last Wednesday moring, President Campbell of Cooper College an alumnus of Westminster, of te class of 1886, spoke in chapel. His talk was replete with humor and good advice. As the business world is always posting "dont's" for the public to read and observe, President Campbell said that he had thought of three 'dont's' for us as college students

The first was: "Don't worry." Worry causes more trouble than the world realizes. He advises us as college students not to worry over our studies, but to work as much as possible on them and refrain from worrying over the result. Hard work will hurt no one, but worry injures bot body and mind.

Again, "Don't be sour." If we go through the world with a smiling countenance, it will help us over many difficult places and also help others. President Campbell gave an example of one who saw no joy in life and who was consequently a damper on everybody else's mirth.

And finally, "Don't go against Conscience." If we let our conscience guide us we will be kept from many difficult places. A story was told of a young man in college who obeyed the dictates or his conscience and it not only helped him then but, because he did obey his conscience, he was justly rewarded and now he is succeeding in life due to his obedience to the "inner monitor." As a whole, the address was very much enjoyed and left a favorable impression with the student body.

THE SOCIAL EVENT OF THE SEASON

An affair of more than usual significance to those interested, in the social life of the Hillside, was the informal party tendered by the Misses Lorena Stewart, Gertrude Shane and Blanche Wright to a number of their friends on last Wednesday evening, January 16.

Immediately after they had received the dainty invitations which had been coyly tucked under each door, the favored ones began to make elaborate preparations for the party. The girls arrayed in their most charming evening gowns assembled in Room 1 promptly after curfew rang at 9:30.

The excitment which the arrival of the guests produced proved too great a strain on the delicate nerves of the hostesses, who failed to maintain the dignity of their positions in a conventional manner. In time, however, the embarrassment of the situation was temporarily relieved by the issuing of one peanut wafer to each guest, after which the hostesses bade the guests a hearty farewell.

Former Student Married

Leroy B. Boyd, ex-'18, was united in marriage on Christmas Day to Mabel Morton, at the bride's home at Utica, Pennsylvania. This marriage is the culmination of a romance of high school days. A reception was held in honor of the newlyweds at the home of the groom in Sharpsville, Pa., on New Year's eve. The groom is principal of the schools at Endeavor, Pa., where the young married couple expect to make their future home.

LETTER OF THANKS

Camp Lee, Virginia,
January 10, 1918.

Friends of Westminster:

I wish to express my sincere thanks to the faculty and students of Westminster for their kind remembrance of me at this time.

Yours truly,
Sergt. TIMOR O. HOLLAND

There was an old fellow named Slater,
Who did very well as a waiter;
Till some slippery peel
Got under his heel,
And he swallowed a hot baked potato.

The boy was sent to college
And dad now cries, "Alack!
I spent a thousand dollars
And got a quarter-back.

Y. W. C. A. MEETING

The Y. W. C. A. held its regular meeting Tuesday evening in the Hillside parlors. The subject of the meeting "Is it Catching?" was very interestingly presented by the leader, Miss Mildred Allison. Many features such as grumbling s about matters which do not concern us, knocking our college, being untrue to our friends, were mentioned as not being beneficial and which should not be imitated as they sometimes seem to be. Miss Mary Sloane gave a very interesting talk, bringing a message from the Y. W. C. A. convention at Philadelphia, which was very fitting for the subject. One of the points which Miss Sloane brought out was that America, in order to be victorious in the war, must be more spiritual, and then linking that to the subject, she said that this spirit of true Christian life should be more prevalent in Westminster than it now is, in order to prepare each for the approaching crisis. In speaking of school spirit, Miss Sloane said that she noticed with what pride girls from other colleges speak of their Alma Mater, and she thot this spirit should be more catching in this college than it is at present.

"Me and My Two Thin Blankets"

Army life at Fort Sheridan, Illinois, is to some not the most pleasant occupation known, judging by some of the songs and parodies which have been composed and sung there by the "Sammies" The following is a parody on the "Song of the Shirt", and humorously describes the shortcomings of the blankets:

I'm here with my army blankets,
As thin as a slice of ham.
A German spy, I think, was the guy
Who made em for Uncle Sam.
How do I sleep? Don't kid me—
My bed tick is filled with straw,
And lumps, and bumps, and big fat hunmps,
That punch me till I'm raw.
Me and my two thin blankets,
As thin as the last thin dime—
As thin, I guess, as a chorus girl's dress
Well, I have one heck of a time.
I pull them up from the bottom
(My nighties, my B. V. D's)
A couple of yanks to cover my shanks,
And then my tootsies freeze.
You could use them for porous plasters,
Or maybe to strain the soup,
My pillow's my shoes, when I try to snooze
And I've chilblains, and cough, and croup.
Me and my two thin blankets,
Bundled up under my chin,
Yes, a German spy, I think, was the guy
And gosh but he made 'em thin.

"Be a Sport."

"Tim" Johnston led one of the best Y. M. meetings of the year Tuesday January 8. The above was the subject, and a large number of the fellows were present and spoke on their conceptions of what it is to be a "good sport." Subjects and talks like these are worth while to every fellow.

Community Turns Out To Honor Soldier Dead

Large Number of People Unite in Services at The Funeral of Hall Braham Tuesday Afternoon.

This community has experienced its first sorrow of the present war. One of her sons has made the supreme sacrifice—giving his life for his country and the principles involved in our struggle for the rights of man. Although not in actual battle, and stationed temporarily on American soil, Hall Braham, who was laid to rest in Fair Oaks, on Tuesday afternoon, answered the call of the Great Commander, while in the line of duty, just as truly as though he had been facing the Hun in the battle scarred trenches of France or Belgium.

In honor of our soldier dead, the people of the community gathered at the Second United Presbyterian Church, on Tuesday afternoon, to participate in the service. The body had been brought to New Wilmington from Fort Myer, Va., in charge of Sergeant P. N. Schurr, of the 30th Engineers, a comrade of the deceased, and a veteran regular, who has seen service in the Philippines and in China. A squad of the Lawrence Rifles and several Spanish-American veterans were present and took charge of the military exercises following the regular service. The college and public schools and business houses generaly were closed during the service, that all might unite to do honor to the memory of the departed soldier.

The auditorium of the Second Church was filled to its capacity long before the time for the services to begin, showing the high esteem in which the young soldier-patriot was held by those who knew him.

Prior to the service an opportunity was given the congregation to view the body, and while the people of the community passed the bier a soldier stood at attention at either end of the flag-draped casket, while a color hearer held aloft the flag.

After the scripture reading by Dr. W. Charles Wallace, president of Westminster, Rev. Dr. R. G. Ferguson paid a deserved tribute, eulogistic of the character and life of the departed one, and referred particularly to his years in college.

Rev. A. A. Graham, pastor of the Second Church, of which the soldier had been a member, delivered an appropriate and thoughtful address, taking his text from Deut. 33:27—"The eternal God is thy refuge, and underneath are the everlasting arms." In connection with the sermon, the speaker paid a fine tribute to the young man whom he had known in the close touch of pastoral relationship.

At the conclusion of the sermon, a squad of the Spanish-American War Veterans took charge of the service and the chaplain offered prayer. Another veteran placed a sprig of evergreen on the casket, while a third placed by the side of the soldier a little silk American flag. A quartet composed of Misses June Grove, Minnie Belle McQuiston and Messrs W. W. Campbell and Rev. Clyde Matson sang.

At the cemetery, following the committal service by the pastor, the military took charge of the burial. A firing squad of the Lawrence Rifles formed in double line and fired three volleys over the last resting place of their comrade in arms, while the notes of the bugle—the soldier's farewell—sounded "taps."

The pall bearers were E. V. Buckley, D. O. McLaughry, Prof. James Veazey, David Cummings, John McCune, and Rutherford Johnston, the latter a classmate of Mr. Braham, at Geneva College

When Mr. Braham enlisted in the 30th Engineers, he did so with a definite intention and with a knowledge of the duties required. This regiment is known as the Gas and Flame regiment and special training is required for the hazardous work. Previous to enlisting, he had been employed in the experimental laboratory of the Burton Powder Works at New Castle, as a chemist in research work.

The community shares with the Braham family—which has given two sons to the service of their country—the loss of this loved one, and extends most sincere and heartfelt sympathy, realizing in this hour, the consolation of the one thought, that Hall has given all for his country. And greater love hath no man than this.

HillsideNotes

Marion Freed motored to her home in Bridgeville last Friday and spent a few days there.

Charlotte Logan and Flora Zimmer spent the week-end at the former's home in Mercer.

Ruth Wylie returned to school Tuesday just a few days late.

Mary Sloane returned Monday evening from Philadelphia, where she attended the National Y. W. C. A. convention.

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Rodgers of Pulaski, called Monday evening to see their daughter, Helen.

The inhabitants of Peanut alley spent the week-end over in suite 14, owing to the severe coldness of aforesaid alley. A very pleasant time was enjoyed by all, and Monday morning they reluctantly returned to the frigid regions.

We hear that the Juniors are all having "private speeches in public speaking" these days.

Training Table

The girls' basket ball work has now begun in earnest. Something new at the Hillside has been introduced by Miss McDonough, captain, by the way of a training table, where all pastry and sweets are forbidden. The fortunate (?) members of this table are the Misses Hickman, Krause, Campbell, McBride, McDonough, Matheny, Allison, and Holliday. At a recent election, Olive Hickman was chosen manager of the team.

"The Value of Friendship."

The second Y. M. meeting of the year kept up the good work of the first. A big bunch of men were out to discuss the value of friendship in college. Bob Foster led the meeting, and leader and fellows worked together to make it a live one from start to finish.

DON'T KNOCK.

Did it ever occur to you that "knocking" consists not only in words, but also in attitudes, and that the silent knocks are oftentimes more harmful than those which are given verbal expression? The typical knocker is the combination of a pessimist and a cynic, who, no difference how chaste the character. how noble the aim, how worthy the motive, believes that, depite this outward manifestation of worth and merit, there must be somehow, somewhere, some intrinsic evil, some foible, some fallacy which is derogatory.

The knocker is prone to excoraite his best friend when that person is powerless to defend himself, solely for the reason that that person mayhap is endowed with some idiosyncrasy of character, some habit or expression which renders him imperfect, while the knocker, possessed of faults more pronounced and more despicable, is oblivious of his own eccentricities. Then, too, Westminster College has knockers who are always ready at any possible excuse to denounce the shortcomings of our Alma Mater and to extol, on the other hand, the merits of some rival institution. Our faculty is inferior, our buildings are comparatively poor, and the student body is too aristocratic for our present state of civilization. Forgetful of the fact that the future of our Alma Mater depends in large measure upon the love, loyalty and support of the student body and alumni, the knocker gloomily and pessimistically foretells the approaching disappearance of Westminster as a collegiate institution of rank—a result which would speedily be consummated were all her students, alumni, and friends of the knocking class.

Let us, as students of Westminster, remind ourselves that there is in everything and everybody some little trace of good if we but look for it. and overlook the bad which may be more manifest. Let us abscond the gloomy forebodings of the pessimist and knocker. let us throw away our hammer and get a horn. and consider our fellow men with the attitude of Joaquin Miller, when he wrote:

"In men whom men pronounce as ill
I find so much of goodness still;
In men whom men pronounce divine
I find so much of sin and blot—
I hesitate to draw a line
Between the two, where God has not."

Empress Owned a Train.

One of the most luxurious royal trains in existence belonged to the Empress Marie of Russia, mother of the ex-czar and sister of Queen Alexandra, says the London Observer. During her majesty's visits to our shores this palatial train used to wait for her at Boulogne at a heavy expense, and was ready at a few hours' notice to convey her across the continent when her visit to England was ended.

No "Cyclones" on Land.

Of late years it has become common to call every violent storm a "cyclone," which is plainly erroneous. A cyclone never occurs except on the ocean, asserts a weather observer, because a cyclone is a violent, whirling storm of great area, and no such storm could occur on land. The so-called "cyclones" of the West are "tornadoes," which are whirling storms of great violence, but contracted in area. Tornadoes have been known whose greatest width did not exceed a few rods, and those which exceed several miles in width are very unusual.

Diplomatic.

Dr. Atkinson At the Second U. P. Church

Rev. Ralph Atkinson, D. D., of Seattle, the popular evangelist, began a series of meetings in the Second United Presbyterian Church last Monday evening. Dr. Atkinson was to have conducted the opening service on Sabbath evening, but the blockaded condition of the western railroads delayed his arrival in New Wilmington until Monday afternoon. The sermon Sabbath evening was preached by Rev. A. A. Graham.

A large audience greeted Dr. Atkinson Monday evening, despite the inclement weather, and the evangelist made a slendid impression from the beginning.

The singing is going to be a big feature of these meetings. Dr. Atkinson conducts his chorus, and has marked ability in bringing out, in fullest measure, the value of the praise service.

His text at the opening service, Monday evening, was an appropriate introduction: "He that winneth souls is wise." Prov. 11:30. The sermon was classified under four heads, as follows: 1. A Man's Mission. 2. The Missions Man. 3. The Missions Motive. 4. The Missions Method.

On Tuesday evning Dr. Atkinson discussed the subject of Prayer under the title of "The Lost Secret." There were three heads under consideration: The Meaning of Prayer; The Efficacy of Prayer; and Hindrances to Prayer.

Wednesday evening the subject of the discourse was 'Down in the Dumps'—the story of Elijah under the juniper tree.

Interest is increasing as the meetings progress, and attendance is growing at each succeding service. Next Sabbath will be one of the big days of the revival. In the morning the evangelist will take for his subject "The Conversion of Children." In the afternoon it has been planned to have a young people's rally, and at tne evening Dr. Atkinson will preach on "A Threefold Choice."

It is quite uneccessary to say that everyone is invited to attend these services.

Speaking of the evangelist, the Seattle Post-Intelligencer, one of the leading western dailies has the following to say:

"Dr Ralph Atkinson, pastor of the First United Presbyterian Church, and for seven years a noted figure in every phase of religious development of Seattle and the Northwest, has tendered his resignation to his congregation. He will devote his life to the cause of public evangelism.

Dr. Atkinson, known the country over for his splendid evangelistic achievements, has bowed to oft-repeated requests for his services, requests from all parts of the country, which have come to him upon the heels of another for several years past.

"The work that is to claim his whole time is by no means new to him, for his busy career is made up largely of evangelical efforts, either as preacher or singer, or both, an excellent baritone voice, combining with an earnest striking personality to bring success to his work. As a leader of the multitude it is conceded he has few, if any superiors and in all his big religious gatherings of recent years it has been Dr. Atkinson's task to start the ball rolling and lead the audience into a proper warmth of spirit for the message of the evangelist who followed.

His religious work began with a small mission in Chicago, where he remained over eight years. This is the Tabernacle Church, and under his care it grew to be the largest church in the presbytery of Chicago, with a Sabbath School of 1000 scholars.

In 1893 Dr. Atkinson became associated with D. L. Moody, where he gained considerable of the experience which has made his more recent efforts so unmistakably successful.

Among those who have encouraged Dr. Atkinson to go on with his evangelistic work are Dr. R. A. Torrey, of Los Angeles; Dr. J. W. Chapman of New York; Gypsy Smith, Billy Sunday."

"MY HOSIERY."

The hours I spent with thee, dear sock,
Are as a string of purls to me,
First two I knit, then two I purl,
And round the leg I slowly reel
Now joyful paens to the heavens hurl,
I've turned the heel.

O knotty ends that scratch and turn,
O, stitch that dropped, uneven row,
I kiss each blight and at last learn
To reach the toe, O Lord, to reach the toe

BRITISH GOVERNMENT HELPS PAY FOR BREAD

There has been much misunderstanding about the bread program in England. It is true that the Englishman buys a loaf of bread for less than an American can, but it is poorer bread, and the British government is paying $200,000,000 a year toward the cost of it.

All the grain grown in Great Britain is taken over by the government at an arbitrary price and the imported wheat purchased on the markets at the prevailing market price. This is turned over to the mills by the government at a price that allows the adulterated war bread loaf of four pounds to sell at 18 cents, the two pound loaf at 9 cents and the one pound loaf at 5 cents.

In France, under conditions somewhat similar, but with a larger extraction, the four pound loaf sells for 16 cents.

MAKING MEATLESS DAYS PERMANENT.

In the meatless menu there is a fertile field for developing new and nourishing dishes, according to E. H. Niles, writing in the Hotel Gazette, who believes that the present shortage of meat and fats will not end with the coming of peace, but may grow more acute and continue for five or six years, thus making it worth while to develop menus of grain, vegetables and fish on a more or less permanent basis. Meat can be replaced by cereals and other protein foods, or may be served in very small portions as a flavoring for other food. In making up meatless menus this author finds our American Creole and southern cuisine a broad field for investigation.

CORN WILL WIN DEMOCRACY'S WAR

America's Greatest Cereal Crop Is Now Moving to Market.

MAINSTAY IN NATION'S CRISIS.

Surplus Wheat of the United States Has Been Sent to Famine Threatened Europe.

America's great corn crop, exceeding 3,000,000,000 bushels, will save the world's food situation, officials of the United States food administration believe.

Corn is the nation's best food cereal, housewives are beginning to realize. It contains all the elements needed to keep the body in a state of health and when used according to the scores of tried recipes, especially when combined with an added portion of oil or fat, will sustain life indefinitely. Indian warriors in colonial days lived on parched corn alone for many days at a time, and at Valley Forge parched corn was at times the sole ration of the Continental soldiers.

Owing to transportation difficulties caused by the war the corn crop moved more slowly to market this year than ever before. Now, however, the cereal is reaching the millers and consumers. In the meantime the nation's surplus wheat has been sent to Europe.

Today there are approximately 30 bushels of corn for every American. This quantity is greater by five bushels than in former years.

Corn has become the nation's mainstay in the crisis of war.

Just as this cereal saved the first American colonists from famine on many occasions, just as it served as a staple food during the War of the Revolution and during the Civil War, King Corn has again come to the front in the nation's battle with autocracy.

Corn meal is finding greatly increased use in the making of ordinary white bread. Hundreds of housewives and many of the larger bakers are mixing 20 per cent. corn meal with wheat flour to make leavened bread. This kind of a mixture is worked and baked in the same recipes and with the same methods that apply to straight wheat bread.

Corn bread—using corn meal entirely—is gaining a greater popularity than ever before. Housewives are coming to realize that every pound of wheat saved in America means a pound of wheat released for shipment to the nations with which America is associated in the war.

There are a score of corn products that today possess unusual importance for Americans. Corn syrup for sweetening corn cakes and buckwheat cakes and for use in the kitchen instead of granulated sugar is one of the leading products made from corn.

Corn oil, excellent for frying and for every other purpose filled by salad oils, is appearing on the market in large quantities. It comes from the germ of the corn.

MADE-IN-GERMANY LIES CIRCULATED IN CANADA

Canada is also having trouble with Made-in-Germany lies calculated to hinder Canadian food conservation according to an official statement received from the Canadian food controller by the United States food administration.

The stories bothering Canada are of the same general character as those the United States food administrator recently denounced in this country, such as the ridiculous salt and blueing famine fakes and the report that the government would seize housewives' stocks of home canned goods.

The Canadian food controller estimates that when the people listen to and pass on such stories, each one has the power of destruction that lies in a battalion of soldiers.

"Stories without even a vestige of foundation have been scattered broadcast," said the Canadian statement. "Nor have they come to life casually. They have started simultaneously in different parts of the country and in each instance have been calculated to arouse public indignation.

"They are insidious, subtle, persistent. Bit by bit they dissipate public trust, the great essential in the work of food control.

"It lies with every individual to forbear from criticism; to refrain from passing on the vagrant and harmful story, and thus the more effectively to co-operate in work which is going to mean more than the majority of people yet realize."

THE UNITED STATES FOOD ADMINISTRATION SAYS:

There is no royal road to food conservation. We can only accomplish this by the voluntary action of our whole people, each element in proportion to its means. It is a matter of equality of burden; a matter of minute saving and substitution at every point in the 20 000.000 kitchens, on the 20,000 000 dinner tables, and in the 2,000,000 manufacturing, wholesale and retail establishments of the country.

WESTMINSTER DEFEATS FAST ELLWOOD TEAM

The basket ball game in the college gym last Saturday night was a surprise to most of the fans who witnessed the drubbing that the local men handed to the visiting Collegians. This fast Ellwood City team was defeated for the first time during the current season, by our men after running up such scores as 63 to 23 in previous games this year; their score with New Castle Y. M. C. A. was 37 to 36, in favor of Ellwood. The game was a fast one and although from the start the team work of the visitors showed up rather poorly at times when contrasted with ours, yet their spurts of dribbling and fast passing three times raised their total up to that run up by our men. Center Armstrong and Loghry at forward were the basket hangers for Westminster, while Fox was the individual basket star for the visitors:

The lineup:

Westminster—51		Ellwood—23
FG
Loghry, 8	F	Fox, 5
Wierman, 6	F	Stahl
Armstrong, 9	C	Nicklas, 1
Cummings, 1	G	Dambach, 2
Lewis	G	McKinney

Fouls—Armstrong, 3 out of 7; Dambach, 5 out of 7; Fox, 2 out of 4. Substitutions: Trimble for Wierman, Wierman for Cummings, Dambach for McKinney, Black for Dambach.

Jess Willard May Fight Again

Today it was put up to Jess Willard, the heavyweight champ as to whether he'd meet a new title aspirant or bring out some new alibi for not meeting the boxers who are wanting to try for the heavyweight crown. The aspirant who wantas to meet Jack Johnston's conquerer is Fred Fulton, whose promoter has been trying for some time to arrange a match between his man and Willard, who has as yet managed to evade a match which might endanger his claim to his ringwide crown.

If it comes off the bout will, in all probability, be a 45-round affair fought either in Reno or Carson City, Nev. To make the offer worth the consideration of the mitt king he will be given a purse of $75,000 if he accepts.

Fred Fulton must go slow as he is scheduled for two big bouts in the near future, one being with Moran, on Feb. 22, and in case he comes off these bouts with a lowered rep, Willard may take that as a chance to get out of meeting him. Jess has used about all the meanse possible to keep from ghting up till now and may not try to find a reason for not meeting his challenger.

The bout will be fought to a decison.

COLLEGES IN EAST ARE DROPPING ATHLETICS

In four eastern states eighteen colleges have dropped athletics on account of the war. These colleges in Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey and West Virginia, have answered the College of the City of New York in response to letters sent out to gather statistics on the athletic situation.

Twenty-two colleges have done away with all pre-season football coaching and nearly all Eastern schools have cut the periods down to a large extent. Twenty-three colleges have eliminated training tables and in only the three others which were written to were the training tables to be kept up and then only for football.

BASKET BALL TEAM ON THREE-DAY TRIP

Starting on Thursday morning the basketball team left for a series of games to be played on three consecutive nights, starting tonight (Thursday). The team will go up against the Hiram team at Hiram. Coach Lambie does not fear much from these opponents as they have not done very much this season. The Youngstown Collegians will be the opponents for Friday night. Not much is known about this team. The hardest game will be on Saturday night with the speedy crew from the East Liberty Y. M. C. A. This team has won many victories this season, and our men will fight hard to bring home the bacon.

The probable lineup is as follows:

Forwards—Loghry and Wierman.
Center—Armstrong
Guards—Cummings and Lewis
Substitute—Trimble

By R. F. '18

The earth was bleak and cold and drear
King Winter held us in his hand;
It was the season of the year
When fleecy snow obscures the land.

The students, with ambition blessed,
At usual arduous tasks employed,
At Nocturn's advent were impressed:
Our gas supply was null and void!

The housewives 'gan to hustle round
To bring out lamps once filled with oil:
And in the lab., Dean Freeman found
Three burners wouldn't water boil.

From out the midst of inky gloom,
Like wild beasts roaring in their lair,
Came shriek, and roar, and howl, and boom—
Some groping one fell o'er a chair.

In other houses filled with frost,
Where gas was solely used for heat,
The chattering, shivering students tossed
In bed, hot irons at head and feet.

The Hillside girls, with comfort blessed,
Replied, "All's Well!" at call of roll,
And at ten bells had sought their rest—
With McMorris shoveling in the coal.

When Dawn came peeping o'er the hills,
And woke us up to thoughts of class,
On rising up with groans and chills,
We found we had, Oh joy!! some gas.

My tale is done; thus ends the strain,
This moral truth let it impart:
From base ingratitude refrain,
For blessings, lest they soon depart.

Not Impressed With Lamp.

A little girl was told the story of Aladdin and his magic lamp. Later she was shown pictures of it. The spirit of the lamp was most hideous, with a large mouth and ugly horns. After a prolonged stare the child said: "Gee, I'd never wish for that."

Doctor's Advice.

"The doctor says he will let me know in a week whether I am going to live or not." "And what does he expect you to do in the meantime?" "He told me to take a complete rest and above all not to worry about anything." —Life.

The Purpose of Training For the Gospel Ministry

The Greatest Mission in the World Require Special Preparation and the Results are More Than Worth the Effort

"It is to provide for the Church an adequate supply and succession of able and faithful ministers, workmen that need not be ashamed.

"It is to unite in those who shall sustain the ministerial office, religion and literature, believing that religion without learning, or learning without religion, must ultimately prove injurious.

"It is to provide for the Church men who shall be able to defend her faith against infidels, and her doctrines against heretics.

"It is to bring to the service of the Church genius and talent, when united with piety, however poor or obscure may be their possessor, by furnishing, as far as possible, the means of education and support without expense to the student.

"It is to raise up missionaries to the heathen; men who are prepared to make every sacrifice, to endure every hardship, to render every service which the promotion of pure and undefiled religion may require."

Scope of Instruction

Nearly all seminaries have an outline of courses that is approximately the same. This comprises—1. The Contents of the Bible 2. Exegetical methods sufficient for the best use of scholarly aids to its exposition. 3. The original languages of the Bible—Greek and Hebrew. 4. The History of the Church, including its organization and doctrine. 5. The principles of Christian ethics 6. Systematic doctrinal theology 7. The relations of Christian truth to the science and philosophy of the day. 8. The principles of Church policy. 9. The government and discipline of the particular church in which the student expects to labor. 10. Methods of religious education. 11. The leading social problems of the day with suggested solutions. 12. Constant practice in the making and delivery of sermons. 13. Training in voice production and culture. 14. The conduct of public worship.

Since it has pleased the Father to save the world with the foolishness of preaching it is fitting that the seminaries bend their energies to the training of effective preachers. There is place in the various activities of the church for organizers, scholars, writers and sociologists, but the need is greatest for the preacher, the man of vision who can express in uplifting language the glories which his soul has seen. For this training provision is made in afternoon sessions in which the faculty and student body listen to and criticise the three men whose turn it is to be speakers of the day. With this exception all Seminary recitation work is confined to the morning between the hours of 8:30 and 12:10, leaving afternoon and evening free to exhaust the treasures of the various libraries. "Muscular Christianity" is not wanting, tennis, swimming, skating and basketball being favorite sports. The foundation of many deep, lasting friendships is laid during the three years' course. Living with high ideals and among most congenial associates the "joy of life" becomes a very concrete thing to the theological student.

The Pittsburgh Seminary was founded in 1825 and since that time has trained some fourteen hundred men for the ministry of the gospel. Its present enrollment numbers sixty-five. The faculty includes five active and two emeritus professors, men of the highest character and ability.

If earthly fame, honor, and fortune are not the chief ends of man the seminary, with its splendid equipment, should have more students in training for the work that is most genuinely worth while. "God has a million worlds that do his bidding but only here and there a man."

Anyone interested in theological training or considering the ministry for some time in the future, or having in mind an interested party, is invited to communicate, along these lines, with "Sem Four" Box 71, 616 W. No. Ave. Pittsburgh, Pa.

HAPPY CROWD ENJOYS SLED LOAD

Nine happy couples enjoyed a sled load to the home of J. P. McKnight '20, at East Brook last Saturday evening. The weather was just right for such an outing and a good time was reported by all who went.

The crowd was chaperoned by Miss Clark.

Golden Wedding Anniversary

A half century of wedded life will be rounded out next Monday, January 28, when Dr. and Mrs. R. G. Ferguson will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary at their home in New Wilmington. On January 28th, 1868, the "Grand Old Man of Westminster" was united in marriage, and has since uninterruptedly led a tranquil, calm and peaceful state of wedded happiness. His life and work has been an incentive and an inspiration to thousands, and in his domestic life he has exhibited the same admirable traits which marked his public career. Today Dr. Ferguson stands forth as the shining example of the benefits of a Christian life, and has proved that marriage is by no means a failure.

This happy anniversary will be marked by a family reunion at the home of Dr. Ferguson, and a reception in the evening from 7 to 9 p. m. The countless friends and admirers of Dr. and Mrs. R. G. Ferguson unite in extending to them heartiest congratulations on their wedded life and earnest wishes for the long-continued duration of their noble lives.

DR. ATKINSON SPEAKS IN COLLEGE CHAPEL

On Thursday morning Dr. Atkinson, who is holding evangelistic services at the Second Church was present at the college chapel service, and made a short address to the students. Dr. Atkinson said that students of the church college should not undervalue the training which they get there, a training which is, in a great many respects, worth more than that obtained at a university. He spoke of the privilege which those enjoy who can be in college now, and of the responsibility which that privilege brings, and he deplored the attitude on the part of so many, an attitude which made it seem like the part of a slacker, for a man to stay in school under present conditions, when in reality the man who remains is in the best possible position to be of service later, because of the education now being received.

U. S. BASE HOSPITAL TO GO OVER SOON

Westminster men who are with the U. S. Base Hospital Unit L, now in training at Atlanta, Ga., expect to sail within a week or ten days. The boys all report that they are feeling fine and are anxious to go over as soon as possible.

COLLEGE NIGHT AT THE SECOND U. P. CHURCH

Thursday evening was set apart as College Night at the Second U. P. Church, and a special section was reserved for the college students. At the beginning of the service a short time was given to songs and college yells from the college section. After the college demonstration and the usual song service, held prior to the talk of the evening, Dr. Atkinson announced his subject as, "The greatest thing in the world from the greatest text in the Word." The first was the love of God for mankind, and the verse John 3:16. To briefly outline the talk. Dr. Atkinson spoke of this verse as "the gospel in miniature, for the plan of redemption is marked out here. Its promise is all-inclusive—"whosoever believeth"—and he emphasized four characteristics of God's love. First, was the character of the love—it is unfailing, and higher than the higest type of human love, even higher than the love of the mother of her baby, which is the highest type of human love we know. One of the great evidences of God's love is His forgiveness of humanity's sins—a forgiveness which is complete and eternal. The second was the range of God's love—that it is the limitless; and the third the demonstration of His love in the sacrifice of His son for the salvation of humanity. The fourth was the design of the love and sacrifice. Negatively it was that we might not perish, and positively that we might have eternal life. And Dr. Atkinson ended with the words profoundly applicable to human need, and above all to the college student, "With all your getting, don't forget to get Christ's fullness into your heart."

Dr. Wallace to Address tthe Rotary Club

Dr. W. Charles Wallace has been asked to addres the Rotary Club of New Castle at its weekly luncheon in that city on next Monday, January 28. "Somewhere on the briny deep"

On board the ———

Dear Ones at Home:

When you receive this letter we will have arrived on the other side in safety

Yesterday we bade farewell to the people who have been so kind to us during the past few weeks. All the employes came out in the snow and waved handkerchiefs as we stepped on board. Just as our boat was leaving the docks a window in the administration building was raised and a large American flag was unfurled to the breeze.

We all had a feeling of sadness at the thought of leaving our native land, and yet all were smiling as we stepped on board the transport, which we trust will carry us safely to our destination. How I wish it were possible to tell you all about everything, but there is so little we can say. All our letters to you will be censored. We are not permitted to give out any information concerning our trip that would really be of interest so you will have to wait until I go back home.

December 16

Well, today, we had church services even though we were on shipboard. The service was conducted by three chaplains. Chaplain W. C. Press led us in a very helpful and inspiring prayer. At the close of the service "America" was sung with much enthusiasm. Spent a part of the afternoon on deck. The sea is very rough part of the time, but very few of our girls have been sea sick. As for me, I never felt better in my life, eat and sleep well; in fact it seems I cannot get enough to eat, have such a wonderful appetite.

There are four of us in our state room, all dandy girls, but none from our training school.

December 17.

Well, another day is gone. Thus far everything has been fine. Spent considerable time on deck today. The salt sea air seemes to make me feel fine. It is very cold, but I put on lots of heavy clothes and spend all the time I can outside. The wind blows the spray in our faces and it tastes very salty. Tonight it is very stormy and we surely are being "rocked in the cradle of the deep."

Haven't seen anything of our boys since coming on board, but think they are all here but about four, who were sick.

Thought Don might go over with us, but he isn't on board. How I hope he will get home before he comes across.

December 20.

Well, it is now several days since we left port. We have had a very interesting time, but that is about all I can tell now. Do not know how soon we will land or where we will land, but we will be safe when this is mailed, so when you receive it you will know all danger of the trip is over.

The ocean is grand, and this morning we saw the most beautiful rainbow. The other half that we cannot see on land is reflected on the water, making a perfect circle.

Only a few more days until Christmas. How I hope you can know that we are safely across by Christmas morning anyway, so that you can have a happier day. Don't worry about me ever, for I'm really enjoying the excitement. Haven't wished once that I hadn't started, although I'd like to be at home for Christmas.

Give my love to all my friends * * Until further notice, my address is U. S. Army Nurse Corps, Unit No. 31, American Expeditionary Forces, via, New York.

HARRIET ECKELS

Get your map and look up the village of Contrexville. It is at this town of some 1000 inhabitants that the Youngstown Hospital Unit is now located. Contrexville is situated in northeastern France, in the department of the Vosges 55 miles west of the fighting front, 35 miles west of Epinal, 45 miles southwest of Naney, and 70 miles south of famous VerdunBy reason of the close proximity to the battle front it is the supposition that Contrexville will be the permanent location of the unit.

Situated on the river Vair, Contrexville, since the early days of French history, has been a famous and fashionable health resort, chiefly because of the mineral waters at the edge of the town.

It is the belief of many here that the unit made the voyage from Southampton, England, where it first landed, across the English channel to Havre and journeyed diagonally across France to Contrexville.

Garvin Goes to Chillicothe

Jay Garvin, a member of the Senior class, left Thursday night for Camp Sherman at Chillicothe, Ohio, where he will enter the selective service training camp. In honor of his departure the members of the Crescent Club had a special dinner for him Wednesday night at the club house.

Garvin was captain of the Senior Basket Ball team and his absence will be keenly felt by that organization.

At a meeting of the letter men held in the lobby of the Tod House, before the Duquesne game, Lefty Loghry was unanimously elected basket ball captain for the balance of the season.

JUNIOR PLAY FRIDAY NIGHT

The annual Junior class play for the Argo will be given next Friday night in the Chapel. This play is not new to New Wilmington, as it was performed here a few years ago. It will be new, however, to all the students and without doubt will take well, as it includes in its cast such stellar actors as Helen Rogers in the role of town gossip and Dick Brandon as the town jack-of-alltrades. Jim Cummings bids fair to make a hit as the rejected country lover very emphatically denouncing the more fortunate Vance who displaces him in the affections of the heroine. Miss Sankey has been coaching the players for the past week, so everyone can be assured of a good production.

Miss MacLaggan in Pittsburgh

Miss MacLaggan, professor of Romance Languages, was in Pittsburgh on Saturday of last week for the purpose of having her picture taken for the Argo.

Friends of Charlotte Logan and Margaret Wylie entertained at a special table in honor of their birthday last Saturday evening. The table was decorated in rainbow colors.

Cribbing

With the approach of the mid-year examinations comes the problem which, perhaps, has confronted more college students than any other, namely that of cribbing. It is a question which each one has to meet and solve for himself. The temptation has come perhaps, at some time or another to each one to glance at the paper of another to recall a word or a formula which has escaped the mind for a moment, and how thoughtlessly do we yield to the temptation, knowing at the time that it is wrong.

No one admires or respects an acknowledged crook, yet the man who steals money or lands is no more of a thief than he who deliberately steals the ideas and thoughts of another. In this age of progress when individuals are money mad and struggling for advancement there is a tendency on every hand to exercise a laxer code of morals than formerly.

The college student perhaps is too prone to forget that the kind of a life he is leading here determine pretty largely his course of actions after college days are over He may believe that if he succeeds in slipping something over on the professors while here in school he will turn over a new leaf upon graduation and play a straight game. But can he do it? The chances are that it will be impossible for him to be anything but a crook the rest of his life.

Let us then give ourselves a square deal, and if in an examination we do not know a certain point, admit our ignorance rather than steal the idea from our neighbor.

Service Flag

Is Westminster proud of her sons who are in the service of their country? Students and faculty point with pride to the ever growing Roll of Honor, yet we do not care enough for the memory of these men to buy a service flag.

Every store, business house, shop, corporation and industry in the country is remembering its men by service flags, yet no effort has been made as yet by the college toward recognizing the men who have gone out from this institution to fight for the cause which we all hold so dear.

Surely the old college, which has given so liberally of her bravest and truest men cares enough for them to display a flag in memory of them.

Students and faculty, think it over, and may someone in the near future take the lead in raising a fund for the purpose of securing such a flag.

As a suggestion. Would it not be possible to use the balance of the Christmas Gift Fund for such a worthy cause?

All Have Faults.

Nothing will make us so charitable and tender to the faults of others as by self-examination thoroughly to know our own.—Fenelon.

For Sanitary Bakers.

A waxed paper baking board, a sheet of which can be discarded when soiled and immediately replaced with another under it, and also a waxed paper rolling pin, with a cardboard core, so that the covering may be thrown away in the interest of sanitary baking have been invented by a Connecticut woman.

Diplomatic.

Bobby (entertaining sister's beau)—"Effie told ma yesterday you was born to be a politician." Mr. Simpton—"A politician? Why does she think that?" Bobby—"That's what ma asked her, and she said because you can do so much talkin' without committing yourself."

Ideal Guestroom.

The guestroom need not be the best and sunniest room in the house, but it should be light and airy, and be so decorated and furnished as to be informal and homey. The ideal is to have a guestroom a little detached from the rooms which are occupied by the family. The bed should be the most comfortable bed procurable. If possible have twin beds.

Evangelistic Services Well Attended

The evangelistic services being conducted by Rev. Dr. Ralph Atkinson, have interested the entire community deeply and the big auditorium of the Second United Presbyterian Church has been filled at every meeting.

Dr. Atkinson is not only a great preacher, but his personality seems to take hold upon his audience and impress each one with the thought that a master workman is before them.

The meetings have been dominated by an earnestness of purpose, and the unusual characterizes each service. Always there is something new presented, and in such a way as to interest even the smallest children. In fact, Dr. Atkinson has paid a great deal of attention to the young folks throughout the entire series of meetings. And he has succeeded in bringing them into the spirit of the work.

The local ministers have been enthusiastic in their attendance and support. Not every town the size of New Wilmington will turn out a congregation of five or six hundred people, and from twelve to sixteen ministers, during the coldest weather we have had in thirty years.

An innovation of Monday evening was the presentation of a prize—one of the singing books—to the largest family represented. The prize went to the family of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Eckels.

Wednesday night was Church Night, and Dr. Atkinson preached on the story of Paul before Felix. During the sermon the evangelist took occasion to pay his respects to certain kinds of church music.

Friday night will be High School and Grammar School night, and the subject will be, "A Question That God Cannot Answer."

Sabbath will close the services. There will be three sermons, morning, afternoon and evening. In the morning there will be a union service, decided upon as a conservation measure by the pastors of the four churches. It is more than likely that these union services will be carried out during the cold weather, at least.

The morning text will be, "Friend, Not Burglar at the Door." In the afternoon at 3 o'clock there will be an important service—the Father and Son meeting, at which time Dr. Atkinson will preach on, "Play the Man."

At the closing service in the evening the subject will be, "A Momentous Question."

We had almost forgotten to pay a tribute to the preachers' quartet. Tuesday evening, Dr. Kirkbride, Rev. J. D. Barr, Rev. Clyde Matson, and Dr. Atkinson sang several selections to the great delight and enjoyment of everyone present.

Dr. Atkinson leaves New Wilmington Monday for Alliance, Ohio, where he will conduct evangelistic services. We bespeak for him great success there.

James Lee Gilmore, '08 is now at Fort McPherson, Atlanta, Ga. as a surgical aid in the Medical Corps. He is in the same company with several other Westminster boys.

Was No Slacker.

A story is told of a lady whose son had served during the Spanish war, in which she told of the different battles and engagements he had been in, and she finished up by saying that she knew all about war, as her son had fought in the Battle of Vanilla in the Halloween Islands.

Maneuvering of Wings.

Riches make to themselves wings and fly away. So sometimes does love. So sometimes does wisdom. How would it do to take all possible precaution by clipping the wings?—Exchange.

Minister Without Portfolio.

The phrase "minister without portfolio" means a member of a ministry or cabinet to whom no special department is assigned. The phrase is used only in England, and we have no corresponding phrase in this country, notes an international authority. Prior to December, 1916, the British cabinet consisted of the political chiefs or heads of the principal government departments, and exceeded 20 in number.

Basket Ball Team Plays Well On The First Trip

The basket ball team returned Monday from a three day trip with one victory and two defeats. On Thursday night the fast Hiram college five was taken into camp on their own court in one of the most exciting and interesting games ever staged on the Ohio college floor.

Armstrong played a bangup game at center and scored 12 of Westminster's 31 points. Lewis and Cummings at guard also played good basket ball and succeeded in breaking up many long passes which would have resulted in baskets for our opponents.

The team went to Youngstown on Friday where they met the fast Duquesne A. C. five on the Y. M. C. A. floor. Soller, who played center for the Youngstown team, was conceded by the sporting writers last season to be the best all round basket ball man in Ohio. The big ex-Hiram star was well taken care of by Armstrong, who only allowed him 5 baskets in the entire game.

For the first few minutes of play it looked as if the game was going to be a close one. but the Dukes pulled together and gradually walked away from the Blue and White quintet.

Loghry played a fast game and connected with the basket a number of times.

The real game of the trip, however, was played Saturday night on the East Liberty Y. M. C. A. floor where the locals stacked up against the fast Y. team. Although the score was rather one sided the game was a fast and interesting one for the spectators. The score at the end of the first half being 29-18 in favor of the fast Y team. Wierman's foul shooting during the first period was perfect, he getting 10 out of 10 trys. The former Sharon Hi man was the star of the evening, getting 17 out of 25 points

Side Lights on the Trip.

Jimmie Cummings, in the Y. M. C. A. at Hiram—"Say, Lefty, where is the grill room here?"

Army learned some new cuss words from some of the Hiram would--be hard guys.

Lewis and Wierman met an old friend at the Duquesne game. Ask Jack how to prounounce the lad's name.

Tech introduced the fellows to all the prominent men in Pittsburgh except the mayor, and he was out of the city on Saturday.

Hiram staged some big excitement for the fellows in the way of a fire in the wee small hours.

Bob Hamilton, ex--20, came over from New Castle Friday night to see us trim the Dukes.

Tech had one of the waitresses in the Tod House so badly fussed that she dropped a whole tray of dishes.

Bob Cummings, '13, and Hap Zehner, ex-20, saw the East Liberty game Saturday night.

The team met a man Saturday night who knew George Neal; in fact, he knew him quite well.

Tech told his Henry story no less than 49 times on the trip.

Girls' Varsity Basketball

The college girls eagerly waited for the opening of the basket ball season this year, and when it came they were ready for work. More interest is being shown this year, which can be seen by the number that are trying out for the varsity team. Those of last year's varsity team that will play this year are: Lillian McDonough, Aurel Anderson, Lois McClure and Elizabeth Matheny. Margaret Noble, last year's captain, will be missed from her position as side center this season. The varsity team elected Lillian McDonough captain of the team and the squad chose Olive Hickman as manager.

Director Lambie assisted by Miss Mary Shaffer, will soon have a team on the floor of which the college may well be proud. Saturday afternoon a team picked from the squad will play a practise game with the local high school. There will be no special lineup and the substitutions will be made from the following squad: Lillian McDonough, Aurel Anderson, Lois McClure, Elizabeth Matheny, Anna McBride, Olive Hickman, Gladys Krause, Dorothy Holliday, Jean Campbell, Olive Braham, Grace Springer, Mildred Allison, Edith Petrie, Marian Dannheiser and Elma Shaw

INTER-CLASS BASKET BALL SEASON OPENS

The Senior-Junior Game

On last Saturday afternoon the interclass basketball season was opened by the Senior-Junior game. Both teams are practically new, both sides putting on the floor new men. The Seniors lost their players of last year's team to the war, while most of those playing for the Juniors last year are on the Varsity squad this winter. Both teams snowed much lack of practise as neither squad had had more than one or two real practises. Garvin starred for the Seniors getting all of their points:

Seniors—12		Juniors—21
Goals		Goals
Garvin, 3	F	Shott, 2
Ashbrook	F	Dunn, 3
Cummings	C	Vance, 3
Schenck	G	Brandon, 1
Kerr	G	Lawther

Fouls—Garvin, 6 out of 11; Shott, 2 out of 4; Dunn 1 out of 3

Substitutions, Martin for Shott Hart for Lawther

The Sophomore-Freshman Game

The second game of the afternoon was a surprise to most spectators and to the players as well. It was generally supposed that the Sophs would have a fairly easy time with the first year men but the latter showed some fine team work as well as good shooting. Johnston was the individual star for the Sophomores, scoring all the field goals for his side.

Sophs—18		Freshmen—28
Goals		Goals
Gibson	F	Ashton, 3
Johnston, 6	F	Anderson, 3
Conway	C	Spencer, 3
Miller,	G	Butler
Wiggins	G	McMorris

Fouls—Wiggins, 6 out of 11, Johnston, 0 out of 2, Anderson, 0 out of 1; Ashton, 8 out of 15. Substitutions—Foster for Miller, Crowe for Butler.

NO NEW COAT FOR BINDLE

Moths Play Leading Role in Seasonable Tragedy, All in Favor of the Lucky Wifey.

"I wonder whether I must wear that last winter's coat again this season," mused Bindle as he dragged the trunk out of the closet and into the light of day.

"I am afraid you will!" exclaimed Mrs. Bindle. "That's a perfectly good coat. I don't remember seeing you in one that looked nicer on you. It always had such stylish lines. It made you look so boyish, don't you know!"

"No, I don't know," replied Bindle sadly. "I had my eye on one of those new fashioned military effects—with the belt attached and all that."

"Why, my dear!" said Mrs. Bindle, "a man in civil life has no excuse for trying to look like a drum major. If he wants a military cut, there is just one place to do it."

"I get you!" said Bindle. "And if I have to wear that last year's overcoat again, I'd just as soon join the army—a whole lot sooner."

Bindle raised the lid of the trunk and fell back in astonishment.

"Look! Wife, come quick!" he shouted. "Ah, here is some of your efficiency for you. Gaze downward at this thriving moth village in our little trunk of winter things. How did this happen?"

"Don't know. Can't see how a moth got in—the trunk was locked."

"One of 'em had a key, I suppose," said Bindle. "Didn't I tell you last fall to put some tobacco in the trunk for the moths?"

"Yes, dear, but I wasn't sure of the kind of tobacco they liked. You didn't say whether smoking or chewing."

"There you are," said Bindle, bringing forth a near-seal coat of his wife's from the depths. "Your best garment shot full of holes. I figured that coat would last you for the next seven years. That's what you said when you bought it."

"But there is a new style on the market this year! I'm just as well pleased that the moths made merry with this one. I really want a coat of the new aviatrix model."

Each time that Bindle came up for air he brought something else that the moths had feasted on. Mrs. Bindle's two winter suits were peek-a-boos. Her sweater jackets and sport coats were reduced to skeletonized form. The last thing to come out of the ill-fated trunk was Bindle's last winter's overcoat. He held it up—perfect!

"Thank goodness for that!" cried Mrs. Bindle. "I'm so glad it was my things those awful moths ate instead of yours, Meredith. I'll have to get an entire new outfit and you, lucky boy, can wear that coat another season."—Chicago News.

Youngsters Love Soldiers.

The old saying that "all the world loves a lover" might be changed these military days to "every kid loves a soldier," or his uniform, at least. Just watch the little boys and girls as a soldier passes. Those admiring glances would not be bestowed on a "slacker." Here are two cases in point, cites the Indianapolis News:

"I jus' lov ou soders," said three-year-old Charles Ullrich, son of Fred Ullrich, Big Four agent at Shelbyville, as he entwined his arms about the neck or Sergeant Ross Reed, of Greensburg. Reed, with several Decatur county soldiers from Camp Taylor, were on the way to Greensburg, by way of Shelbyville, and the sergeant after buying a ticket had leaned up against the railing of the ticket office when the three-year-old hugged him.

A second illustration occurred when Sergeant Reed reached Greensburg on the way to his parents' home. He was confronted by a tiny soldierly figure that saluted with all the grace and courtesy of a trained soldier. The sergeant exchanged the salute, and then learned the tribute had been paid by six-year-old Henry Jerman, son of Prof. E. J. Jerman, superintendent of Greensburg's city schools.

Why They Stopped.

One morning recently the children of the Indianapolis Orphans' home were assembled in the auditorium. They were patriotic and started to sing "The Finest Flag That Flies." Their leader and pianist had them sing the first verse. They did that so well she asked for the second stanza. They started. Suddenly every child stopped—not a sound escaped their lips. The leader, very much surprised and chagrined at the sudden, unexpected silence, said, "What is the matter?"

In one accord they replied, "We can't sing that next line."

She looked at the words and the next line read, "Dear old Germany."

"Certainly not," she told them, "we will leave that entire stanza out." She had not thought of finding anything like that in an American flag song. It had been written before the world war.—Indianapolis News.

Get Oil From Grain.

A discovery by Germans is that for extracting oil in quantity from grain. By a process called degerminating, a small germ resembling a hen's egg in composition, designed for the nutriment of the young plant, is extracted. Distilled, this germ yields a very good table oil, and at the same time a raw ingredient for margarine and an albuminous powder, which latter contains three and one-half times the nourishment of meat. Twenty grammes are equal to one egg, and already it has been put to use as an egg substitute. All large mills in Germany have introduced degermination, and the germs are being turned into oil, and albumin powder.

No "Cyclones" on Land.

Of late years it has become common to call every violent storm a "cyclone," which is plainly erroneous. A cyclone never occurs except on the ocean, asserts a weather observer, because a cyclone is a violent, whirling storm of great area, and no such storm could occur on land. The so-called "cyclones" of the West are "tornadoes," which are whirling storms of great violence, but contracted in area. Tornadoes have been known whose greatest width did not exceed a few rods, and those which exceed several miles in width are very unusual.

Freak Newspapers.

One of the most remarkable freak newspapers ever printed was the Luminara, published in Madrid. It was printed with ink containing phosphorus so that the paper could be read in the dark. Another curiosity was called the Regal, printed with non-poisonous ink on thin sheets of dough, which could be eaten, thus furnishing nourishment for body as well as mind. Le Bien-Etre promised those who subscribed for forty years a pension and free burial.

Dr. and Mrs. R. G. Ferguson Celebrate Fiftieth Anniversary

Faculty, Students, and Community Offer Congratulations Last Monday Evening

In the company of their chidren and grandchildren, Dr. and Mrs. R. G. Ferguson, on Monday, celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage.

The happy union of R. G. Ferguson, civil war veteran, and Miss Emma Huber, took place at Gettysburg, January 28, 1868, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Dr. Hay, of the Lutheran church.

We do not have the particulars of the earlier life of this estimable couple It is enough for us to know of the long years of pleasant relationship to our local community. Dr. Ferguson came to us as president-elect of Westminster College, and while his life and work has been wholly identified with the activities of our college, we, as a people, at this time choose to think of the lovable and splendid unselfish charactero fo hte family as a whole, and of the influence of their lives upon the community.

Because of the necessary absence of Dr. Ferguson who had been called to New Castle, the family dinner took place, not at the noon hour, but at six in the evening. There were present at this joyous occasion, besides Dr. and Mrs. Ferguson, their sons, Rev. Dr. Huber Ferguson and Mrs. Ferguson, of Washington, Pa., and Rev. and Mrs. James Ferguson of Bellevue, and the children of both families, with the exception of one grandson, Kraeer Ferguson, now in the service of his country.

In the evening from 7 to 9 o'clock, neighbors and friends took occasion to call and pay their respects, and only the fact that our people generally did not know of the auspicious event, prevented scores of others from taking a part in the post congratulatory part of the celebration.

The Girls' Bible Class of the college, in which Dr. Ferguson has always taken a special interest, were present in goodly numbers, and it may be mentioned that they contributed greatly to the grace and gayety of the occasion with a magnificent gift of flowers.

Muskingum Cancels

The basket ball game scheduled with Muskingum College for February 23 at New Concord, has been called off. The Muskingum manager gives as his reason for cancelling the game, the fact that three of their stars recently enlisted, but it looks like a case of cold feet due to the defeat the Blue and White five handed to the fast Hiram college team a couple of weeks ago.

Manager Dickson is trying to arrange a game with Otterbein University for the date originaly filled by Muskingum.

Art Shields Now in France.

Local friends of Arthur Shields '18 recently learned of his safe arrival in France on Christmas morning, having sailed from an eastern port on Thanksgiving.

Art reports a very stormy voyage on the way over and several men on his ship were washed overboard. So great secrecy was exercised in conection with the sailing of the vessel that even the captain of the transport did not know for several hours after its departure, where he was to land. The former local man says that he is in just as comfortable quarters as he had at Fort Ben Harrison and that the U. S. is taking good care of the men doing service in France.

French Club Presents Play

The members of Le Cercle Francais were delightfully entertained Wednesday evening with the presentation of a French play by some of the advanced students of the language.

The parts were all well taken and reflect great credit on the thoroughness of the work required of her students by Miss MacLaggan.

The title of the play was "Un Bureau Telegraphique."

Lucia Canderolles, Elizabeth Matheny

"L'Employe", John Hickman.

Juniors Give Play For Benefit Of the Argo to Packed House

Class Members Produce "Only a Country Girl" With Excellent Cast of Characters

The annual Junior play for the benefit of the Argo, was given Friday evening, Feb. 1 at 8:15 o'clock in the college chapel. The play was the most successful of its kind given for some time and it was handled by a most able cast.

Harriet Graham as Flora Goodwin, "Only a Country Giry," and Clair Vance as Philip Burleigh her lover, were very interesting characters. Richard Brandon as Bijah Finn, a jack-of-all trades, and Helen Rodgers, as Mrs. Peasley, the village gossip, were most amusing in these roles so characteristic of small towns. The part of the rejected lover was taken by James Cummings, who tho he incurred the sympathy of the audience, seemed to play his part as if from experience along that line.

The two first and last acts were laid at Silverbrook Farm, the home of the Goodwins and the scene of the third act was that of the Burleigh residence in New York City.

The following were the characters:

Philip Burleigh, from New York ..Claire Vance

Dave Weston, a young farmer ..James Cummings

Amos Goodwin, owner of Silver Brook farm....Edmund Shott

Bijah Finn, a Jack-of-all-trades, ..Richard Brandon

Thompson, servant of Burleigh's .. ..Hugh Hart

Flora Goodwin, only a country girl———— Harriet Graham

Mrs. Burleigh, Philip's mother, ...Gladys Rose

Grace Burleigh, his sister ..June Grove

Sarah Goodwin, wife of Amos, ..Etha Toy

Mrs. Peasley, who never had a minute to spare..Helen Rodgers

Delia Slocum, hired girl at the form..... Esther Cummings

Obituary

Residents of this community were startled Sabbath morning by the announcement of the sudden death of J. J. Weber, which occurred about 11:30 o'clock Saturday night, shortly after he had returned from New Castle. Mr. Weber, who was employed as a department manager by the Brown & Hamilton Company of New Castle, rode to New Wilmington with J. W. Hartwell, and while enroute complained several times of pains in his chest. He had barely gotten inside the house when he collapsed, and within a few moments was dead. Death is thought to have been caused by the bursting of a blood vessel.

The deceased was a son of J. C. and the late Margaret Weber of Sabula, Pa., and had resided in this community for a number of years. For several years he was superintendent of buildings and grounds of Westminster College, resigning to accept a position with the Brown & Hamilton Company of New Castle.

Mr. Weber was a member of Neshannock Presbyterian church and of Neshannock Lodge I. O. O. F.

He is survived by his wife Clara Allsworth Weber and three children, Margaret, Clara Marie, and Robert. Also by his father, J. C. Weber and his stepmother, Mrs. Flora Weber, and two brothers, Elmer, at Camp Dix, New Jersey and Fred at home.

Funeral services were held on Tuesday afternoon conducted by Dr. S. A. Kirkbride. The Brown & Hamilton Co., of New Castle and the employes of that firm were represented at the services and sent beautiful baskets of flowers. Among the other floral tributes were those sent by Dr. and Mrs. W. Charles Wallace. Both the Westminster College faculty and students were represented at the funeral. Interment was made in Neshannock cemetery.

Mrs. Jean A. Mehard

Mrs. Jean A. Mehard, wife of Attorney Charles E. Mehard, died at her home in New Castle, last Saturday.

She had been in ill health for some time, although her condition did not become serious until about three weeks ago. Mrs. Wilson was born in North Side, Pittsburgh, and was the daughter of William and Emily C. Wilson of that city. She was a member of the United Presbyterian Church and attended Westminster College for several years.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon, conducted by Rev. S. L. Lanning and Dr. R. G. Ferguson. Dr. W. Charles Wallace represented Westminster at the funeral services

REVIVAL SERVICES CLOSE LAST SABBATH EVENING

The revival services, conducted by Dr. Ralph Atkinson, in the Second U. P. Church, came to a close last Sabbath evening. Those in charge of the meetings express themselves as well pleased with the work done. The contributions amounted to $280, exclusive of the expenses, which were paid by the congregation of the Second Church.

SOPHOMORES WIN IN ANNUAL DEBATE

The annual Freshman-Sophomore debate was held in the college chapel last Saturday evening, January 26. The proposition for debate was: "Resolved, That Federal legislation should be enacted providing for the compulsory arbitration of industrial disputes. Dr. Wallace acted as chairman of the meeting, which was called to order at 7:45. Both sides presented their arguments in a clear forceful and logical manner and the speeches were well received by the large audience in attendance. The Freshman class upheld the affirmative side, and the Sophomore the negative. At the conclusion of the rebuttal arguments, the chairman announced that the decision of the judges showed two votes for the negative and one for the affirmative, and declared the representatives of the Sophomore class winners. Dr. Louis K. Oppitz, Prof. J. A. Shott, and Prof. Walter E. Rodgers acted as judges for the debate

TO OFFER FOOD CONSERVATION COURSE

In response to the appeal by the government for all the colleges of the country to offer food conservation courses this semester, the faculty committee on Courses has decided to offer this subject.

Dr. Wallace received a telegram some time ago from Food Administrator Hover asking if Westminster was willing to cooperate in the government scheme President Wallace immediately wired to Washington that the college administration was back of every move toward the speedy termination of the war.

The outline as suggested by the U. S. Food Administration suggests three courses, but it is likely that only one will be attempted here this year.

The course will be under the direction of Prof. Walter E. Rogers of the Biology department, and will consist of two weekly lectures, based upon material furnished by the government.

The general theme for the semester work will be the "General Geographic and Economic Phases of the Food Situation.

The course is open to both men and women of the Senior and Junior classes and its purpose is to train leaders who can go out into their communities and educate the masses in the conservation of food during thewar.

Y. W. C. A. Meeting.

The Y. W. C. A. held its regular meeting Tuesday evening in the Hillside parlors. On account of Miss Lois McClure's inability to lead the meeting because of a sprained ankle, Miss Margaret Noble conducted the meeting.

Second Semester

When college opens on Monday, February 4th a new semester will be ushered in. To many students, especially Seniors, it will mean that college days are drawing to a close. This should be a sobering thought when we realize that opportunities for acquiring knowledge in the class rooms of those who have spent years of preparation, will soon be a thing of the past.

How are we going to make use of our time this semester, should be the question of everyone who is interested in acquiring an education. And we are interested in an education, our very presence in an institution of this kind implies that we are here to learn.

The records on the professor's class rolls are clean: it is up to each individual student to see to it that the grade on the books at the end of the semester is a good one. One often hears the complaint on the part of the student that the fault lies with the professor if he gets a low grade. But is this the truth? We have as good a faculty as can be found in an institution the size of Westminster anywhere. It is made up of men and women who are specialists in their lines of work and who have devoted a life time in the preparation of themselves in teaching. They are interested in each student. This is where a small college has the advantage over a larger one—the faculty can come in more direct contact with the student body. Then, too, the members of the faculty are chosen not only on account of their scholastic standing, but their Christian character is investigated Hence we have a God fearing, honest, fair-minded faculty, willing to meet a student half way and help him all they can.

Therefore, it is up to every undergraduate to make the most of each minute of the few remaining months it is our privilege to remain beneath the sacred portals of dear old Westminster.

Men in the Service

Nearly every day sees the enlistment of some graduate or former student of Westminster. Already we have about twenty men in various branches of the service in France, as well as a much larger number in training on American soil. We are proud of these men and we want to honor their memory. There is being prepared in the college office at the present time a list of all those who have gone out from Westminster into the service of their country.

It is impossible for the office to get information about every single individual unless the students and faculty co-operate in the work. Already quite a number of names have been added to the list thru information volunteered by students. This is keenly appreciated and any one who knows about any former Westminster man, whether he graduated or not will be heartily welcomed by the editor if he gives him this information.

It is the purpose of the Holcad to publish in the near future a complete list of the names of men in the service, and the offices held by them, hence any news will be appreciated.

President Campbell Addresses Council

The following news item will be of interest to Westminster people in view of the fact that it comes from Prof. W. W. Campbell, head of the Department of Music.

Before entering upon regular business of the evening, President W. W. Campbell read a number of recommendations prepared by himself as an outline of the work now before that body. It is an interesting and instructive document, containing many ideas of constructive principle. We give herewith a summary of the same:

Fellow Councilmen:

"In taking up the public affairs of the borough, there are a number of matters that demand our immediate and careful attention. As a council, it is not our duty merely to transact such business as chances by routine to come our way, but it is our duty as the official governing body of this borough to create business that has for its aim and purpose the general welfare of the public, the advancement of our town, and the permanent improvment of community interests. We have not been chosen to this office by our good towns men only for the sake of having a complete council in compliance with the law, but have been placed in this responsible position as guardians of the public interests where guardianship is needed, and for the advancement of these public and private interests where possible. In short, we are a business body. We have accepted our office and given our sacred oath to the diligent performance of our duty. Just in proportion as we regard our word, respect our oath and our inner self, will we attend regularly the Council meetings and perform with vigilance and energy our part. In this particular every member will classify himself

The Budget System

"The budget system for controlling business institutions is rapidly gaining in business life. Let us say that the budget system has been installed in every successful business or institution; for only by this system can a business firm or institution systematically regulate its expenditures in proportion to its income.

Statement of Indebtedness

In keeping with this recommendation I am asking each committee to bring to council on the first Tuesday night of next month such recommendations for improvements and plans for expansion as it desires executed this year and the amount of money each will require to complete its plans. I am asking that the treasurer and our borough solicitor act as a committee to bring to us at our next meeting, a report in definite figures of our indebtedness to date, of our probable income from all sources for the current year an estimate of our regular obligations in the way of salaries, accruing interest, and regular monthly expenditures, and an estimate of our surplus or net resources from which we can draw funds to carry out our formulated plans.

To Protect Paving

"We have within our borough approximately two miles of most excellent street paving. It is due each property holder who subscribed for this incomparable improvement to our village as well as to the borough's advantage, that this paving be protected to the extreme by proper ordinance, prohibiting the running or moving of traction engines or large motor vehicles of any sort over our improved streets, by the use of cleats, spikes, ice picks, or heavy chains on any wheel or wheels of said engines or motor vehicles, and requiring that the surfaces of all such wheels be smooth before such traction engine or heavy motor trucks or vehicles can be driven over our improved streets. Shall we not protect our own improvements that have recently cost our citizens approximately $100,000 by such ordinance

South Market Street Paving

"The joining of our two pieces of paving on South Market street should be done this summer, either by paving or macadam. The general usefulness of our present improved streets is lessened by this unimproved section—a section that is proverbial for its mud in season.

"The concrete road from our Borough line on South New Castle street to New Castle will be completed this summer. This borough should take steps for connecting our own borough paving with this highway, either by paving New Castle street from Neshannock avenue south to the borough line or by improving some cross street from South Market and Furnace Hill so as to make it possible for motor vehicles to come or go from our village at any season of the year.

Sidewalks Are Dangerous

The condition of our sidewalks today is dangerous. A number of sidewalks need repairs. Let us bring them to proper grade, properly improved and made safe for the public.

"A record of all permissions for sidewalks and the grade given should be spread upon the minutes of the Council for future reference. The property owner needs this protection, as well as the Council.

"We need good uniform street crossings on every unimproved street. The borough has ample material for this improvement on hands.

Frozen Water Pipes

"Many of our citizens have been inconvenienced the past few weeks and the health of the public jeopardized by the freezing of the water pipes of our public water system. It is evident that these pipes are too near the surface at these particular places for zero weather We foresee the possibility of frozen pipes that might jeopardize our fire protection. Furthermore, when a citizen has done away with his primitive sanitary conditions and installed modern conveniences in the home, a water company, for sanitary reasons, if for no moral reasons, should consider it a moral privilege, as well as a legal and business obligation to protect its conduits at any temperature. We neglect our public duty when we wink at such serious situations.

"The ordinance already in effect, requiring the installation of modern conveniences in all homes within the Borough should be impartially enforced during the coming summer months.

"Is an all-night lighting system possible? Several serious anlmost fatal acdents happened this past year, owing to this very shortcoming of ours

We need a uniform street lighting system from borough line to borough line on all streets.

The Public Health

Just a word on conditions that affect our general health situation: Are our fire plugs flushed regularly as required by law?

"Are our public school rooms disinfected monthly as the laws of our State require? We do not charge that the various contagious diseases that have been prevalent in our public schools this winter are due to any unsanitary conditions or neglect, but we should be satisfied that the lawful requirements are met as a safeguard.

"I have been advised that the State Board of Health recently notified the president of the local Board of Health that unless certain cellars, rear rooms, and back yards of certain business establishments were cleaned up, the State Board would take the matter in hand.

No "Cyclones" on Land.

Of late years it has become common to call every violent storm a "cyclone," which is plainly erroneous. A cyclone never occurs except on the ocean, asserts a weather observer, because a cyclone is a violent, whirling storm of great area, and no such storm could occur on land. The so-called "cyclones" of the West are "tornadoes," which are whirling storms of great violence, but contracted in area. Tornadoes have been known whose greatest width did not exceed a few rods, and those which exceed several miles in width are very unusual.

Rattlesnake's Rattle.

The rattle of the rattlesnake is developed from the single scale or epidermal spine, which in most snakes forms the internal tegument of the tail. The bone on which the root of the rattle rests consists of the last caudal vertebra and is covered with a skin which is the beginning of the rattle in young rattlesnakes.

Ideal Guestroom.

The guestroom need not be the best and sunniest room in the house, but it should be light and airy, and be so decorated and furnished as to be informal and homey. The ideal is to have a guestroom a little detached from the rooms which are occupied by the family. The bed should be the most comfortable bed procurable. If possible have twin beds.

Willard Still Undecided

Fred Fulton, heavy weight title challenger, said yesterday that he had signed articles with Jim Hammel, Denver promoter, for a 20-round bout with Jesse Willard to be staged at the stock yards stadium on any date suitable to the champion. Hammill announced that he will go to Chicago with $50,000 in coin to dangle before the circus magnate in an effort to bring him to Denver to fightfight. The articles signed by Fulton provide that the entire $50,000 be urned over to the Red Cross.

Fulton meets Tom McMahon, February 11.

On the Mat

Wladek Zbyszko of Poland and Joe Stecher of Nebraska were the winners at New York this week. These bouts will lead to deciding who is to fall heir to Frank Gotch's world championship title Zbyszko defeated a fellow countryman, John Olin, landing him with a toe hold in one hour and fifteen minutes. Stecher downed his opponent with body scissors hold after a tussle of an hour and three minutes. Both these matches were exceedingly close for it is quite rare that a match takes so long a time as either of these.

Measles are not confined to New Wilmington; just before the basket ball team left State College last Thursday, the college physician discovered that Wolfe, State's star guard, had caught the measles and he was interned in the isolation hospital. This comes as a severe loss to the team which will be handicapped in their trip to Syracuse, Colgate, and Lehigh.

Sam Steele, right guard for the past three years at Geneva was unanimously elected as captain for the next year's team.

Lars Hangen of Chippewa Falls, Wis., leaped into the national ski jumping championchip at Gary, Ill. His best jump was 122 feet. This is four or five feet short of the world's record.

Pitt lost a promising football and baseball player when Frank Poindexter left school last week. The death of his father is the cause of his quitting at the present time.

The first bicycle rider to "loop the loop", Herme Goldschmidt, aged 39 years, died at New Haven last week. He was noted for his daring jumping tricks which he pergofmed on the wheel. His best act was a double "loop the loop."

Judge McLaughry Delivers Red Cross Day Address

Pays Splendid Tribute to Y. M. C. A. Work in the Great War and Strikes a Telling Blow At Liquor Interests

Judge McLaughry delivered a powerful address last Sabbath morning at the First U. P. Church Last Sabbath was observed as Red Cross Day, and the address by Judge McLaughry took the place of the regular morning sermon.

Judge McLaughry began his address by saying that it was customary, in delivering an address from a pulpit, to announce a text from the Scriptures, but, not being a minister, he was, perhaps, given more latitude in this respect, and if he were to have a text at all he would take it from President Wilson's letter written within the last week and addressed to the Ship Builders Union, the closing words being, "Will you co-operate or will you obstruct?"

He made a comparison between the purpose in view by the people of this country during the last fifty years and that of Germany during the same period. We were busy raising the standard of civilization to a point where the mental powers would predominate over brute force, and we believed that we had reached such a stage that the horrors of war were forever abandoned. During the same period Germany was putting forth every effort to build up a great war machine to slaughter the people of every nation unwilling to submit to her dominion. We are now fighting for the peace and safety of all the nations of the world for all time to come.

"The defeat of the German military power must be decisive. The brutal war spirit exhibited by this people must be crushed so that it will never again manifest itself, and not only this generation but every succeeding generation shall have peace. We have some people in our country who say they are peacemakers, and opposed to war. I do not want to criticize our Government but I believe they are wrong in exempting religious denominations from service because of their attitude against war. There is no Church that believes in war. Because of this we are fighting—in order that there may be no more war. The real peacemakers are the young men at the front throwing shot and shell into the ranks of the enemy, and not the persons who sit in the church pews and call themselves pacifists, and refuse to contribute to the Red Cross and assist in the effort to bring victory."

He spoke of the serious situation at the present time, and said he believes we are in no position at thistime to talk about peace; that this is the time to bent the beginning of the war rather than the ending, and the United States must assume the most important part.

Judge McLaughry quoted from a recent cablegram sent by the Food Commissioner of England to Mr. Hoover, the United States Commissioner: "It now lies with America to decide whether or not her allies in Europe shall have enough food to hold out until the United States troops are on the field ready for action."; thus saying to us, "You must supply the Allies with the necessities of life until your army is on the field, ready to win the fight." This shows an alarming situation; and it is incumbent upon every individual to decide whether he will co-operate or obstruct.

"We are now called upon to prove our strength. And our government has turned on its searchlight to find the truest patriots, the most courageous hearts, the most vigorous bodies; and she finds them in the Christian manhood of our country. She realizes that our young men who have been influenced by Christian environment are best prepared to give our Country the service she now needs. For this reason the government called upon the Young Men's Christian Association to exert its full influence with our young men. Both the Government and the people of this Country have passed by all other organizations, and called upon this organization to give the country the benefit of those things for which it has always stood, and in one week's time placed into its hands the enormous sum of fifty millions of dollars. We are proving our strength. And wherein we have been strong, we are now benefitd; wherein we have been weak we shall suffer."

Judge McLaughry spoke of our obligations to the boys now in the field; that they are making a sacrifice far beyond anything that is possible for us to make; that some of them would find sickness, some death, some agonizing wounds, and all would reap hardships. If the people at home perform the duties imposed upon them, these hardships will be lessened. If not, the war will be extended, and we will suffer greater losses.

He likened the situation to a sword: The young men at the front, resisting the efforts of the German military power, are the edge of the sword, which does the cutting; but back of the edge is the metal which gives it strength and weight, which are the people at home. Both are necessary in order that victory may be achieved. "Our sword has never been been drawn except in the cause of freedom and justice, and it has never been sheathed except in victory."

In referring to the duties of our people in regard to the saving of food for our allies and our soldiers, the speaker said that we are apt to be discouraged because of the misuse of a large amount of grain. "I understand that as much grain is used in the manufacture of liquors as would make seven million loaves of bread every day. From out of our home two boys have gone into the service. The mother who nourished them from childhood was willing that they should serve their Country; but when she placed those two boys upon the altar of their country, there to be sacrificed, she had a right to demand that those seven million loaves of bread be placed there also. The mothers of this country, however, have been too patriotic to refuse to make their great sacrifice, even though others refuse to make a mere pecuniary sacrifice. But are we in position to make such demand? We are proving our strength. What we have permitted to exist we now have. This situation exists because we, the people, have permitted for years the liquor interests to dictate our politics; and this seven million loaves of bread are withheld from their legitimate use by unscrupulous politicians who are more interested in the business interests of these adherents than in the peace and safety of the world."

Judge McLaughry referred to the supreme sacrifice already made by one of the young men of this community, and said he had already made a greater sacrifice than was possible for others who should be reminded of the words of Abraham Lincoln on the field of Gettysburg, when he said: "It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us, that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion, that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain."

The speaker closed by urging the people to keep in mind the words of President Wilson, "Will you co-operate or will you obstruct"; saying that there is no neutral ground, that we are either assisting in establishing the principles advocated by Abraham Lincoln or those advocated by the Kaiser.

Special music was rendered by the choir. The solo part was taken by the Rev. J. D. Barr. whose singing the people of this community are always delighted to hear.

The special collection for the Red Cross amounted to $53.00 in the Sabbath School and $32.20 in the after service.

New York Trip Pending

Owing to the cancellation of Cansius College, Buffalo, N. Y., of the game scehuled for March 16 at that place, it is doubtful whether the New York trip will materialize. Dates with Alfred University and the University of Buffalo are still pending and if these two schools will offer a large enough guarantee to cover the expenses of sending the team up to the Empire State, the trip will, in all probability, be made.

FIRST VARSITY DEBATE SOON

The first men's debate will be held on March 14th, with Waynesburg college at Waynesburg, Pa. In this contest, Westminster will be represented by three men, who will uphold the negative side of the proposition: "Resolved, That the United States should adopt the Canadian Plan for dealing with industrial disputes." The squad are working hard in preparation for this initial struggle, in which they hope to achieve victory. The team which will represent Westminster in this contest will be announced later.

Dr. Wallace to Conduct Normal Class

President W. Charles Wallace will have charge of the normal class for the purpose of training the student leaders who conduct the Sabbath morning Bible study groups. A good text book will be decided upon in the near future and the work will be started in earnest.

The class will meet hereafter at 7 o'clock every Thursday evening. Miss Grace Springer is the secretary of the class

The group leaders are Messrs Martin, Ashbrook, Burton, Hart, Vance, Cummings, and Misses L. Stewart, Sloane, Wright, Auld Perkins, Hickman, Krause, and Springer.

Wherry Helping Uncle Sam to "Safe the Way" for Soldiers

Mike Wherry '18, captain of the football team in 1916 and Don Igo, '18, former Westminster base ball star, recently visited their homes at New Florence, Pa. The Westminster men are both on the U. S S. Leviathan, which is being used as a transport and have been across a number of times.

Mike belongs to the gunner's squad while Don is connected with the postmaster's department of the great transport.

In the following leter to President Wallace the former star football man relates some of his experiences.

Dr. W. Charles Wallace,
New Wimington, Pa.

Dear Sir:

It has been quite a long time since I have had an opportunity to write you a letter. I just got back from a two months' trip in England and I must say there is no place in the world as good as the U. S. A. We arraived in England the night before Christmas and they gave us a royal reception. We took over nine thousand soldiers and two hundred Red Cross nurses. That hospital contingent from Youngstown was on the ship and I met the two Button boys and Ralph Wallace from Westminster. We were two days out at sea and I heard some one yell: "Hello, Mike!" and I almost fell overboard when I saw those boys for I never expected to see them within a thousand miles of our ship. I had quite a bit of fun kidding them about their lives being in my hands, etc. I told them not to worry about the submarines for we guaranteed safe conduct or their money refunded. They all stood the trip fine and I hated to part with them in England.

So that is the way it goes in this war game. You meet the people you least expect to meet and you might know I was glad to meet those fellows from school. I hope we will have the pleasure of taking that other bunch from Westminster to France but that is expecting too much.

Our ship makes fast time as we are pretty safe from the submarines. We saw one submarine going over, but none coming back. We were under a heavy convoy, so the submarine was afraid to take a chance. We had our guns on it but were not allowed to fire because the torpedo boats were between us and the periscope. The soldiers never even knew that a submarine was near until we got to England. There was not a single man lost on the trip and the men all stood the trip fine. They were mostly cowboys from the West. We were in dry dock in England for two months and I had a fine opportunity to get around through the country. There are some very interesting sights in England but I would rather be Mike Wherry in America than King George in England, and have to stay there. I am very glad that I am in the navy instead of the army for I get a chance to go over and back again

The soldiers in England appear to think that there will be some kind of a peace proposition put through this spring but they also admit that there is no change on the western front that would indicate a peace inside of two years. They are war weary over there and they have a right to be for all I saw was cripples and widows and children. This war proposition is bad business anyway you take it and I am sure there is going to be a bunch of good men killed this spring. After a person gets a glimpse of the results of his war he is not so anxious to get into it. You know, Doctor, it is easy for a man to talk about victory and glory, etc., when he is three thousand miles away from the conflict, but he puts on a different face when he starts to the front. I will frankly admit that when I saw that periscope of a submarine I began to get a little dry in the mouth and to cast a sly glance at my life boat. for we have to stand by the guns until all the men are off. I laughed about submarines before that and I laugh about them now but when it came to facing the music my smile was gone. That is the way those boys felt when they got off our ship and started for France. But of course it is only human for a person to get scared, and I believe that the American soldier will hold his own with the best of them when it comes to a showdown. For my part I have been through so many diflerent experiences that it seems that I can't see anything strange any more. I have talked with people who have been in this war from the start and they say that it is useless to force a peace on Germany. but we will leave that to the armies of America this spring. We are going across again soon, so perhaps I will be be in France or England before you write again.

I received that book in England and I also receive the Holcad frequently. I thank you very much for the paper. I am always glad to get it. I have almost written a book to you so I will close.

Your friend,
JOHN WHERRY

BASKET BALL TEAM HAS TWO HARD GAMES

The varsity basketball team has two of the hardest games of the schedule for next week. On Wednesday night the Blue and White passers go down to Geneva. The team is practising hard in an endeavor to come back strong in this game and wipe out the defeat here by a big margin.

On Friday night, March 8, the team goes to Grove City. Coach White of that school is fully expecting to win the game on their home floor and is coaching his team with that end in view. Coach Lambie is just as confident that our team can defeat Grove City on their own floor as well as on ours.

Prof. Hollopeter Back

Prof. H. S. Hollopeter of the Department of Public Speaking, has recovered from his recent illness and was able to again take charge of his classes last Monday.

Religious Meetings Come to a Close; Have Been Successful

Annual Revival Has Met With Hearty Response From Studets and Faculty--Conferences Were Helpful to All.

The special evangelistic meetings which are being held this week under the auspices of the two religious organizations of the college will come to a close Sabbath evening, March 3

Rev. Mr. Lytle will preach at that service which will be held in the college chapel.

An unusual amount of interest has been manifested in the meetings this year, and they were successful in every way. The students and faculty came out night after night to listen to the clear expositioon of the Word by Rev. Lytle.

The college was indeed fortunate in securing a man of his stamp to conduct the meetings. Rev. Mr. Lytle who is a Monmouth graduate has only been out of the seminary for three years, and can remember his own undergraduate days more vividly than could an older man, hence he can better help the students here in the solution of their own life problems. An opportunity for a private conference with Rev. Mr. Lytle will still be open this afternoon for any of the students who want to see him and talk over life plans. A large number have taken advantage of this chance to talk over things with a man who is deeply interested in the plans and affairs of undergraduates.

Classes Formed For Study of Fundamentals

Instead of the customary Bible Class meeting on Sabbath morning, there was held a join meeting of the Bible classes of both boys and girls. At this metting the program of group study of Christian fundamentals was outlined by the Presidents of two Christian Associations.

Martin discussed the work the Westminster students have already done for Y. M. and Y. W. C. A. in trench and camp and impressed upon the minds of those present that the most important thing students in America can do will be attemptetd in the Sabbath morning groups for the study of Christ's fundamental teachings. Martin discussed the steps which led to the adoption of this plan by the National student organizatioons and told of the urgent appeal that comes tous to take up the work.

Gladys Krause briefly remarked on the essentials of the plan. The study of Christian fundamentals is to be taken up by groups on Sabbath morniing. The groups are formed that there may be free discussion of subjects brought up and that the formal Bible classes methods of study may be done away with. The groups will have leaders who will act merely as chairmen of the meetings.

After these student discussions Doctor Wallace made a few pointed remarks giving his impressions of the probable value of the study.

Director Lambie Gets Offer

Physical director Hugh Lambie recently received a letter from the National War Work Council of the Y. M. C. A. offering him a position as physical director in army work

There is a great lack of men to fill these very important positions as directors of the athletic departments of the various cantonments

If coach Lambie accepts the offer he will probably be detailed for overseas service at once.

Community Supper Was Big Success

The college and town people turned out enmasse to attend the community chicken and waffle dinner at Hotel McCreary last night.

The dining rooms at both the Crescent and Kelly Clubs were closed as was the Hillside dining room and all the students took advantage of the bounteous repast at the hotel.

Almost the entire population of the village attended the dinner which proved to be the biggest get-together event the community has ever had.

The supplies for the event were almost wholly donated and the proceeds which amounted to several hundred dollars will go to the local branch of the American Red Cross Association.

Milligan Promoted to Sergeant

The many friends of Lawrence P. Milligan '19, here in Westminster will be glad to learn that he was recently appointed to the position of Drill Sergeant in the U. S. Base Hospital. Unit L, which is in training at Camp McPherson, Atlanta, Ga

This promotion came as a surprise to the former Westminster man as there are a number of the men in the unit who have had previous military training

The faculty and student body unite in congratulating Milligan on his recent appointment and wish him the best of success in his new work

The Y. M. C. A. Huts

(Read at a meeting of students of Princeton University)

In the camps around our country and in countries far away
There's a lot of wooden housses that are marked Y. M. C. A.
And some are painted yellow and some are painted brown or green;
Now, say, who owns these houses, and what do the letters mean?
They mean a bit of comfort and they mean a place to rest,
Where every tired soldier boy is welcomed as a guest;

They mean a bit of friendly talk, some music and some jokes,
And some quiet little corners for writing to your folks.
They mean a bit of human love amid the storm of war,
They mean the word of healing for spirits wounded sore.
They mean a simple message from God's own holy word,
And they mean the thought of the home land where the sweet old hymns are heard.

You ask who owns these housses? I think you know His name,
You call Him Saviour, Master, Lord, the meaning's just the same—
'Tis the One who gave Himself for us, the Leader of our life;
We pray He'll lead and keep our boys in peril and in strife.

O, keep them strong and steady, and keep them clean and true!
Help them to battle for the right and put the victory through!
Be Thou their shield and buckler, but if one is stricken down,
O, Captain of Salvation, give him the Heavenly crown!

"Will You Co-operate or Will You Obstruct?"

The above words, taken from President Wilson's recent address to the Ship Builders Union should be seriously considered by every individual in this country. The country is at war, and no stone must be left unturned that will aid in the early consummation of the titanic struggle.

There are at the present time, only about one and one-half per cent of the total population under arms. What then, of the other niney-eight and one-half per cent? Are you going to stand idly by and see the flower of the American youth go down to a bloody grave in far off Flanders without doing your bit?

The message of President Wilson comes as a mighty challenge to the best and noblest that is in us. There can be no side-stepping the issue; we must face it fairly and squarely. There can be no middle ground; we are either co-operating with a nation that has for its ideals the lofty principles of Christian brotherhood or we are obstructing that nation.

Victory is only sure and certain insofar as the people in civilian walks of life are willing to co-operate with the government. The eyes of the entire world are centered upon us. To the United States is Belgium turning for reparation for the wrongs received at the hands of the ruthless Hun. To the United States is war ridden and bleeding France looking with hungry eyes for the refilling of granaries long since devastated by the Germans. To the United States is Great Britian looking for assistance in a financial way.

Are we going to turn traitor to the cause and refuse to sacrifice a little that others may live, May we not as college men and women become leaders wherever we are and assist in the nation-wide problem of food conservation. May we not increase our efficiency in order that we may assume places of responsibility in the and furthermore may we not hold more sacred those traditions of liberty, equality and fraternity which were conceived at the very foundation of this democracy under which it is our privilege to live?

DEMOCRACY'S AT WAR

By Hamlin Garland

Our Flag's Abroad!
Let railway stocks now bleed like widow's sons
And money vaults give up their hoarded gold
As freely as the farmers give their grain.
Let dollars be less sacred than the artist's eyes
And igots less than sculptor's cunning thumbs—
America's at War.
All, All for War.
Let capital no longer order brawn to die,
Let wealth and pride touch elbows in the ranks,
Let taxes fall against ancestral parks
As now they fall against the small tilled fields
Of farmers toiling to maintain a hearth
Let bankers give, not loan, their monstrous stores—
Democracy's at War!

Norman Anderson Writes From Camp

We are in receipt of letter from Norman Anderson, a member of Battery D., 323 Field Artillery. "Chuckle" has the right spirit about soldiering, so we are going to pass his letter along for the enjoyment of our readers.

Dear Friends: We are still alive and trying to be good soldiers. Every day sees several trainloads of soldiers going somewhere. The great majority are going to Texas; the rest to New Jersey.

Lately we have been working pretty hard. Not out on the drill field, but at fatigue work. Those jobs when the pick and shovel are used to good advantage. One big dollar, that sure counts up. Every month sees our jeans empty Everybody has a sweet tooth to be filled—the canteens reap the harvest. Why not take life as it comes and enjoy yourself a little? This is our motto, and in God we trust, or rather the government to see that our stomachs are well filled. For we sure do eat three squares.

The horse proposition is gradually being cleared up. At first it was very disgusting. We couldn't make them do what we wanted. Then to have the officers say their say in curses, made things worse.

I wish to express my appreciation thru the Globe for the articles which I received from the New Wilmington Branch of the Red Cross—wristles and helmet—they certainly came in handy during that extreme cold weather.

The Y. M. C. A. is certainly doing a great work here. These huts are our homes, when we are off duty and can go there. The staff in charge procure good entertainments and literature for us.

Since the weather has been nice we have formed guard mount. A very interesting performance to witness.

I am very much afraid none of us will get home for a good long time. The boys in the infantry are more fortunate To tell the truth, the men from Penna come out the little end of the horn in everything. They get their passes, have all the equipment going; we go without. I am speaking of the artillery There are only three regiments of artillery here, 322, 323, 324, the latter is heavy.

Next week we go to the gun range. I am very anxious to go. It will be a change from this routine. Our battery is the best in the regiment, so the Colonel says. More power to us. There are more college men; maybe this partly accounts for it.

The grub is 50 per cent better than previously. My friends remember me and keep me well supplied with the good old weed. I will be out of luck if I go across, for the tobacco there is very strong.

Well I had a few minutes of spare time and thought I would be putting it to good use by dropping you a few lines.

I certainly appreciate your kindness in sending me the home paper. I read it with much interest. I would be glad to hear from you at all times.

Yours very sincerely,
NORMAN J. ANDERSON

(Have you written to one of the boys in camp or across the ocean? If not, take a few minutes and do so. When a fellow is lonesome and tired, he would be glad to see even a dog from home. That word "home" looms large to the soldier. And New Wilmington is home just now to many of them.—Ed)

Dr. Byers has been for some time head of the Chemistry Department at the University of Washington, where he has achieved remarkable success. Dr. Charles C. Freeman had intended to adopt this book of his former student had it been off the press in time for the beginnning of the present school year. Seminary Bulletin

By J. D. Rankin

Many have marvelled that Jesus chose the ministry as the profession in which to do His earthly work. He might have led armies in glorious triumph for justice and righteousness in the earth; He might have been a financier and philanthropist increasing the wealth of the world, feeding the hungry and clothing the naked; but He chose to be a minister because in that sphere He would deal with the things that were fundamental and eternal.

The progress of the human race has been largely due to those who lifted up high ideals as beacon lights for the march of men. When Jesus sat down on the mountain side to teach His ideals to men He mounted the throne of power; and when He sent His disciples forth to continue that work, He launched the mightiest force which has yet entered the life of mankind. When he packed Himself and His vision into His disciples and bade them give tese to the world. He promised that they should be the regenera tors of the human race, and He made the course of history to depend on their teaching. From that day they and their followers have been the most importanat factors in the world's program.

Practically all of the great uplifting movements that have marked the progress of the Christian centuries, commenced with the preaching of some great truth by some minister of Christ. The Apostles, heralds of the new faith, Chrysostom in Anioch, Gregory Naziansen in Consantinople, Augustine in Africa, Savonarola in Italy, Luther in Germany, Calvin in Sweden, Knox in Scotland, Wesley in England—these and men like them have set in motion the great movements that have changed the world. Augustine, the monk, laid the foundation of Engla[illegible] civilization. Livingstone, Morrison and Carey the missionaries opened Africa, China and Ind[illegible] to civilization.

Standing before the cathedral of Wittenberg Jean Paul uncovered his head and said. "The story of the German language and literature is the story of Martin Luther's pulpit." Daniel Webster, Arthur Froud, Rufus Choate, and many others have affirmed that representative government came from Calvin's pulpit in Geneva by way of John Knox's pulpit in Scotland. Daniel Webster, tracing the upward progress of society asked, "Where can you find a spot in the earth where a new social order has been created and the man that digged the foundation was not a minister?" "Where have the life-giving waters of civilization sprung up save in the tracks of the Christian minister?" Ruskin said "The issues of life and death for modern society are in the Christian pulpit." Emerson said that the Puritan pulpits were the springs of modern society. The Earl of Shafesbury said that Charles Spurgeon did more for social reform and progress than any other statesman of his era—an era strred with the names of Gladstone, Beaconsfield and Shafesbury. Bancroft the historian said that the revival introduced by Jonathan Edwards and carried on by the Wesleys and Whitfield, was the turning point of modern history and the foundation of modern wealth.

These are but a few of the countless testimonies to the power of the minister. His work is incomparably more important than that of any other. No other position offers a man such an opportunity for influencing his fellowmen. Not statesmen or warriors but missionaries, have turned Pagan lands to civilized nations and lifted whole peoples from beasthood to manhood.

The Week in Basket Ball

Cadiz is Trimmed

The Westminster five had little difficulty in defeating the Cadiz Pirate quintette on the latter's floor last Thursday night in a one sided contest.

During the first half our men could not connect with the basket owing to the poorly lighted gym, but in the second period they managed to pull together and came out on the long end of a 41-17 score. At no time during the entire game did the Cadiz team put up any opposition while the passing and shooting of the Westminster five was almost perfect.

Armstrong played his usual whirlwind game and caged 20 of the 41 points. Trimble got in for a few minutes at forward and showed up well. For the Cadiz team Long played a good game.

The lineup:

Westminster—41	Cadiz—17
Loghry, Capt. F	Long, Capt
Wierman F	Greer
Armstrong C	Gillespie
Cummings G	Vasbinder
Lewis G	McFadden

Field goals— Armstrong 10, Wierman 5, Loghry 3, Trimble 1, Long 4, Vasbinder 2, McFadden 2. Fouls, Wierman 3 out of 4. Substitutions, Trimble for Wierman.

Lose to Franklin

There are a number of mighty good alibis which we might offer as an excuse for being defeated at Franklin College last Friday night, but we are not going to do so. Of course the game was played on a small, poorly lighted floor The Franklin team has not been defeated on their home floor for the past three seasons. Last but not least, the fellows had just partaken of a sumptuous good old fashioned chicken supper with cream pie and all the fixings a short while before the game was called, which might have had something to do with the defeat. Franklin had things pretty much her own way throughout the whole game. At no time did the Blue and White hit up a scrap. Time after time comparatively easy shots at our basket were missed and when it came to shooting fouls we were all to the bad there, getting 5 out of 19. Loghry was the high point man for Westminster getting 6 of our 15 points

Kinney the big Indian forward for Franklin played a good game for our opponents.

The lineup:

Franklin—33	Westminster—15
Mitchell, Capt. F	Loghry, Capt
Kinney F	Wierman
Hamilton C	Armstrong
McFadden G	Lewis
McConnell G	Cummings

Field goals, Loghry 3, Armstrong, 1, Cummings, 1, Mitchell 6, Kinney 4, Hamilton 4. Fouls, Wierman, 4 out of 13, Armstrong 1 out of 6, Hamilton 5 out of 13. Substitutions — Trimble for Wierman, Wierman for Cummings.

Tech Beaten

To defeat a team which recently beat the Yale University five on their own floor was the honor achieved by the Westminster college aggregation last Saturday night.

The game which was a closely contested and clean exhibition of basketball was played on the Tech floor and was witnessed by a large crowd of Plaid rooters.

Our men went into the game with a determination to win and thus wipe out the defeat of the night before. The boys played bang up basket ball from the very first tip off until Armstrong shot the last field goal just as the final whistle sounded announcing the close of the game.

The team work of our men was excellent and more than one goal was shot as a result of working the ball down to the man under the basket.

The plaid team put up a stubborn resistance from the very first and toward the end of the game made substitution after substitution in a vain endeaver to break up Westminster plays but all to no avail. At the first tip off Doherty of Tech shot a basket before the Blue and White men realized the game had started but they soon pulled together and so completely covered the Tech forwards that it was almost impossible for the latter to shoot.

At the close of the first half the score stood 23-18 with Westminster on the long end Tech came back strong at the beginning of the second period and shot three field goals in a row. The Blue and White tightened up and soon regained a lead which they continued to hold for the rest of the game.

Loghry played his best game of the year and caged 7 clean field goals. Armstrong had the best of Doherty getting 3 more fouls than did the latter in an equal number of chances.

Lewis and Cummings played a bangup floor game and worked the ball away from Tech's basket time after time. Wierman seemed to be everywhere at once and covered the floor in good shape.

For Tech Doherty the fast little forward played a good game getting 6 field goals and 12 fouls. Gretzler, captain of the Tech five also played good basket ball.

The lineup:

Westminster—39	Car. Tech—35
Loghry Capt F	Doherty
Wierman F	Hober
Armstrong C	Gretzler, Capt
Lewis G	Cossgrov
Cummings G	Cruze

Field goals, Loghry 7, Armstrong 4, Wierman 1, Doherty 6, Gretzer 4, Cosgrove 4. Substitutions—Leed for Cosgrove, Mayer for Hober, Wayne for Cruze. Referee—Mates.

Side Lights on the Trip

Tech almost set fire to a coach going out to Cadiz in a vain endeavor to find the lost pearl.

Army turned down a date at Cadiz; said he had to be true to the girl back at home.

Some of the bunch attended a church social and had a great time Ask 'Peel' how many times he went to the kitchen to get a drink

Tech left a note at the hotel which read, "Call me in time for the 5:30 train in the morning." We wonder who the clerk called in time for the train, for the coach was still sawing wood at 9:30 next morning

Mary Campbell, ex-'19 saw the game at Cadiz Thursday night.

Ask Wierman to relate his experience coming back from New Athens Friday night.

John Hulton, ex-'18 saw the Franklin game. He gets his diploma from that institution in June.

The bunch enjoyed a fine chicken supper in New Athens.

Some of the boys are considering enrolling at Franklin. Army is especially interested in the conservatory of music.

Tech met a number of old time friends including U. P. preachers, runners, returned missionaries and members of his former congregation at Gladden.

Rev. Gilmore only had 'Peel' stumped for an instant when he asked him who his pastor was in Bergen.

We have a good one on Jack Lewis, but there are reasons why it had better not be pulled.

The bunch, including Jimmie, had a good time after the game Friday night.

Jack Lewis and Tech spent a little while in the dungeon at the county jail.

'Army's' father gave the bunch a royal feed after the Tech game.

WESTMINSTER-GENEVA BASKETBALL GAME

The Westminster girls' basket ball team won its first game Tuesday afternoon against the Geneva girls in the college gym. Despite the fact that our team had been handicapped during the week by the absence of several of the players, the team displayed remarkable team work, and completely outclassed their riveals from the "the little college down the river." The signals were cleverly executed as the result of our center getting the tip-off. Forwards McDonough and Anderson by their steady playing and fine shooting, starred for Westminster, althought they were well guarded by their competitors. Downie, Geneva's star forward, made some spectacular plays.

The linup was as follows:

West. Girls—33	Geneva—19
McDonough F	McBurney
Anderson F	Downie
McClure C	McKee
Springer S C	Taylor
Matheny G	Hunter
Hickman G	Galbreath

Substitutions — Milligan for Galbreaath.

Field goals, McDonough 5, Anderson 8, McBurney 2, Downie 6.

Fouls, McDonoug 6 out of 12, Andersaon, 3 out of 6, Downie 3 out of 5. Referee, Miss Worrall. New Castle Y. M. C. A.

Four More Stars for Service Flag

At the present time there are four more stars to be added to the service flag which is hanging above the rostrum of the college chapel

They are for J. O. Campbell, '17, Clarence Cummings, '18 Dave Miller, '20, and Ralph Hover '20. The first three men are in Camp Sherman while the last is at Camp Lee, Va.

Play Proceeds go to Red Cross

The door receipts of the Junior play, "Only a Country Girl," after deducting the expenses of the performance, amounted to $28.85, which was turned over to the local chapter of the American Red Cross.

The members of the caste and the coach, Miss Elizabeth C. Sankey are to be commended for restaging the play which was presented some time ago for the benefit of the 1919 Argo.

Base Hospital Quarantined.

The U. S. Base Hospital Unit L in which there are a number of Westminster men, is under quarantine for scarlet fever. The local boys who are in the unit spent Washington's Birthday in writing letters and wishing they could be back in Westminster for the Junior play which was given that night. It is likely that the Unit would have sailed before this had it not been for the quarantine.

Westminster Has Successful Season in Basketball Games

Blue and White Has Demonstrated its Class in Trial Against the Best Teams

When the basketball season opened after Christmas vacation, Coach Lambie found a stupendous task on his hands. The schedule which had been arranged was a hard one, with the fastest teams in this section of the country booked. Then, too there were only three of last year's letter men in school and moreover, there was little response made when an appeal was given for men to try out for varsity positions.

The coach had nothing to fear from the center position, for he well knew that in Armstrong he had the best all around basket ball man in local college circles. Wierman and Loghry looked good for forward material but the guard proposition loomed up large. Lewis the former Sharon High star and Cummings who played good basket ball in the class league last year were tried out and after the first couple of games put up an exhibition that was hard to beat.

The season started with a game at Sharon against the fast Buhl Club with the result that the Blue and White suffered defeat by a 49-22 score.

The first game after vacation was played on the college floor against the New Castle Y. M. C. A. five and resulted in a 37-36 score for the locals.

The following Saturday night proved an easy victory, when the Shelby Tube Works team was taken into camp by a 51-23 score

The first college game of the season was played against the crack Hiram quintet on the latter's floor and resulted in a 31-29 victory for the Blue and White.

The Dukes in Youngstown handed us a beating on the following night as did the East Liberty Y. M. C. A. team on Saturnight of the same week.

The next game played was staged against the fast Westinghouse A. C. team and it took three extra periods to decide, with the Club on the long end of a 40-39 decision.

Victory tasted sweet indeed after losing three straight games, so accordingly we drank long and deep from Grove City gore when we handed them a 49-18 decision.

Geneva was the next attraction and we came out short on a 34-30 count in spite of the fact that the Westminster tossers slipped in three more field goals than did the visitors.

Cadiz proved easy money on the first game of the second trip and went under to the tune of 41-17.

The one jinx of the whole season was met the next night when Franklin college more than doubled the score on the Blue and White

The locals redeemed themselves the next night, however, by defeating the fast Carnegie Tech team by a 39-35 score.

After nearly a two weeks rest the boys quietly slipped into Geneva's camp one evening and before retiring that night, lo and behold the "little old institution down the river" had fallen victim to our wonderful machine and we were the proud possessors of her scalp with a 32-16 score to prove it. In passing it may be noted that the much famed Gold and White team failed to score a field goal in the first half and only two in the second.

The final game of the season was played against our old friend Grove City, who tried to stage a come-back but failed to do so. The Blue and White were victorious with a 39-32 decision to their credit.

Following is the season record and total number of points scored:

Lieutenant Woods Buried Saturday

Impressive Funeral Service At Home of Soldier

The business of the entire community of East Palestine, Ohio, came to a standstill last Saturday for two hours during which time the body of C. Scott Woods, '12 and Westminster's second son to give his life for his country, was being laid to rest.

Lieut. Woods was one of the most popular men who ever attended Westminster College and stood well in his classes. He was also an athlete of no mean ability and played on some of the best base ball teams that ever represented the institution.

After leaving Westminster in 1912 he taught in the East Palestine High School for one year and during the following year was connected with the McGraw Fire and Rubber Company.

In 1915 he entered the Law Department of the University of Pittsburgh and one year later enrolled at Western Reserve University.

Hearing the call of his country he enlisted on August 27, 1917, and attended Fort Benjamin Harrison where he received his commission as lieutenant. and after a short furlough was sent to Camp Funston, Fort Riley, Kansas.

There he was making rapid progress being about to secure the rank of captain, but contracted pneumonia which did its work very quickly. He died there on Monday, March 4

President W Charles Wallace represented Westminster at the funeral services where he read a paper written by Dr. R. G. Ferguson who was personally acquainted with Lieutenant Woods while the later was here in college.

Dr. John McNaugher '80, president of Pittsburgh Theological Seminary was also present at the services.

GLEE CLUB GIVES RECITAL IN CHAPEL

The Girls' Glee Club gave its first home recital of the season in the College Chapel last Thursday evening.

The club this year is an exceptionally good one and the concert delighted a large and appreciative audience.

June Grove sang a number of solos and, as usual, pleased her hearers with her fine soprano voice.

Blanche Wright, contralto, also appeared at her best in her solo work.

Miss Mary Douthett of the Department of Music is direting the Club this year during the absence of Prof. Edward F. Hearn.

Our Mother Fair, Westminster

(COLLEGE SONG)

Hail, hail to thee, our Mother Fair, Westminster,
Thy sons thy name with rev'rent homage greet,
While rings our song within thy sacred portals,
Fresh wreaths we twine and lay them at thy feet.
Long may she live, our Mother Fair, Westminster!
Fling to the breeze her banners white and blue!
Halls of our fathers, home of hallowed mem'ries,
Our Alma Mater, glorious, grand and true!

Mother triumphant, let thy splendid story
Teach us the truth it ever taught thy sons:
That age hands down to coming age its glory,
Through all our lives the same firm purpose runs.
How can we falter, then, if thou command us?
How can we fear, if thou dost us inspire?
How faint or fail or yield whate'er withstand us
Thy presence in a heart, a holy fire.

Youngest of all thy sons we hail and greet thee,
With all our lives, for service in thy sight
Westminster Fair, our Mother, we salute thee:
Majestic, crowned with everlasting light.
Long may she live our Mother Fair, Westminster!
Fling to the breeze her banner white and blue!
Halls of our fathers, home of hallowed mem'ries,
Our Alma Mater, glorious, grand and true.

Crescent Boys Guests of Girls

The members of the Crescent Club were tendered a sumptuous banquet and party at Hotel McCreary last Saturday night by their lady friends.

The festivities began at 6:30 with a four course dinner, and a social good time followed. The dining room and parlors were decorated with club banners and Westminster pennants.

On the tables were found exquisitely hand-painted place cards with pink carnations attached as favors.

Each man was presented with the name of an illustrious person upon arriving at the hotel and the dinner was in the form of a progresive affair for the girls as they moved from one famous statesman to another during the course of the dinner.

In the social hour which followed, each man responded in some way and impersonated the man whose name he had.

The party broke up at a late hour with everyone present voting it one of the most successful of the year.

DEBATERS WIN FROM WAYNESBURG

The debate team composed of Messrs Duff, McGeoch and Lostetter won from Waynesburg College last Thursday evening in the first debate of the season. Westminster upheld the negative side of the question, "Resolved, That the United States Should Adopt the Canadian Plan for Dealing With Industrial Disputes."

Prof. H. S. Hollopeter who is the debate coach, and Russell Forbes, President of the T. K. A. accompanied the team to Waynesburg.

Rev. Robert Galbreath in France

Rev. R. F. Galbraith, '07, pastor of the 6th U. P. Church, Alle-Alice Wimer of New Castle, where he will be engaged in Y. M. C. A. war work.

Girls' Team to Play Beaver

The girls basket ball team left this morning to play the Beaver College girls team. The game this afternoon will close the season for the co-eds.

College Song Should be Used

There are certain sacred traditions and customs connected with every institution of higher learning, and in this respect Westminster is no different from the rest. We have our class scraps and contests, we have our peace pipe orations at commencement time and many other unique customs but there is one thing in which we fall short and that is, in not knowing our college hymn.

There are a very few people in school who even know the air of this piece, let alone know the words. It should be sung reverently at all student gatherings and at mass meetings, yet how many times do we hear it from one year to another?

It undoubtedly would instil a deeper spirit of awe and love for the old school if we were more familiar with the hymn. Prof. W. W. Campbell recently went over the music and revised it, so that now it is in good shape. The air, however, remains unchanged. The words are being printed in this issue of the Holcad in the hope that every student will take time in the near future to learn them. Cut out the piece and paste it on your desk pad and in some idle moments commit the words to memory, and the next time there is a gathering of students may we not make the old chapel ring with "Our Mother Fair, Westminster?"

Westminster Man Invents Range Finder For Use of Infantry

Knowledge of Astronomy Being Put to Practical Use in Service of the Country

The following very unique and interesting letter from Lieutenant Dinsmore Alter, '09, was recently received by Dr. R. G Ferguson, in which the former Westminster man describes the work in which he is now interested:

Fort Winfield Scott, Calif.

From Dinsmore Alter, C. A. R. C.
To Friend, Cousin, Uncle, Aunt or other Relative:
Subject: A ramble through events of my personal life during the past year

Of all the queer things that I or anyone else ever did, perhaps sending a mimeograph letter to my best friends and my relatives takes the cake; but then you, whichever one you are who receives this particular copy, certainly know my eccentricities enough that you can overlook this.

I have been anxious to write a long letter to each of you but I have been so busy that I put it off from day to day and if I do not do it this way I will never get the letters off. So here goes.

Last January I started military training in a provisional company that was organized among the faculty members of the University of California. We drilled from seven o'clock Saturday morning until ten on Sabbath, camping out in shelter halves. Each of us felt certain all this time that war was coming and we wanted to be among the first to get into it. In February I was elected head of the Department of Astronomy, a new department, at the University of Kansas, a University of about four thousand students. When war actually did come I hated, very much, the thought of not being able to go to this position. I took an examination in March for Lieutenant in the Coast Artillery Reserve Corps and was commissioned the 28th of April. In the meantime I started work on a range finder for infantry use. The University stood the expense of building this finder and, as I shall tell later in this letter, it seems almost certain of adoption.

I was ordered to the Officers' Training Camp which opened the 11th of May at the Presidio. On the 19th of May I was called into active service as a second lieutenant, but continued as a student in the camp. From then on until the present time, except for about four weeks after the close of the training camp, it has been work and work and work and more work. At the end of the training camp I did not succeed in raising my commission to a first lieutenant although I stood up pretty well on the list of seconds.

We had two weeks vacation, during which I should have written you, and then were assigned to companies, about 12 to 20 deep instead of the five who should normally be with each company. For a time things were easy with so many officers. Each of us had so little work to do that we got restless.

The second Officers' Training Camp opened the last of August and the Coast Artillery men came to Fort Scott for training on the 22d of September, and I was immediately detailed as an instructor in Sea-Coast Engineering because of my experience in Astronomy, and was made assistant adjutant. About two weeks later the Adjutant was promoted to Major and made Adjutant of the South Pacific Coast Artillery District, giving me his position for which I had very little experience or training. I managed to pull through in pretty good shape and at the end of this camp last November was promoted to first lieutenant.

My range finder had, in the meantime gone through several models. The first one which would not work, the second which would barely work, and the third which I was willing to demonstrate. The War Department ordered me, at the Government's expense, to Fort Sill, Oklahoma, to demonstrate. There they promised me a favorable recommendation, but I found certain serious defects which I was anxious to remedy and upon my arrivial home I immediately sent for the model which I sent there and now, at my own expense, I built one which is very much better. This one I will send back to Ft. Sill almost immediately.

At the end of the last training camp Colonel Marsh, Commandant Coast Defenses of San Francisco, called me into his office and praised my work. He then made me commandant of the Enlisted Specialists' School which opened the third of the month. There was certainly a lot of work getting it organized and at present there continues to be. I am teaching about three and one half hours a day and besides that the work as commandant. If it were not for the fact that I have an assistant who is better than I, I do not see how I could hold the job down at all. But he does all the work and I get most of the credit, so fine! There are a little over 150 students in this school and in the session which opens the 4th of March there will probably be about 300

With this job on my hands I haven't very much idea when I will get to France, indeed this work may be permanent. But, since I am working at my profession, I feel that I am doing more than I could in some other position. Plenty of men can do the other work much better than I, but my professional training should make me especially useful for just exactly the kind of a job that I have.

I have a new range finder on my brain. This is one for artilllery use instead of infantry, and I have a whole system of fire control worked up for it. I am spending at present about $30.00 in getting the blue prints made under my direction and, if I can raise the money in any way, expect to spend about $400 building a model. I think that my system is simpler than anything which they now have and will be quite practical and accurate, but then you know they all look good on paper, especially to the mind of the man who has seen the visions. How they will look to other people when they are finally built, well, that is another question

Well, let's call this ramble quits for one time. I have never attempted anything like it before and I won't promise that I will again. Indeed, you may be petitioning me not to upon receipt of your particular copy.

With best wishes, or with love, which ever happens to be the proper one for me to send you, I am

Your friend, nephew, cousin or or other relative

Richards Sends Best Wishes to College

14th Ambulance Co.
Ft. Oglethorpe, Ga.
March 7, 1918

Dr. Charles Wallace.
New Wilmington, Pa.

Dear Sir:

You will probably think I am dead, not having heard from me for so long a time, but I want to assure you that I am very much alive.

I want to thank Westminster College for the book I received at Christmas time. Also for the Holcads which I have been receiving. I certainly do enjoy reading them, for I am still very much interested in Westminster people and all her activities.

I also want to congratulate the basketball team on its wonderful work. I surely felt like shouting when I read of the Westminster-Grove City game.

My company was split up and parts were sent to other camps to train new ambulance companies. There are only about twenty of our old company left here. But they are fast filling it up with new recruits. There is a steady stream of recruits coming in and almost as many soldiers leaving daily to parts unknown.

The spirit of the men is wonderful. It is really surprising the large amount of men here, and scarcely any discontent. I do not believe there is any other walk of life in which so many men are employed where there is so much satisfaction. Even here in the hospital it is the aim of every man to get back to his company as soon as possible, where he can be of some good to his country.

Well, I will close wishing Westminster the best kind of luck and assuring you I am very much interested in all her activities.

Yours sincerely,
I. C. Richards

DO IT NOW

Perhaps every one of us has been bored at some time or another by seeing or hearing the old adage, "Do It Now." Yet, after all, there is a lot of truth wrapped up in those words.

All along the pathway of life we see the wrecks of people who were constantly putting off things which should have been done at the proper time. There is a tendency for everyone to shirk his or her duties at some time. Perhaps the task is a simple one and does not amount to much, but what about the powerful habit of putting things off that is slowly wrapping its tentacles about the individual?

The time may come some day when a really big proposition will present itself and then we will fail simply because we had not formed the habit of "Doing It Now."

Each one of us should examine his or her life very closely and see if there is any trace of this habit of putting off our duties until a more convenient season.

PRIVATE HAROLD DICKSON WRITES LETTER

The following short but interesting letter recently received at the college office from private Harold Dickson, ex-'17, who is now with the American Expeditionary forces in France.

Somewhere in France
February 20, 1918

To the Faculty and Students of Westminster College:

I have just received your kind Christmas remembrance and wish to extend to you my sincere thanks for it. It is certainly a fine book and will help me to pass many a weary hour. When I received the book, it brought back to me again the memory of my student days and of the many happy hours I spent at "Old Westminster." Through many trying times it is a great help to a soldier to know that he is remembered by so many of his former acquaintances and friends.

Thanking you again and with best wishes for the future of Westminster College, I am,

Very sincerely yours,

MR. SIMPKINS PAYS HIS INCOME TAX

By ROBERT McBLAIR.

Mr. Simpkins gazed at the portrait on the wall till his eyes filled with tears. It was a portrait of his father, Colonel Simpkins, who had four times been promoted for valor during the Civil War and had died bravely on the field of action. Mr. Simpkins' throat ached now for two reasons: First, he reverenced and adored the memory of his father; secondly, his age and his eyes and his game leg wouldn't let him go to war himself. And as he observed the martial bearing and uncompromising gaze of Colonel Simpkins he saw, in imagination, the khaki-clad lads of the new generation marching forth and crossing three thousand miles of sea to fight, maybe die, for liberty.

Mr. Simpkins peered around to make sure that neither Bess nor John (who were at the teasing ages of sixteen and seventeen) were where they could see him, then he straightened and threw his right arm up for a salute. But his gouty shoulder twinged, and he groaned. He couldn't even salute.

"Damn!" said Mr. Simpkins, and with his other hand fiercely twirled his white mustachios.

He turned and limped into the library and sat down creakily before the mahogany desk on which were lying the blanks for his income tax statement, blanks which he had rather grumpily got from the Internal Revenue officer only that day after luncheon on his way home from the club.

Mr. Simpkins' income for 1917 had amounted to just about $15,000, and he had been rather snappy on the subject of taxes ever since he had discovered that the more income a man has the greater the percentage of it he pays in taxes. He could think of several men who, like himself, were married and had two children, and yet, although their incomes were nearly half of his, they would pay only a small fraction of the amount he paid. He gloomily drew the blank nearer and began filling in the information that it asked for.

As Mr. Simpkins' income was $15,000 he had to figure out the amounts payable on each of the successive smaller classes of incomes in order to arrive at the total due from himself. He passed over the first class who must pay taxes, that is, single men making over 1,000. His calculation for married men then showed up as follows:

First, they pay 2 per cent. (under the 1916 law) on all income over $4.000, deducting $200 for each of their children under eighteen years. In Mr. Simpkins' case this was $212, which he put down in the "payable" column.

He saw next that under the 1917 law, married men pay an additional 2 per cent. on all over $2,000—with the same allowance for children. This added $252 to his "payable" column.

He then observed that for every $2.500 jump in his income over $5,000 he had to pay a Surtax, the percentage growing larger with each jump. This was $250 more added to his burden. And on top of all this came an "Excess Profits" tax of 8 per cent. on all "occupation" income over $6,000, making $720 more.

The total, then, he must pay was fourteen hundred and thirty-four dollars.

"Whew!" exclaimed Mr. Simpkins angrily. "There's young Henry Wilkins, who married Jake Johnson's girl, he makes $2,000 and he doesn't pay a cent of taxes. I guess this is his war as well as mine!"

Thinking of young Henry Wilkins, he remembered that Mrs. Wilkins went every afternoon to make bandages for the Red Cross and that Henry, who was a lawyer, was aiding the Local Draft Board with its questionnaires.

"Well," he admitted to himself, "that makes a difference."

He thought next of Judge Willoughby, whose income was about $3,000.

"He only pays $20," commented Mr. Simpkins, not quite so angrily this time; and then a thought struck him and he sat up rigidly in his chair.

Judge Willoughby's son had been drowned on the Tuscania when it was submarined with the loss of two hundred soldiers.

"Judge Willoughby gave his son to America," muttered Mr. Simpkins.

He leaned forward suddenly and put his face in his hands.

For a long time Mr. Simpkins sat very still in that position. There was no sound in the library except the ticking of the tall clock and an occasional trill of laughter from the children skylarking upstairs. The square of light on the carpet gradually withdrew itself through the window, and first twilight and then darkness settled in about the quiet, white haired, sometimes irascible old man.

Mr. Simpkins was thinking things which he would never afterward speak of, he was thinking things that were too sacred ever to be put into words. But some inkling of his thoughts may be found in his rejoinder to Mrs. Simpkins when that placid lady came in and turned on the lights, and asked him whether he was ready for dinner.

"Judge Willoughby's only son was worth as much as fourteen hundred and thirty-four dollars, wasn't he?" Mr. Simpkins demanded of her.

As his wife, who was not unused to his superficial irritations, watched him in mild astonishment, Mr. Simpkins limped out to the hall and took his old felt hat and silver-headed cane from the hat rack. Letting himself out into the foggy evening, he tapped his way down to the corner, and mailed his income tax statement and check with his own hands.

"Now, God be thanked," said Mr. Simpkins as the lid clanked shut over his missive, "I can do this much for my country, anyhow."

Married Men Defeated in Game Last Tuesday Evening 28-17

About $53 Raised For Benefit of Local Branch of The Red Cross--Large Crowd Attends

The Single Men's basketball team defeated the Married Men's quintet in a hard fought game in the College gym last Tuesday night. There were several hundred people present when referee Billy Andrews of New Castle put the ball in play, and they enjoyed themselves every minute. Included in the number of rooters who presumably had been instructed in advance to root for the married men, was a bunch of lusty kids.

Followers of the indoor sport were reminded of the good old "ante bellum" days when they recognized the familiar face of Bunny Elliott, one time star center for Westminster and Tech Lambie, another Blue and White sattelite of other days in the lineup of the "Home Guards". Local basket ball fans will remember the wonderful basketball team that Westminster put out a few years ago on which Elliott and Lambie starred. That team had the distinction of defeating the fast Buffalo Germans who laid clai mto the championship of the United States. "Tus", another local product played a great game for the married men and at times gave a wonderful exhibition of ploughing through "Pitt's line to make that touchdown."

Ferris, an old Cornell man was right there with the goods and showed he could still play basket ball as well as run a farm on scientific principles.

Rosie White the best forward that ever Volant College produced, played a bang-up floor game and seemed to be every place at once. His passing was excellent and if the basket had been two feet either way from where it was located he could have shot a number of field goals.

For the youngsters Vance at center and Jimmie Cummings at guard played good basket ball. In spite of the fact that Bunny towered head and shoulders above him, Ad managed to get the tip off a number of times.

The other local single men also played well. It was simply a case of having better wind, more practise, and an intimate acquaintance with the floor; this is offered as an alibi for the married men. The lineup:

Single Men—28		Married Men—17
Johnston	F	Lambie
D. Cummings	F	White
Vance	C	Elliott
J. Cummings	G	Ferris
Brandon	G	McLaughry

Substitutions—Hunter for White, Cummings for Hunter, Young for White Allen for Vance, Conway for Brandon.

Field goals—Vance 4, J. Cummings 3, Johnston 2, Brandon 1, Conway 1, D. Cummings 1, Lambie 2, Elliott 1, Ferris 1. Fouls—J. Cummings, 3 out of 9; Lambie, 8 out of 10.

Referee—Andrews.

Between $53 and $55 was raised for the benefit of the Red Cross.

Man's Efforts Show Worth.

Character is best seen in the pursuit of its own ideals. Left to himself, man finds the level of his own thinking. His leisure hours are the index of his inner worth. It's what a fellow tries to be that shows his aim, declares Gut. It's easy enough to move along with the flowing tide. It's struggle against odds that tells of character. The world may never see your effort because it is engrossed in itself. But you will find the response of effort in increased strength and multiplied power. Even if you never succeed in realizing an ideal, you are a better man for having made the attempt.

Swift & Company Publicity

At a recent hearing of the Federal Trade Commission there was introduced correspondence taken from the private files of Swift & Company, which showed that the Company had been considering for some time an educational advertising campaign.

The need for this publicity has been apparent to us for several years. The gross misrepresentation to which we have recently been subjected has convinced us that we should no longer delay in putting before the public the basic facts of our business, relying on the fair-mindedness of the American people.

The feeling against the American packer is based largely on the belief that the income and well-being of the producer and consumer are adversely affected by the packers' operations, resulting in unreasonably large profits.

Swift & Company's net profit is reasonable, and represents an insignificant factor in the cost of living.

For the fiscal year 1917 the total sales and net profit of Swift & Company were as follows:

Sales

Profits
$34,650,000.

This is equivalent to a $3,465. profit on a business of $87,500.

If Swift & Company had made no profit at all, the cattle raiser would have received only one-eighth of a cent per pound more for his cattle, or the consumer would have saved only one-quarter of a cent per pound on dressed beef.

Westminster Now Leads in Basketball

Geneva Wins From Allegheny Last Night 23-22 at Beaver Falls

Beaver Falls, March 16.---Allegheny went down to defeat last night at the hands of the fast Geneva five on the latter's floor, 23-22.

In view of our decisive victory over Geneva, last week it looks as if Westminster holds the State championship in basketball this season.

WESTMINSTER GIRLS DEFEAT BEAVER GIRLS

The Beaver Girls received their worst defeat of the year when they met the Westminster girls here on Saturday. The home team gave their visitors a little object lesson on how to play basket ball. From the first tip off, the Westminster girls showed their superiority over the visiting team both in handling the ball and in locating the basket. During the game the Beaver forwards made two baskets and one foul to Westminster's 19 baskets and four fouls, making the score at the end of the game 44-5 in favor of Westminster. In the last quarter the the blue and white lineup contained three of the second team, but even then the Beaver girls showed no "pep" and caged only one basket to Westminster's 3 The playing of Captain Mc Donough was the feature of the game while the Westminster guards played a good game, never allowing their oppenents to shoot

The linup:

Westminster—44	Beaver—5
McDonough, C.	F. Shaver
Anderson	F. Carlyle
McClure	C. Wicks
Springer	S C Bonzo
Holliday	G. Douglas
Hickman	G Bouucher. C

Substitutions, Bonzo for Shaver, Shaver for Wicks, Allison for Bonzo, McBride for Anderson, Allison for Springer, Braham for Allison.

Field goals, McDonough 13, Anderson6, Shaver and Bonzo.

Goals from fouls, McDonough 2 out of 9, Anderson 2 out of 4, McBride 0 out of 2. Carlyle 1 out of 4.

AS WE LOOKED TO GROVE CITY

The following article was taken from the Grove Citv Collegian, and it clearly shows just how we looked to the Crimson five last Friday night

"The Grove Citv five went down to defeat at the hands of thier old rivals, Westminster, in the fastest game of the season last Friday night. The contest was thrilling throughout and the spectators cheered wildly at the splendid exhibition made by both teams.

The Blue and White opponents came to Grove City fresh from their victory over the strong Geneva team with the determination to add another scalp to their belt and were never worried from the first tip off. They are undoubtedly the clevest combination which has been seen on the local floor this season and their splendid team work and passing was the deciding factor in the victory.

The pasing and guarding of the visitors was far superior to any displayed by our own team, and the shooting of Armstrong and Loghry was of the very best. Armstrong seemed to be able to find the basket from almost any position on the floor and was with out a doubt the best center seen on the home floor this season. In him the Blue and White boys have a strong man."

Parental Effort.

"What are you working so hard for?" "I want to provide for my boy's future," replied Farmer Corntossel. "I want to lay by enough wealth so that I can leave Josh this farm for a golf course."

Star Center Gets Nearly Half of Season's Points

In the basketball season just closed, Armstrong made almost one half of the total number of points. The big center caged 85 field goals and 45 fouls. His high number for any one game was the Grove City contest on the local floor, when he shot 11 goals. Captain Loghry comes next with 59 field goals to his credit.

The standing is as follows:

Armstrong	85 Field goals
	45 out of 93 fouls
Loghry	59 field goals
Wierman	25 field goals
	58 out of 113 fouls
Cummings	8 field goals
Douthett	5 field goals
Trimble	2 field goals

Deep Breathing.

To maintain good health you should try to inflate your lungs to their normal capacity at all times, declares a physical instructor. The proper purification of the blood through oxygenation requires ample breathing. Drop your shoulders forward and then try to take a full breath. You will find it is impossible to do so in that position. Breathing is only partially accomplished with the shoulders forward and the breastbone depressed. The lower portion of the lungs cannot be emptied, and instead of receiving a supply of fresh air they remain filled with residual air.

The Swedish Almanac.

The Swedish name almanac differs from English almanacs in giving, besides the usual information, a Christian name for each sex for every day of the year, says London Graphic. The names set forth have to receive the approval of the king. The object aimed at is to secure a greater choice of names for parents and to avoid the endless repetition of a dozen or so names. A similar name almanac is issued under royal authority in one of the German states.

Favor Coarse Bread.

The refined white flour now generally used is a comparatively modern innovation, the process for its development having been perfected within the last half century. This flour produces bread highly pleasing to the eye and palate, as compared with the coarse brown bread of our ancestors, but there is a growing tendency on the part of dietetic students and physicians to denounce white bread as destructive of health and vigor.

Build Moonshades.

Mountain campers who scorn tents and sleep "in the open," have devised "moonshades" to shield their eyes at night, so that their slumbers may not be disturbed by the brilliant reflected light from the earth's satellite. The shade consists of a square of canvas stretched between the upper ends of two pointed stakes, which are driven into the ground in any desired position

Reduces Ice Bill.

Mix equal parts of cement and sifted sand with water, stiff enough to spread so you have a smooth surface, and have it one-third of an inch thick, or thicker if you wish. Let stand a few days to dry out. You have a good ice chest, keeps your ice longer and saves quite a bill.

Strict Accounting.

A business man requires those who handle money to account for all expenditures, holds an employee responsible for the full amount trusted to him and demands vouchers for all disbursements. Even then he may not be satisfied without a cash audit by an accountant. Material should be accounted for on exactly the same theory as cash itself (although possibly less rigorously), says Stephen Gilman, in Industrial Management.

Favors Early Motherhood.

Doctor Bell writes in the Journal of Heredity, Washington, D. C., with the statistical proof that young women unquestionably make better mothers than those who have postponed the responsibility of maternity until after thirty years of age. He favors early marriages and youthful motherhood on the ground that, contrary to popular opinion, the offspring of young mothers have a finer vitality and are the peers if not the superiors intellectually of children born of older parents.

THE RED CROSS NURSES OF EUROPE ARE GIVING TOASTED CIGARETTES TO THE BOYS

To anyone who doesn't know of the wonderful advances that have been made in the preparation of smoking tobaccos in the last few years it may sound strange to speak of toasted cigarettes.

Strictly speaking, we should say cigarettes made of toasted tobacco; the smokers of this country will recognize it more readily by its trade name, "LUCKY STRIKE"—the toasted cigarette.

The American Tobacco Company are producing millions of these toasted cigarettes and these are being bought in enormous quantities through the various tobacco funds conducted by the newspapers of the country and forwarded through the Red Cross Society to the boys in France.

This new process of treating tobacco not only improves the flavor of the tobacco but it seals in this flavor and makes the cigarettes keep better.

The Red Cross nurse is always glad to have a cigarette for the wounded soldier, as, in most instances, that is the first thing asked for.

Student Volunteers To Meet Here March 29-31

Preparations Being Made to Entertain a Large Number of Young People at Annual Event.

The annual meeting of the Western Pennsylvania Student Volunteer Conference will be held here on March 29, 30 and 31. This conference is probably the most important annual student meeting in this part of the state. Two years ago it met at Grove City and last year at Allegheny. Westminster was well represented at both of these gatherings and in both instances her delegates brot back favorable reports as to the value of the meetings for college students.

The local Volunteer Band and the Christian Associations are busy planning for the meetings which will begin on Friday night of next week and close on the following Sabbath evening. Invitations have been sent out to all Western Pennsylvania colleges and Normal Schools and some of them have already sent the names of their delegates. Those who are in charge of the affair are expecting at least fifty or sixty delegates from our neighboring colleges. However, the attendance this year may be somewhat lessened on account of abnormal conditions among all of the colleges.

An exceptionally strong program is rapidly nearing completion. Dr. W. B. Anderson of the United Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions will be here for the whole time. Dr. Anderson is known to many of our students and he is without doubt one of the strongest missionary speakers obtainable. The Student Volunteer movement is sending Mrs. Alice McClure who is well known to all and also Mr. Joshua Vogel a missionary from Japan, who has a real message from that country The committee is also expecting Mrs. W. C. Johnston from Africa and one or two other strong speakers. Missions will be discussed from a modern viewpoint and no doubt those who attend the meetings will receive a much larger vision of world events. The conference will be open to all of our students and faculty and it is hoped that all will avail themselves of the privilege of hearing these men and women of world-vision.

For the last two years our delegates have had only words of praise for the hospitality extended to them at these conferences. Allegheny threw open her fraternities and dormitories to the visiting delegates last year and all of the visitors were made to feel at home. The committees on entertainment this year hope to provide a similar hospitality for the delegates. They hope to entertain the boys in the clubs and rooming houses and the girls in the Hillside. As Westminster is noted for her hospitality among the neighboring colleges the committee in charge feel that they will find no real obstacles in providing for the enterainment. It is hoped that our faculty and students will co-operate to make the gathering a success.

ROBERT CUMMINGS GETS SCHOLARSHIP

Robert W. Cummings, '12, has been awarded the Jamison Scholarship at the Pittsburgh Theological Seminary. This means a prize of $600, which is to be used to take a year of post graduate work in Edinburg University. The former Westminster man will likely go to the University next fall.

This comes as a distinct honor to Mr. Cummings as the scholarship is awarded to the man whose grades have been highest through three years of seminary work.

"Bob" will be remembered by Westminster people as a member of the class of '12. After graduation he taught for three years, entering the seminary in 1915. While in school here he always stood high in his classes. He was a member of the college quartet which spent two summers on the road in the interest of getting new students.

Prof. McElree to Return

Prof. John J. McElree, college registrar and former head of the Latin Department who is now on leave of absence for this year will return to his work here for the opening of school in the fall. Prof. McElree has had bad health for the past few years and was granted a leave of absence to spend a year traveling in the West. in the hope that he would recuperate.

Prof. McElree is now located at Keokuk, Ia., where he has spent the winter at the home of his brother, Rev. H. B. McElree.

Large Crowd Attends Movies

A large crowd of town and college people attended the picture show in the college chapel last Saturday night. Ten reels of films were shown including "A Night at the Show"—Chaplin, "His Life for His Country," a war drama, and Pathescope Weekly, No. 3.

Birthday Party

The girls at the Hillside whose birthdays are in the month of March had a special table Tuesday evening. The table was decorated in yellow and white, the center being yellow daffodils. The favors were cleverly hand painted place cards.

Lieut. Perry A. Kuhn With Camp Films

Lieut. Perry A. Kuhn, '09, was in Pittsburgh last Saturday in charge of the exhibit of six reels of motion pictures, taken at Camp Sherman, Ohio, where he has been stationed for some time. The pictures have been named, "The Remaking of a Nation." The films were shown in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium in Pittsburgh and were seen by a large audience. Lieutenant Kuhn, who was detailed from the division headquarters at Camp Sherman, gave an interesting explanation of the scenes. The audience frequently broke forth in outbursts of applause as they learned of the training is doing for the men in the various camps.

Lieutenant Kuhn will be remembered here in Westminster as a crack athlete of a few years ago. Prior to his enlistment last summer he was a successful attorney in Youngstown.

Lieut. Stewart at Camp

Lieutenant Leonard Stewart, '13 left last week for Columbus ,Ohio whre he will spnd two months in ground work at the aviation school. Prior to his enlistment last fall, Lieutenant Stewart was in Washington, D. C., where he held an important position in the Council of National Defense office. .

It was through his work at the National capital that the former Westminster man received his commission. Lieutenant Stewart is a brother of Lieutenant L. M. Stewart '15, who is now located at Camp Sherman, Ohio.

College to Build Tennis Court

The tennis courts which were started last spring but which were not completed owing to the fact that so many men left school, will be completed this year by the college.

An endeavor will be made to get a number of men interested in tennis this year as some fast matches with the colleges of this section are being scheduled.

Dinner Party

James Spencer entertained at dinner at the home of his aunt, Miss Poppino, on Friday evening. Those present were Dorothy Holliday, Mary Wallace, Frances Wallace, Eleanor Hervey, Frances Verner, William Ashbrook, Edmund Shott , Donald Crowe, and James Cummings.

JAMISON TO GET HIS DIPLOMA THIS YEAR

Herbert S. Jamison who was in Westminster two years ago will get his diploma from the college with the class of 1918. Mr. Jamison is now completing his second year at the Pittsburgh Theological Seminary.

Although he did not do enough required work to entitle him to his degree while here, he has since made up the necessary credits at the University of Pittsburgh in connection with his studies at the Seminary.

"Jamie" will be remembered by Westminster people as president of the Y. M. C. A. and Men's Bible Class, also as manager of the baseball team in 1916.

WESTMINSTER ALUMNI HOLD REUNION

The Westminster Alumni Association held its annual spring meeting in the First U. P. Church Community House last night. In view of the fact that everyone is asked to economize the usual banquet was done away with this year and in place of it a very informal get-together reunion was held.

The affair this year was not so well attended as in other years, owing to the fact that so many of the men are in the service of the country.

The feature of the evening was a concert given by the Girls' Glee Club. The club was well received and responded to a number of encores.

DR. HOOD RECEIVES CAPTAIN'S COMMISSION

Robert Hood, '09 M. D., of Dormon, Pa., has recently received a captain's commission in the Army medical corps and has been assigned to Camp Sheridan, Montgomeroy, Alabama. Dr. Hood will assume his new duties April first.

After graduating from Westminster Dr. Hood pursued a course in Medicine at the University of Pittsburgh and graduated with the class of 1914. Since his graduation, he has been physician at the West Penn hospital, Dormont. He is a brother of Thomas Hood, a member of the present Freshman class

Walter C. Hoag in Service

The many friends of Walter C. Hoag, ex-'18 will be interested to learn that he is now in the Aviation division of the signal corps and is stationed at Kelly Field, San Antonio, Texas.

Hoag spent two years in Westminster and entered Muskingum at the beginning of this Junior year, from which school he would have graduated this spring.

Tobacco.

Duff led the Tuesday evening Y. M. meeting this week, with the subject, "Tobacco". The relation of the college man to the use of tobacco was disussed. together with the action of the government towards making tobacco a part of the regular rations of the soldiers

Capt. McQuiston Now an Instructor at Camp Lee.

Captain D. H. McQuiston '15, is now an instructor at Camp Lee, Va. He recently spent six weeks as a student at the Division school of Arms, learning the principals of Liaison and Machine Guns and is now teaching Liaision.

Margaret Noble spent a few days at her home in Aspinwall.

BELL AT GEORGIA TECH

Atlanta, Ga.
March 15, 1918

Westminster Holcad,
New Wilmington, Pa.

Just a brief letter to let you know where I am located. At present I am at the School of Military Aeronautics at Georgia School of Technology, Atlanta, Georgia. Georgia, Tech, as you remember, is the College that had the great football team last year you read so much about. The Georgia Tech baseball team and candidates have been holding practice for three weeks as the weather is very warm here. Guyon, that famous Carlisle athlete, is on the team and he is a powerful man.

I was very sorry to learn that Lawrence Milligan, Ferguson, Douthett, Toy McNaugher and the other members of the Ambulance Corps whom I cannot recall, had left Fort McPherson the second day after my arrival here.

Fort McPherson is only about two miles from here and I intended to look them up at the first opportunity. One sees many soldiers here, including English and French officers, instructors at Camp Gordon, which is about twelve miles from here, and many from Fort McPherson.

I would be glad to hear from any Westminster student and from the faculty members as well. With best wishes for the Holcad and Westminster College, I remain,

RALPH E. BELL, '16

My address is: Cadet Ralph E. Bell, School of Military Aeronautics, Georgia School of Technology, Atlanta, Ga.

The progrom this evening will be composed of ten reels with the following subjects:

parts.
"Beauty Spots in America,"
"Kernel Nutt and the $100 bill" 2 parts
Pathescope Periodical, No. 11

Veteran Has Novel Experience During The Civil War Struggle

Meets Soldier Who Insists on Coming Back, Although Left for Dead on the Field

The following very interesting letter was recently received by Dr. R. G. Ferguson and is being published in the Holcad on account of its historic interest and also in the hope that it may be read by some one who can give the writer the information which he desires:

Loveland, Colo., March 11, '18

Dear Brother Ferguson:

I have just read your account of the raising of the service flag at Westminster. It carried me back 57 years to the spring of 1861, when you and I were at Old Jefferson, where 5 of our senioir class enlisted in the Northern army and about the same number, I believe in the Southern army, besides I don't know how many from the other classes. Well, my class, '61, has had its 50th anniversary and at the time we had 17 living. A year ago I was in Pittsbhurgh and thought to call on two of them, Steven McCandless and Tom Johnston, but was informed they were both dead, and as Johnston was our secretary I didn't know where to go and find out who are living. I only knew certainly of one, Jim Duff of Lang avenue, Pittsburgh.

But I am writing to tell you the story of a real hero. I am hoping that you may be able to give me his name.

After the battle of Gaines' Mill in 1862, under McClelland, one regiment was scattered when night came on, and I with a little squad of the regiment lay down to get a little sleep. About midnight a man called out, "Tenth Penna. Reserves." I answered, "Here are a few of us." He said, "There is a man of your regiment down beside the Chickahominy dying. You would better go and look after him." I got two men to go with me and we went down and hunted him up. He was shot thru the right lung and the bones of one wrist were smashed to splinters with grape shot. We tried to carry him but he said the blood choked him if he did not keep erect. He was sitting on a stump. So we got under his arms and slid his feet along the ground for about one-fourth of a mile till we found a cabin and the doctor asked me if I had a silk handkerchief. I gave him one I had and he tore it in two; put one corner through the eye of a long probe and stuck it through the man's body and pulled the handkerchief through to clean out the wound. This he did twice and made a sling out of the other half of the handkerchief. It was now nearly morning and the doctor said that was all he could do then. We left him, expecting he would die there.

An hour later cavalrymen came and called out, "All hands across the river, quick." We ran across, and as we did so I noticed men standing with axes ready to drop the bridge into the river. The next day one regiment stood guard over the bridge. The second day we retreated possibly ten miles before dinner. While I was eating my hartack by the roadside I saw my "dead man" coming down the road very slowly sliding his feet along the ground. I went to him and asked him how he was getting along. He said, with a smile, "First rate." I said, "Why don't you get in an ambulance?" He replied: "Oh, I tried that, but it strangles me, and I have to walk." I filled up his canteen and haversack and waiked with him possibly half a mile. I could not leave my regiment. One hour later we were in the middle of the battle of Charles City Cross Roads, and fought until dark. Two men out of my rank of four were killed and I spent all night looking after my class mate Sam Hazen whom you no doubt remember. (Another man whom I believed to be fatally wounded. Indeed the doctor told him so; but he got well and after the war married my favorite cousin, but died from the effects of the wound five years later).

The next morning just after daylight we were in the battle of Malvern Hill, which lasted all day. That night we returned to the James river at Harrison's Landing. There we got our first night's sleep for five nights. It was the 4th of July, 1862. Along that afternoon I saw my dead man again coming down over the winding way to the river bottom. I never was more surprised in my life. He had walked 25 miles, sliding his feet along the ground. with a bullet hole through his lung and his broken wrist in a sling. I went to meet him and asked him how he was getting along, and again he said, with a smile, "First rate," But he could only speak one syllable at a time and that very feebly. He asked me what he ought to do. I told him there were hospital boats down on the river, and we would go there. It was possibly a mile but I walked with him and helped him up the gang plank into the boat and told the doctor his story.

Now the sequel:. He was taken to Philadelphia. His arm was cut off and he was discharged and went to his old home, New Wilmington, Pa., so his chaplain afterwards told me. Some person told me that he lived there many years and died possibly 15 years ago. He was a man about my size and age and had black whiskers, maybe a little older than I. I would like to know his name. I had it, but lost it. Would it be too much trobule for you to tell or show this story to some of your Grand Army men and find out what became of him? He surely was a man of heroic spirit. I think it is a good army story and I would like to know the final outcome of it. We are going to hear many such stories in the near future, new, up-to-date stories, and maybe we should let the old ones rest. But you see this old story of the Civil War came pretty near to some of us.

Thanking you in advance for any news you can find (perhaps I should call it history.)

I am, yours, sincerely,
W. P. McNARY

BOARD MEETING

At the Board meeting last Tuesday it was decided to turn the management of the college farm over to Prof. J. A. Shott again this summer.

The scheme was a success last summer and will be undertaken on a much larger scale this season

Prof. Shott expects to begin operations within a few days and make a start toward getting the crops in.

Board Meeting Held Tuesday

The annual spring meeting of the college board of trustees was held in the United Presbyterian Board of Publication building last Tuesday afternoon. President W. Charles Wallace and business manager J. A. C. McQuiston represented the college at the meeting. The regular routine of business was disposed of and the following officers for the coming year were re-elected:

President, Dr. A. R. Robinson,
Secretary, W. T. Pierce
Treas. David W. McNaugher.
Treasurer of Permanent Fund, John R. McCune.

To Dispose of Part of Farm

At a meeting of the College Board of Trustees, held in Pittsburgh last Tuesday, it was decided to offer small tracts of the college farm to suitable buyers. The larger part of the present holdings will be retained by the college, however.

The matter of connecting the concrete road to New Castle with the brick pavement on South Market street was also discussed and turned over to a committee. If the state and county co-operate in this it is likely that a new paved road will be opened near the Hillside, which will connect the two thoroughfares.

Hospitalis

The coming of the Student Volunteer Convention to Westminster, which begins March 21, will give every student an opportunity to exhibit the old fashioned hospitality for which the college is famous.

The success of the meetings will depend to a large degree upon the kind of treatment which we tender to the delegates from the other schools. If we treat them coolly and refuse to make them feel at home they will go away from here feeling that the meetings have failed.

After all life is made up pretty largely by our actions toward each other, so let us see to it that every visitor next week gets the glad hand and is made to feel at home while with us.

Keep Up Efficiency

There is a natural tendency since the warm spring days have arrived for students to spend less time in preparation of lessons. Social fellowship is all right in its place but it is all wrong when it interferes with the sterner business of getting an education.

There is no place in the modern world where we hear so much about efficiency for slackers. The student who fails to get as much out of each days work as possible is just as much a slacker as is the man of draft age who tries to evade the conscription camp.

In view of extra demand made upon every one in order tow in the great war, may we not as individuals endeaveor to increase our efficiency from day to day.

As to Remarkable Longevity.

We have all read of Thomas Parr, who lived to be one hundred and fifty-two. Likewise of the countess of Desmond, one hundred and forty-five; Margaret Patten, one hundred and thirty-seven; Thomas Damme, one hundred and sixty-four; John Rovin, one hundred and seventy-two; and Peter Torton, who reached the age of one hundred and eighty-five. But these cases of extraordinary longevity lack proof.

In the days when those persons lived no accurate chronological records were kept, and dates of occurrences were usually fixed by associating them in memory with other events believed to have happened about the same time. A man's identity was liable to be confused with that of a grandfather of the same name.

Nowadays nobody lives to any such ages. Why imagine that the extreme limits of longevity have shrunk within the last two or three centuries?

Ideal Guestroom.

The guestroom need not be the best and sunniest room in the house, but it should be light and airy, and be so decorated and furnished as to be informal and homey. The ideal is to have a guestroom a little detached from the rooms which are occupied by the family. The bed should be the most comfortable bed procurable. If possible have twin beds.

Seminary Bulletin

By J. D. Rankin

In this pork and pig-iron producing age, an age entangled in the rush of material progress and the pursuit of economic ends, the rating of the ministry is not currently recognized. Rather is there an undernote, sometimes supercilious, of disparagement. Have you never met any mole-eyed people who in a doleful ditty tone ever commiserated you on your unfortunate life-choice? It is your to brush aside this secular judgment and refuse to have your vocation scaled down, even to the level of a secondbest. What else rivals it? Politics and law and medicine and art and literature and the sciences and manufacture and trade—all have their legitimate place and are necessary to human welfare, but not one of them begins to co-ordinate itself with that to which you are dedicated. For the sake of something concrete contrast yourself with the twentieth century orator in the United States Senate as he warms up on the mathematics of woolen goods or raves about the tariff on hides; contrast yourself with the experts who deal with the thrust of an arch, or the utilization of radium, or electrical development, or bury themselves in logarithms and differential calculus. As for mere dollar getting and dollar hoarding and dollar spending, there is a world diameter between that and the lofty employments of your office. Let the matter be viewed, not through the murky medium of flesh and time, but sub specie aeternitatis, and the results of the average activities of men will seem to fleet away like a dream or a cloud or the track of a ship in the sea, while what you accomplish shall abide forever, for you have to do with the immortalities of things.

Survey your part in God's strategic plan. You are "laborers together with Him." Let that be a settled faith; drive a stake there that it may not escape you. Whatever the risk, God has taken it, and made poor, fallible men like ourselves vital in an undertaken that is absorbing the Trinity. Your mission (will you hear it) flows out of the mission of your Lord. "As the Father hath sent Me, even so send I you." From the hands of the Son of Man, marked with scars of His mediatorial pain, you will receive your ordination as propagandists of the Kingdom—its heralds, messengers, witnesses and pleaders. Not by the professor of culture, nor the ethical lecturer, nor the philosopher of the Academy or the Porch, is God's will be wrought, but by those who have been made "stewards of the mysteries" of saying truth and appointed to declare the unsearchable riches of Christ. "The old order changeth, yielding place to new," but nothing will cancel the commission of the man charged with the evangel of the Divine Sacrifice. Preaching has what biologists call a "survival value"; it will never be out of date. And the reason is that it administers a gospel as imperishable as the heart-hunger of Christ, Who "came to seek and to save that which was lost;" and Whose search, thank God! will go on until "He shall see of the travail of His soul and shall be satisfied." My brethren you are entering the field of action which concerns God most, which concerns His glory most. You are hastening to help Christ gain His crown "of full and everlasting, and passionless renown." That lifts your ministry to a superlative plane; that clothes it with cardinal significance; that dignifies it as the greatest, grandest work under the swing of the constellations. Let this be your master conviction; let it hang around you with clinging spell.

Give Him your best. In God's name give your Redeemer your very best. With singleness of eye and wholeness of heart, praying in the Holy Spirit for strength, let each man of you use "his own gift from God" up to the limit of his compass and capacities. Make sure that Jesus shall not be ashamed of you in the hour of his future, when He comes again.

Y. W. C. A.

The Y. W. C. A. held its regular meeting Tuesday evening in the Hillside parlors. The subject, "A Girl's Reading Standard," was a very fitting and helpful one to the girls. Miss MacLaggan conducted the meeting and in discussing the subject she gave some very valuable suggestions to govern the reading standards. One point she emphasized was that the Bible should be considered above all other books and should be read in preferene tco all other books.

EXPLAINS LAUGH OF BABIES

We Come Into This World of Sorrows With a Mysterious Sense of Humor.

The human love of nonsense is a divine mystery. We have often heard pessimists declare that we come into the world weeping. It is truer, I think, to say that we come into it laughing. For laughter in a baby seems to be its first conscious apprehension of something outside its small needs and pains. It may cry merely because a pin is sticking into it, but it laughs because already it sees something that makes it laugh, it knows not why, something that catches the eye or ear and seems irresistibly funny to it.

There is nothing more mysterious than a baby's sense of humor. It frequently loses it as it grows up, together with the other trailing clouds of glory, but most babies are born with it. To satisfy it nursery rhymes were invented, and to satisfy the same instinct in grown people "The Hunting of the Snark," that incomparable classic, came into being, and Caverly and Gilbert and Lear stood on their heads, so to speak, and performed such verbal antics before high heaven as must have made the very angels laugh.

When the Owl and the Pussy Cat, having dined on mice and slices of quince, "hand in hand, on the edge of the sand," "dance by the light of the moon," there is something which, as Stevenson was fond of saying, delights the great heart of man. But, of course, with these modern artists of nonsense there is usually a deliberate attempt at the grotesque and the absurd. We know why we are laughing, but with the old-fashioned rhymes of which I am chiefly thinking, we laugh—or, for that matter, cry, perhaps—without having any reason to give.—Richard Le Gallienne, in Harper's Magazine.

WHERE TO LOOK FOR WIFE

Seek Her in Butcher's Shop, Says This Writer, and Mark Just How She Buys.

A good housewife will look at least two square meals ahead of her nose. The modern system of marketing during the high cost regime is such a fine art that a youth contemplating matrimony should hie to the market place for selecting a bride. My boy, Zim advises in Cartoons Magazine, when you see a maiden pinching, smelling and pricing a soup bone, you may rely on her sense of economy, for she is looking forward not less than two meals. The soup bone, when cooked, is merely food in the rough or primitive state. Its choicest by-products are realized after bouillon stage. Thereafter comes goulash, the croquettes and the luscious hash. By all means avoid the girl who orders choice cuts of porterhouse or English mutton chops. She will not make a good helpmate. But the girl who selects the chuck or neck pieces or the tail end of a ham bone, and renders them into dainty, palatable dishes is the one you want. So take my advice and seek the market place when you feel that you have had your fill of bachelor loneliness and wish a taste of wedlock. Follow such a girl around until you are perfectly satisfied, then nail her.

Way to Success.

Power is the goal of every worthy ambition and only weakness comes from imitation or dependence on others, says a writer in Success. Power is self-developed, self-generated. We cannot increase the strength of our muscles by sitting in a gymnasium and letting another exercise for us.

Nothing else so destroys the power to stand alone as the habit of leaning upon others. If you lean you never will be strong or original. Stand alone or bury your ambition to be somebody in the world.

The man who tries to give his children a start in the world so that they will not have so hard a time as he had is unknowingly bringing disaster upon them. What he calls giving them a start probably will give them a setback in the world. Young people need all the motive power they can get. They are naturally leaners, imitators, copiers, and it is easy for them to develop into echoes or imitations. They will not walk alone while you furnish crutches; they will lean upon you just as long as you will let them.

One of the greatest delusions that a human being could ever have is that he is permanently benefited by continued assistance from others.

A Mercer correspondent says: Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McLaughry left Tuesday for New York hoping to say goodbye to their youngest son William, who at that time was at Camp Merritt awaiting a transport for the war zone. The young man is a member of the Allegheny General Hospital Unit of Pittsburgh, and since being called into srvice almost three months ago has been in training at Fort McPhrson, Ga.

Winter's Discipline.

He who marvels at the beauty of the world in summer will find equal cause for wonder and admiration in winter. It is true the pomp and pageantry are swept away, but the essential elements remain—the day and the night, the mountain and the valley, the elemental play and succession, and the perpetual presence of the infinite sky. In winter the stars seem to have rekindled their fires, the moon achieves a fuller triumph, and the heavens wear a look of more exalted simplicity. Summer is more wooing, . . . more versatile and human, appeals to the affections and the sentiments, and fosters inquiry and the art impulse. Winter is of a more heroic cast, and addresses the intellect. The severe studies and disciplines come easier in winter. One imposes larger tasks upon himself.

How to Tell Age of Eggs.

There is a simple method of ascertaining the age of eggs, based upon the fact that the airy space at the broad end of the egg increases with its age. Now, when the egg is placed in a tumbler of water in which any amount of common salt is dissolved, it will, with increasing age, tend ever more to assume a position with its longitudinal axis in a perpendicular direction. A fresh laid egg will lie horizontally on the bottom of the vessel. An egg from three to four days old will rise with its broad end, so that its longitudinal axis forms with its horizontal axis an angle of 20 degrees. At the age of eight days the angle increases to 45 degrees, at the age of two weeks to 60 degrees, and at the age of three weeks to about 75 degrees. When the egg is more than a month old it will float perpendicularly on its small end.

To The American People

There is no foundation for the alleged violations of law attributed to our Company by agents of the Federal Trade Commission and I want to say emphatically that Swift & Company is not a party to any conspiracy to defraud the Government. Nor has Swift & Company been guilty of improperly storing foods or of making false entries or reports.

Conferences of packers, where prices have been discussed, have been held at the urgent request and in the presence of representatives of either the Food Administration or the Council of National Defense. And yet the packers have been accused of committing a felony by acting in collusion on Government bids!

We have done our best, with other packers, large and small, to comply with the directions of the United States Food Administration in all particulars, including the furnishing of food supplies for the U. S. Army and Navy and the Allies, now being handled through the Food Administration.

We will continue to do our utmost, under Government direction, to increase our production and assist the Food Administration. We consider that the opportunity to co-operate whole-heartedly and to our fullest powers with this branch of the Government is our plain and most pressing duty.

The Trade Commission Attorney has, by false inference and misplaced emphasis, given to disconnected portions of the correspondence taken from our private files and read into the Record, a false and sinister meaning with the plain purpose of creating antagonistic public opinion.

The services of the packers of the United States are most urgently needed, and I regret exceedingly that we should at this time have to spend our efforts in defending ourselves against unfounded, unproved, and unfair assertions such as are being daily made public.

WESTMINSTER WINS THE FLOOR TITLE

The following article taken from the Pittsburgh Post for March 16 and written by a disinterested sport writer, solves beyond question of a doubt just what college five can lay claim to the basketball championship of western Pennsylvania:

"Which team is the collegiate basketball champion of Western Pennsylvania for the season just closed?

In past years this title always has belonged to Allegheny or Pitt or some other big team.

Not so this year, however. For the championship has been won by Westminster, if any college can lay a clear claim to the title.

Last night's victory of the Geneva College aggregation over Allegheny College at Beaver Falls, 23-22, after Allegheny had led right up to the finish, practically clinched the big honors for Westminster—that is. by a process of elimination

The process goes like this:

Allegheny beat both Pitt and Tech.

Tech beat Pitt

Westminster beat Tech

Geneva beat Allegheny

And Westminster won from Geneva 32-16.

A pretty clean cut verdict at that, it seems.

GIRLS CLOSE SEASON WITH EASY VICTORY

The Westminster Girls easily defeated the Beaver Girls Saturday afternoon on the Beaver floor The Westminster team outplayed their rivals in every respect, and only once throughout the game did the Beaver team gain on the home team, this being in the first quarter when the score stood 7-6 Beaver.

The first basket of the game was caged by Miss McBride, followed shortly by one from Miss Carlyle for Beaver. During the first quarter Miss McBride made five more baskets and Miss Anderson one, while for our opponents Miss Shaver secured two field goals and Miss Carlyle added a foul goal to her first basket, thus closing the first quarter, the score standing 14-7 in favor of the Blue and White.

During the second quarter each of the Westminster forwards gained four more points, while our rivals were unable to score owing to the close guarding of the Westminster guards. The score at the end of the first half stood 22-7 in favor of the "visitors."

In the third quarter Miss McBride made five field goals and Miss Anderson three. while Miss Shaver and Miss Carlyle each secured a field goal for Beaer, bringing the third quarter to a close with a score of 38-11 in Westminster's favor.

The fourth quarter came to a close after each team had added another basket to their score, thus at the end of the game the score stood 40-13 in favor of the United Presbyterians.

Westminster		Beaver
McBride	F.	Shaver
Anderson	F.	Carlyle
McClure	C.	Wicks
Springer	S C.	Bonzo
Matheny	G.	Douglas
Holliday	G.	Boucher

Field goals—McBride, 13; Anderson, 7; Shaver 3; Carlyle 3; Foul goals—McBride 0 out of 3 Anderson, 0 out of 1; Carlyle, 1 out of 1. Referee—Donaldson.

Armstrong on All-College Team

Someone outside of Westminster is appreciative of the worth of our basketball team. Of course the different teams that we have met know the ability of the Whie and Blue men but the Gazette Times prints a letter which represents us on an all-western Pennsylvania college team which is as follows:

Forward, Levine, Pitt.
Forward, Kerr, Allegheny
Center, Armstrong, Westminster
Guard, Henry, W. & J.
Guard, Wilson, State

TRACK

Quite a squad of men reported to the gym on Thursday for a preliminary work out in track work. Candidates are taking up the high jump and hurdle practise and the weights in addition to the running work. So far there are only two men out for the weights but both men show up as good prospects for the ensuing season. Among the squad are several who have won medals for track work here and in high shools,c, and bid fair to show up well for Westminster. Since baseball has been dropped it's up to the student body to support our track men as much as possible.

Willard Against Fulton

At last Jess Willard has condescended to meet Fred Fulton the championship challenger. The bout is to be held on July 4, but the place is in doubt as both boxers have agreed to wait for bids for the location of the bout by various promoters, especially in the West.

Willard is already in trining for the bout and contrary to public opinion, is not out of condition In fact he is as good as the day he downed Moran. It is interesting to note that Willard is the tallest of all men who have worn the heavyweight crown. He is 6 ft. 6½ inches in height and weighs 242, a record weight for the mitt kings. His challenger is but a trifle smaller being 5 feet 5½ in. in height with a weight of 225 pounds

Penn State Wins

Penn State's track team captured a total of 18 points at the Meadowbrook Meet at Philadelphia recently, this being the highest total made by any college team. One man, Ganzemuller, a sprinter, carried off 8 points. The total of points was: first in the 100 yards handicap; first in the 40-yard dash; second place in the broad jump; third in broad jump, and 880 yard dash.

These records are exceptional when the large number of professional athletes is taken into account.

Ray Hangs Up World's Record

Joie Ray of the Illinois Athletic Club, Chicago, established a world's indoor record for three quarters of a mile, covering the distance in 3 minutes 3 3-5 seconds at the Commercial Institute game at the Madison Square Garden Thursday night.

The former record was 3:07, made by Joe Driscoll at Buffalo, March 15, 1913.

Juniors Beat Sophs

The Juniors defeated the Sophs in a hotly contested basketball game in the college gym last nigh. Three extra periods were required to decide the game.

Loghry starred for he Sophs while Armstrong and Trimble played bang-up game for the Juniors.

Deep Breathing.

To maintain good health you should try to inflate your lungs to their normal capacity at all times, declares a physical instructor. The proper purification of the blood through oxygenation requires ample breathing. Drop your shoulders forward and then try to take a full breath. You will find it is impossible to do so in that position. Breathing is only partially accomplished with the shoulders forward and the breastbone depressed. The lower portion of the lungs cannot be emptied, and instead of receiving a supply of fresh air they remain filled with residual air.

Rattlesnake's Rattle.

The rattle of the rattlesnake is developed from the single scale or epidermal spine, which in most snakes forms the internal tegument of the tail. The bone on which the root of the rattle rests consists of the last caudal vertebra and is covered with a skin which is the beginning of the rattle in young rattlesnakes.

How Man Is Blessed.

Land is nature's gift to man. If you own some you are among the favored children of nature. One gift calls for another in exchange. Brain and brawn is man's gift to nature.

The Best Team In Our History

The most successful basketball season in the history of the College ended with the defeat of Grove City on their own floor. The team which represented the school this year was not only fortunate in its games at home but was very successful on foreign floors. When the enemies' territory was being invaded in most cases victory rested on the side of Westminster. In most instances the team showed its greatest strength away from home, contrary to traditions. We can remember when it was a rare thing for the team to annex a game abroad—few games were ever won from rival colleges on their floors, but quite the contrary has been true this year. Carnegie Tech, Geneva, Grove City and Hiram were all defeated on thier courts and we have everv reason to believe that Allgheny with a neutral official, would have shared the same fate on her floor. Crawford county is blessed with a number of citizens who have a good dose of cold feet. Other games were won but we enumerate only colleges, as it is with college teams we have to compete to get recognition and standing.

The race for College honors or the College championship has been most interesting. Westminster with few men in colleg to choose a team from, and with a very poor floor for playing, came thru her most successful basketball season and has the clearest title to the highest honors of the indoor sport for the year. Should Allegheny defeat Geneva in a third game on a neutral floor she cannot be classed as the best or honor team for she has been defeated by our nearest competitor by a small and unsatisfactory score, which team in turn was defeated very decisively on their floor by Westminster. Should Geneva be the victor every true sportsman must bear in mind that she was defeated by our team and cannot claim honors unless she meets and defeats Westminster in a third game. Outside of Geneva, Pitt and Tech, Allegheny has not met another college team in Western Pennsylvania or Ohio. A number of basketball critics have given to this college the distinction of having the best team in Collegiate circles and until Geneva and Allegheny show that they are true sportsmen and consent to meet our team and settle over again the Championship or prove that they have the best team, Westminster is going to cling to the honors given her.

The team was well balanced; played well together; the men tried to play the game as it should be played. They believe in passing the ball and I would like to state that that has been the source of their success this year. The team is one of which to be proud. The men always considered the game of first importance when abroad. Too much praise cannot be given to every member of the team for they were compelled to play all the scheduled games with few changes in the lineup. A vote of thanks is due the second team for the kind way they took the knocks in practice.

Now this little matter is on the quiet. By special arrangement with the printer we have been enabled to pass the Holcad censor, Mr. Dickson, to say a few words. And time would fail to tell all th good qualities of our faithful manager. "Dick" is a good fellow and a good mixer, a real manager, one of the first magnitude, always on the job with his smile and his purse, making provision for every want of the team. Dick provd himself to be quite a schedule builder this season, and although others wer running things on a war basis, he hopped right to it and what is more he put it across. Much of the success of the team is due to his efforts, and in recognition of this fact we have pleasure in congratulating him. This paragraph is "on" Dick in two ways. First, he knows nothing about it, and second it is about him, but not ALL about him.

Anyhow a fellow who has time to assist in the book store, edit the Holcad, manage the basketball team, act as financier of the Crescent Club, keep up with his classes and make numerous trips to the Hillside is a regular guy, and so we hand it to Dick. He deservs it all.

Westminster Man Wins $200 In France With First Prize Poem

William I. Grundish '16, recently won a prize of 1000 francs, or $200, for writing the best poem in a contest conducted by the Paris edition of the New York Herald. The contest was open only to soldiers with the American Expeditionary Forces, and the former Westminster man's poem was chosen from among thirty-nine MS which survived the original weeding out process by the judges. More than 800 manuscripts were submitted by contestants.

Mr. Grundish showed considerable literary ability while here in Westminster, editing the Holcad in '15 and '16. He was editor of the 1916 Argo, and occupied a position on many of the debate teams.

Grundish represented Westminster in the annual Tri-State Oratorical contest at Waynesburg college in 1916 and took third place. In athletics the former Westminster man proved himself to be a great tennis player, and he also played on the scrub football team for two seasons.

Upon leaving college Grundish secured a position on the Gazette-Times reportorial staff and was rapidly rising in the newspaper world. Shortly after war was declared last spring he resigned his position on the Pittsburgh paper and enlisted in the 30th U. S. Engineers. His company sailed from an eastern point on July 5th last, and since that time Grundish has been seeing actual service in France.

Westminster people unite in extending to Mr. Grundish their congratulations upon his bringing honor to himself and also to his Alma Mater.

The poem follows:

FACING THE SHADOWS

When I behold the tense and tragic night
Shrouding the earth in vague symbolic gloom,
And when I think that, ere my fancy's flight
Has reached the portals of the inner room
Where knightly ghosts, guarding the secret ark
Of brave romance, through me shall sing again,
Death may engulf me in eternal dark—
Still I have no regret nor poignant pain.

Better in one ecstatic, epic day
To strike a blow for Glory and for Truth,
With ardent, singing heart to toss away
In Freedom's holy cause my eager youth,
Than bear, as weary years pass one by one,
The knowledge of a sacred task undone.

WESTMINSTER WINS IN IN DUAL DEBATE

Westminster had little difficulty in winning both debates from Bethany college in the annual forensic contest between the two colleges last Tuesday evening. The Blue and White affirmative team composed of Forbes, Brandon and Skellie received a 2 to 1 decision at Bethany whle the negative team composed of Duff, McKnght and Spencer secured a unanimous vote on the home platform.

The local boys in both instances did credit not onlv to themsellves but also to the institution .The question, "Resolved that Federal Legislation should be enacted providing for the compulsory arbitration of industrial disputes," was very ably handled by both teams, as the decision of the judges at both contests would indicate.

The Bethany men who debated here were Canary, Griffin and Miller. The judges of the home contest were Rev. John S. Duncan, Mercer, Pa., Attorney. C. H. Akens, New Castle, and Attorney Virgil L. Johnson, Mercer.

'68ters To Hold Reunion

A large number of the members of the class of '68 have signified their intentions of being present at the annual commencement this year. President W. Charles Wallace recently sent out invitations to the living members of the class Rev. Joseph R. Wallace, father of President Wallace, is a member of this class. The visitors will be the guests of the class of '18 while attending commencement exercises.

Prof. J. D. Barr Buys Home

Prof. J. D. Barr recently purchased the house now occupied by Rev. A. A. Graham on Front street, from W. R. Campbell. Prof. Barr will move his family to their new home in the near future.

Ralph D. Kyle Ill.

Ralph D. Kyle, Secretary of the U. P. Board of Education, with offices in Chicago, is now confined in his room at a Pittsburgh hotel, with illness. Secretary Kyle was planning to pay Westminster a visit on his Eastern trip but his sickness interfered.

Effect of War on Colleges

The effect of the war on the colleges is seen in an article in the January issue of Scribner's magazine by Dr. Robert L. Kelley, executive secrtary of the Church Boards of Education in the United States. Among other things, Dr. Kelley says that mort than 100,000 college men are in actual military service. Of the 40,000 men enrolled in the first series of training camps, 35 per cent were college men. At least 45,000 men who were in college last year are now in active military service, besides a large number of experts in various lines of co-operative service. The colleges will lose this year more than $200,000,000 in tuition because of reduced enrollment. Every phase of war times service is being led by college men

Randolph in Town on Furlough

The many friends of Randolph who has been at Camp Pike for several months were agreeably surprised to see him in town last Saturday. Randy was here on his furlough which he has been spending for the most part at his home in Ellwood Citv. He was at Camp Sherman for a few weeks after his call but was transferred to Camp Pike where he is in training with a machine gun company. Train loads of men are leaving his camp every day and he says that he wouldn't be surprised to be called to go any day.

Penn Relay Meet

Coach Lambie is planning to take a relay team to the big Penn relay meet held under the auspices of the University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia, April 28-29. All the colleges in Pennsylvania are planning to be represented at this meet, as well as many from other states.

Meet With Tech May 11

Westminster's big track event of the year will take place Saturday, May 11, at which time the Blue and White team will stack up against Carnegie Tech on the latter's field in Pittsburgh. Coach Lambie is drilling the squad and expects to have men entered in every event.

Teaching Dates Changed

Mr. Williams, teacher of pipe organ, and Prof. Kurtz, violin instructor, have changed their day of coming to Westminster conservatory of music from Wednesday until Monday.

MRS. McCLURE TALKS TO THE Y. W. C. A.

The Y. W. C. A. held its regular meeting Tuesday evning in the Hillside parlors. At this meeting Mrs. Alice McClure gave an extremely helpful and inspiring talk It seemed as though she had an insight into the college girls mind and knew the questions which were paramount there, for she mentioned and gave helpful advice on very important questions. Especially did she show the Christians standard in regard to retaliation. In doing so, she sifted the matter of retaliation down to a fine point that there were two reasons why many girls favored retaliation and gettng angry: First, because it was the path of least resitance, and second, that they were afraid of unpopularity if they would not retaliate and always stand up for their rights. She then showed the serious teaching in regard to retaliaton, and said that if we had the real love of Christ in our hearts we would not retaliate but would suffer abuse and slander for His sake.

PRES. BURNS HERE NEXT TUESDAY NIGHT

President James A. Burns, head of Oneida Institute, Oneida, Ky., will appear at the Second U. P. Church as the closing lecturer of the Community Course. President Burns is a typical mountaineer and represents five hundred thousand true Americans who have lived heedless of the advances in civilzation being made by their neighbors to the north and south of them.

President Burns comes to the local platform highly recommended as a public speaker of merit. He always brings a message of real worth wherever he speaks. The Community Lecture Course committee is to be congratulated on bringing a man of President Burns' caliber to New Wilmington.

Entertained Hillside Girls

Miss Mary Henrix of Pittsburg who is spending a few weeks in our village, proved herself quite an able hostess last evening, the 10th, when she entertained a party of girls from he Hillside, at the Van Club. Games and music were the sources of entertainment At an appropriate hour the girls were ushered into the dining room where a prettily appointed luncheon awaited them.

Pitzer Much Improved

Physicians report that Jim Pitzer, who has been seriously ill at Sharon, where he had been sent on government work, is very much improved in health and all danger is past. An injury received in football seems to have had quite a bit to do with his condition as a clot was formed on the brain; this, however, has been partially cured and Jim will soon be at work again, we hope.

The College Presidents Association of Pennsylvania, is now in session at the University of Pennsylvania,, Philadelphia. If you doubt the veracity of the ouija board, ask "Chuck" Ashton. It sure did tell him a few things.

WHAT COLLEGES DO FOR YOUNG MEN

The following article was recently published in a New York paper and is being reprinted by the Holcad to show just now the world in general looks upon the average college man:

"A college is a factory for turning raw material into case-hardened athletes, kid-finished society leaders and future members of 'Who's Who.' Its work is marvellous. It can take an eighteen year-old-youth with premature trousers and haystack hair, and in four years can work him over into a calm-eyed football champion who looks as if he had just stepped out of a ready-made clothing advertisement. It can transform a bashful boy, who turns his toes in so they will not be to prominent, into a loud noise in a flat hat and a sore necktie. who is only happy when he is stealing the wheels from under a trolley car. It makes statesmen out of cowherders, society leaders out of plough-boys, half-backs out of mother's darlings, and wise men out of high school Seniors. And it accomplishes all of this without taking the material apart or using an axe on it.

"Colleges were invented a great many years ago, but have only become virulent during the last fifty years. Formerly a college was a place in which to learn all about science, lawn tennis, politics, evidences of Christianitv, blocking off with the elbow, how to keep a dance program straight, histrionics, frat house construction, trigonometry, gymnastics, how to live on credit, matrimony, the science of making the hair stand up straight, political economy, noises—mechanical and vocal, Greek, human nature, girls, and policemen. The college student of today learns all there is to learn about all of these in four years, whras one hundred years ago a graduate was lucky if he could read Latin and Greek at sight. Inventors boast of the great strides made by science in the last century, but science is a canal Loat compared with education."

Did Not Get Furlough

Vic Minteer, '19, of Camp Sherman, has informed his parents here that he has failed to secure a furlough to return home for a short time. A few weeks ago Minteer wrote home that he would be back for a few days but because there are so many men leaving Camp Sherman for parts unknown the authorities are not free with furloughs for the men. Minteer expects, however, to get home for a short time later before he goes across.

Mrs. Roberts of Greenville, visited her daughter Jesse, on Sabbath.

Mary Auld is spending the week at her home.

Jay Garvin Writes Dr. Freeman

Jay Garvin, in a recent letter to Dr. Freeman, says that he expects to sail for France in the near future:

Camp Jackson, S. C.
April 6, 1918

Dear Prof. Freeman:

Just a word to let you know that I am enjoying army life and getting along fine. We have fine officers. If you meet them half way they treat you like a man. I have learned a whole lot of the value of discipline from them. One day the captain gave a command which was wrong and we did what we knew was right. He ran us up and down the road for fifteen minutes for it. We expect to sail for France before long. I am sorry that I will not be able to be back home for commencement.

Sincerely yours,
JAY GARVIN

Howard Martin Fund

In spite of the fact that large subscriptions have been made already by the students and faculty to the Y. M. C. A. Student Friendship Fund, the Red Cross, and other calls for money, the subscription to the Howard Martin Fund bids fair to equal or exceed that of other years. The matter of the Howard Martin fund was presented by Dr. Wallace last Thursday morning. Subscription cards were passed and the students and faculty asked to make their subscriptions there. Practically one hundred dollars were subscribed, and more will probably be added later.

It is requested that those who have not yet paid their subscriptions will do so before April 20.

The Freshman girls and Freshman boys basketball teams held a picnic last Saturday afternoon on Furnace Hill. The time was spent in playing games and taking pictures. At six o'clock a weiner roast dinner was served. Captains Anderson and Braham made speeches as did several members of both teams. The bunch returned to the Hillside about 7:30. Miss Mary Shaffer chaperoned the picnic.

Reading

The criticism comes from many sources that college students do not read as much as they should, and it seems that the charges are true. A college student is supposed to be a person of wide outlook and broad vision, yet how can he be if he does not follow the current happenings of the day.

The country has been at war now for over a year, and we are living in extremely interesting times—times in which history the like of which has never been seen, is in the making.

One day recently a professor asked a class of seniors to relate one of the happenings of a few days before, yet not one of the entire class could give him an answer. College students, this is a deplorable state of affffairs. The world is looking to you as its future leaders, and will you be able to fulfill your mission with the greatest amount of efficiency, if you live day by day heedless of the things that are happening about you, things about which you could familiarize yourself if you would only form the habit of reading some of the current news papers and magazines.

Specialization.

Modern ways of living demand specialits—men who are particularly trained to do certain things in a definite way. We find specialists in medicine, law, science, and in fact all of the known professions. The man of genearl knowledge of a few generations ago finds little place in our modernern scheme of affairs. Technically trained men soon surpass him in his field of endeaver and he is put upon the shelf.

Specialization is all right if the individual has a broad general knowledge upon which to build, but it is all wrong if he becomes narrow-minded thru thinking about one thing all the time.

Lincoln's timely advice, "know something about everything, and everything about something" should come home with special emphasis to thinking American students these days. when so much depends upon them.

A liberal course of study should be the foundation upon which every specialist builds his knowledge. There are entirely too many men who do not find their best selves simply because they have followed a single narrow line of endeaver, entirely heedless of the vast fields on either side of them.

Westminster students, are you going to have a narrow, bigoted vision, or are you going to have a world perception?

The Kaiser, soon after coming to the throne, said that his life had been molded by the shades of five men—Alexander the Great, Theodoric II, Frederic the Great and Napoleon." The Washington Star suggests that he has gotten mixed in his catalogue, as his action in the last three years indicates that the "shades" that molded him were those of Tiberius Caligula, Herod, Annanias and Judas Iscariot.

Prof. Moses in Washington

Prof. Elbert R. Moses left Tuesday for Washington, D. C. to attend a conference of Chautauqua lecturers which is to be addressed by the President and heads of the different Commissions and Ambassador Gerard. Prof. Moses represents the National Lincoln Chautauquas.

The purpose of the conference is to receive from the Washington authorities such information as may be used in the work during the coming season. The Governmnent has adopted this plan to bring before the people much information otherwise unobtainable.

The lecturers who will come to New Wilmington during the Chautauqua will be able to give us much of the inside facts, and it will be interesting to know the details of the great world struggle.

Mercer Presbytery Holds Meeting

Mercer Presbytery met at West Middlesex Monday evening and Tuesday. On Monday evening the roll was called, followed by a sermon by the retiring Moderator, Rev. W. M. French. His theme was "Abiding in Christ."

The following officers were elected: Rev. W. P. Gordon of Farrell, moderator, and Prof. J. D. Barr, Clerk.

On Tuesday reports were given which showed substantial work along all lines. Applications for aid were acted upon and routine business attended to. The following were nominated for the General Assembly offices in Presbytery: W. J. Logan, Esq, Financial Agent; Rev. R. A. Foster, Superintendent of Young People's Work; Prof. O. W. Reaney, Supt. of Sabbath School Work; Rev. P. B. Logan, Superintendent of Missions. These nominations are to be acted on by the General Assembly which meets in Pittsburgh the last of May.

The following are our delegates to the Assembly: Ministerial, Rev. A. A. Graham, Rev. J. M. Blackwood and Rev. L. S. Clark. Lay delegates, Prof. J. M. Shaffer, Findley Kendall and James Peebles.

The Foreign work at Sharon is progressing nicely and was recommended to the Board of Church Extension as worthy of their support. The work at Harbor has also prospered under the leadership of Rev. Matson. The new church building is being pushed with vigor and will no doubt be ready for use in the near future.

Rev. Robert Cummings gave his trials for licensure. His textual sermon was on the subject, "The Stolen Gods." The rest of the trials were given in outline. His efforts were highly commended and special mention made of his scholarship and the prize won in the Seminary which entitles him an extra year in Edinboro, Scotland.

On motion, it was decided that the places of meeting should be followed alphabetically, thus bringing the next meeting to Eastbrook, the second Tuesday of June.

Rev. J. M. Blackwood, Mr. Bradshaw of Sharon and H. T. Getty of this place, were appointed a committee to arrange for a laymen's conference.

Delegates in attendance from New Wilmington churches were Dr. R. G. Ferguson, Rev. A. A. Graham, Rev. P. B. Logan, Prof. J. D. Barr; the lay delegates were T. M. Hutchison and Floyd McNair.

Grandmas Not So Old.

Esther gazed long and earnestly at the picture of a be-capped and bespectacled little old lady that headed her reading lesson. "Miss Brown," she said, wonderingly, at last, "they don't make grandmothers nearly so old now'days as they used to, do they?"

Reunion

The former members of the training table enjoyed a reunion and special table on Monday evening. The table was decorated with the college colors, Blue and White, and a basketball graced the center of the table. During the dinner an immense pie made its appearance. When the pie was cut it was enjoyed to the utmost, and all ate their fill to make up for the many times that they had to sit by and see others eating pie.

The Passing of 1918

A very sad and solemn ceremony took place at the Hillside on Tuesday evening, when the Senior girls gave up their positions as heads of the tables to their Junior sisters. Francis Perkins, senior vice president, wearing her cap and gown, led the way into the dining room. When all were assembled at the tables, Miss Perkins from her throne, gave the junior girls some parting instructions and advice. At the conclusion of this address each Senior girl placed a baby's bib about the neck of the girl that was taking her place, as a symbol of the latter's youthfulness. The tables were decorated with the colors of the two classes. At the close of the meal the underclassmen sang, "Where, Oh, Where are the Grand Old Seniors?" and the Seniors hastily withdrew.

One's Career.

Strictly speaking, every life is a career because it is a course that is run from start to finish, but as generally used the term implies an unusual life record, something exceptional and out of the ordinary, says a professor. Childhood is a period of life, but it is not a career. One's career is the life one lives and the record one makes whether it becomes known to the public or not. The term public career is applied to lives largely spent in the public service.

WE GET THE BEST

It is hard to get good beef cattle and pork, but we have provided for the wants of our customers. We buy all our meat from local farmers. It is home killed and kept scrupulously clean at all times

Try a pound of our Oleo. The high prices of butter makes this a welcome substitute. It's the best to be had. Many prefer it to butter.

A complete line of cured meats and home rendered lard.

FOOTBALL COACH-ELECT GETS COMMISSION

Chalky Williamson, who was to have coached our football team last fall, but who is now in the Navy, received a commission last week as Navy Ensign. He writes as follows:

"Well, my commission finally came in today (March 25), and I am now an Ensign in the U. S. Naval Reserve Flying Corps. Can't say that I feel any different from yesterday with this exception—I wont have to jump and get in line any more at the command "Port section, fall in," Do not know where I will be sent from here, as my orders have not come in and probably will not be here for a week or maybe longer.

"I did quite a little flying last week, including some 'stunt' flying. I went through stalls, loops tail spins, side slips, and skids with an instructor. Then two days after that I obtained permission to do some of them myself and succeeded very well. I firmly belive in stunt flying to a certain extent, as it gives one much more confidence in his ability and also teaches him how to regain control of the machine quickly after getting in a bad position. Furthermore, there are certain stunts which are highly advantageous in maneuvers in aerial fighting. I am also getting some experience in flying in squadron formations and like it very much. It takes team work to keep positions properly."

WESTMINSTER MAN GETS PROMOTION

Waldron Coulter, '17, has recently been made instructor in Mathematics and Gunnery of the heavy artillery at Fortress Monroe, Va. At a recent test of big guns at Sandy Hook he found the range and one of the guns made 7 hits out of 9 shots, which is considered exceptionally accurate work.

Coulter enlisted shortly after the declaration of war last spring and was immediately sent to Fortress Monroe where he has been in training ever since.

While in school "Red" specialized in mathematics, which no doubt enabled him to win his recent fine promotion. He was also president of the Van Club, manager of the football team in 1916, and he pitched for the baseball team in 1917. His many Westminster friends unite in extending him congratulations.

Letter From Cummings.

Clarence Cummings member of the Senior Class, and now at Camp Sherman, Chillicothe, O, writes the following interesting letter for publication in the Holcad:

I just received the Holcad and devoured the contents, figuratively speaking, of course. That is the way we talk around here except when the Kaiser is up for discussion, and then we tear him to mere shreds with absolute facts. We appreciate the old paper more when we are in camp than when we were answering the summons of the gongs at 8:30, 9:25, etc. 'Tis the bugle now that calls us in the morning instead of Perry on the end of the rope and again it is the bugle in the night sounding the taps at 10:30 that means we should be in our own quarters and not loafing around some ather fellow's room digging out some lesson for the morrow.

'Tis reveille instead of Perry
And taps in place of Jerry
By which we judge our time.

I was in the infantry when I first came down here but succeeded in getting a transfer some time ago into the medical corps. I like the work very well. We have a fine bunch of fellows in our barracks, about thirty and I think at least one third of them are college men, coming from Michigan, Western Reserve and Haverford. We have interesting work and the men seem anxious to become efficient. Our duties do not in any way correspond to those required of the men in the base hospital units. When we cross the pond and get into active service it will be our work to render first aid to the wounded in the front line trenches and get them back to the field hospital. Seventy-three hundred new men came into camp last week and 10,000 more will arrive the latter part of this month. The new men have been fitted with uniforms and are now getting their first lessons as to how to do "about face" and "squads right." Wednesday and Saturday afternoons have formerly been holidays but such is no longer the case. This division is to be ready to sail by August 1, and every minute is to be utilized so that the men will be up to a high standard of efficiency at that time The men here seem anxious to get across and into the mix-up, such a spirit is especially evident since the reports of the big spring drive have come in.

Best wishes to faculty and students,

CLARENCE W. CUMMINGS
Hospital No. 1, 158 Depot Brigade, Camp Sherman, Ohio.

RALPH McCLURG IS NOW A CORPORAL

D. Ralph McClurg former editor of the Holcad, and honor man in last year's senior class, recently received an appointment as corporal. McClurg, who has only been in the service a short while, was formerly located at Waco, Texas, but was recently transferred to Camp Morrison, Va., where he is in the balloon division of the aviation section, signal corps.

The many Westminster friends of the former Holcad editor unite in extending their congratulations to him upon his recent promotion

Large Crowd Enjoy Movies.

One of the largest crowds of the year took advantage of the free picture show in the college chapel last Saturday evening. These movie exhibitions have been constantly growing in favor with the people of the town as well as the college students.

The films shown were:
A Bit of Human Driftwood.
Submarine Warfare.
Fox Trot
How Luilding stones are quarried.
Cultivation of rubber
Josh's suicide.

Frank Burton in Depot Brigade

Frank Burton who recently left school to enter the National Army is now in the 158th Depot brigade at Camp Lee, Petersburg.

McMurray to be Transferred

Wallace McMurray, who is in the aviation department of the Signal Corps now in training at Kelly Field, Texas, expects to be transferred to Fortress Monroe, Va., in the near future. The company in which he is will likely receive their final training at the Virginia camp before going overseas.

Seminary Bulletin

By Dr. W. R. Wilson

That there is such a thing as a call to the ministry scarcely needs to be asserted. The Bible, the experience of the ministry, and the universal thought about it settles that quesion. We can therefore dismiss this phase of the thought.

What, however, constitutes a call, and how is one to recognize it? Both of these questions press for answer from everv thoughtful Christian young man.

It may be hard to define in exact words just what a call is. The Word of God does not undertake to do so. It simply gives us examples of it. But a man whom God calls will know it when it comes. Elijah and Elisha knew so did Isaiah, Jeremiah, Paul, Finney, Spurgeon, Cuyler and all the rest of them. They may not have been able to define it. but they knew it when it came. That is the essential thing. How then shall one know it?

It may be helpful to remember that it does not come to one who is not a child of God. Balaam and Judas may seem to be exceptions, but at any rate they were rejected preachers, and at no point call for our imitation or taking them as examples.

One should remember, too that it is not a question whether on the one hand will be a minister of the gospel or on the other hand will give himself to selfish living, but In any event we are called to a life consecrated to Christ's service Rom. 12:1 sets the standard for everyone of us. To hear His voice we must conform to this standard.

Also we should dismiss the thot that the call is an audible, irresistable, miraculous impulse; that God is at all likely to deal with us as with Isaiah or Paul or Raymond Lull or President Finney, or in fact exactly as he has dealt with any other one. He will take His own way in dealing with us, and very likely it will be by some still small voice.

Then one should remember too that the agent through which we receive the inner call is the Holy Spirit. Therefore, one should make it possible for him to make his voice heard by recognizing the fact that he does indwell in everyone of us as God's children; and by trusting Him in this way to make known to us God's will in our life work. "We have received . . . the Spirit which is of God; that we might know the things which are freely given us of God.

Finally, and also first and all the way, speak to God about it as a child would speak to his father. Remember that he has said, "In all thy ways acknowledge Him and He will direct thy paths"

If one folow a course like this, sooner or later, if God is wanting him in the ministry, there will come a sense of duty from which he cannot escape. He will be restless and unhappy in deciding for any other course; he will be peaceful and quiet of heart as he decides for this service. If this does not define God's call to the ministry, it is at least that call.

Such a call God is certainly making to enough of our young men to keep up the supply of the ministry in our country, which Dr. H. K. Carroll has just stated numbers 181,808. Even this number finds the Church short of efficient men. In addition we must maintain the work abroad, and enlarge to the extent of 407 men if we fully answer God's providential call. Is it not for you to show that he is not calling you?

Sem-Four.

Why a Rostrum?

The word rostrum is of Roman origin. The rostrum was a platform, or elevated place, in the Roman forum from which orations, pleadings and funeral eulogies were delivered. It was so called because it was adorned with the rostra, or beaks of the ships taken in the first naval victory gained by the republic.

Westminster Man Is A Candidate

This community is to have a candidate for the Legislature. On Monday of this week, William McElwee, Jr., decided to enter the field, and a number of friends speedily secured the necssary names to file his petition with the Secretary of the Commonwealth at Harrisburg.

Candidates for public office have been practically unknown in this community, and this in spite of the fact that the borough has loyally supported the Republican party in every campaign since it became a corporation.

It is quite unneccessary to offer any remarks by way of introduction or to comment either upon Mr. McElwee's fitness or character. We know these facts, because he has always been one of us, public spirited, capable, willing, and honest, loyal to the community and striving to make it a better place in which to live. Now it remains for the community, recognizing these things, and serving its own interests to "get out and get under."

Mr. McElwee, in addition to being an attorney of more than ordinary ability, has occupied with credit the position of solicitor—or rather advisor—to the County Commissioners—a most difficult position, when efficiently administered. In our humble opinion, there is no tion which puts a man in closer touch with the taxpayers of the county, or gives a better understanding of conditions affecting all classes of people, particularly farmers. A tribute to his efficiency and attention to duties in this office was paid him when the State organization of County County Commissioners elected and re-elected him as treasurer of that body. He has also delivered an address before the State organization upon the question of taxation.

At the present time Mr. McElwee is president of the Westminster College Alumni Association, solicitor for the boroughs of New Wilmington and Bessemer, and an active member of the Community Club of this place.

This community, more than at any other time in its history, needs a representative at Harrisburg. Matters of vital interest to this district will be up for consideration at the next session of the Legislature, and is important that men be sent to the State Capital who can be depended upon to do the right thing.

Making of Mistakes.

Big men make big mistakes. Little men could not make big mistakes if they tried; they haven't the capacity. The fellow of strong personality, the man who grabs at an opportunity with all his might, and goes straight toward its accomplishment hurriedly, is more likely to make big mistakes than the weazened of the world who are timid and afraid. But the mistakes do not amount to so much with him—that is the point. The little fellow who makes a mistake is lost. But the big fellow is only encouraged by making a mistake, and often is able to drag success over his errors as a giant might drag a bull through the underbrush. The little fellow is not to be blamed, but the big fellow is to be admired.

Ideal Guestroom.

The guestroom need not be the best and sunniest room in the house, but it should be light and airy, and be so decorated and furnished as to be informal and homey. The ideal is to have a guestroom a little detached from the rooms which are occupied by the family. The bed should be the most comfortable bed procurable. If possible have twin beds.

Honor Flag Presented to Town At Meeting of Local Citizens

Good Crowd Hears Several Fine Addresses at Second United Presbyterian Church.

The Liberty Loan meeting at the Second United Presbyterian Church, Tuesday evening, proved to be one of best attended and most interesting of any yet held since the beginning of the war. Dr. W. Charles Wallace presided and the college chorus, under the leadership of Director W. W. Campbell sang several selections.

After the singing of the Star Spangled Banner by the College chorus, Dr. Wallace offered an earnest prayer for the sucess of the allied arms and for the inspiration of those who had come to speak to us.

T. F. Moorehead, chairman of the Lawrence County Liberty Loan Committee, was the first speaker. Mr. Moorhead is deeply interested in this work. and has been devoting all of his time for many weeks to the cause. He told of his plans for organization, of the efficient aid of the churches, and how his assistants had labored faithfully to bring success. He paid his respects to the man who is able and will not buy Liberty Bonds, citing an instance of one wealthy Lawrence county citizen (originally from Butler county) who refused to buy bonds because he could get 6 and 7 per cent for his money, and then told of a neighbor, a workingman with a large family, who had bought two bonds, trusting in the Lord that he would be able to pay for them. Mr. Moorhead promised that unless this particular rich man came across the people of Lawrence county should know his name. Close watch is being kept on those who do not buy bonds, particularly those able to do so, and the objections are now in the hands of the authorities at Washington. A bond in every home in Lawrence County is his slogan.

At the conclusion of his speech he presented to New Wilmington and Volant the honor flags given by the United States government, as a mark of distinction in raising the amount of the quota for the Third Liberty Loan. The flag presented to New Wilmington is inscribed with the words, "The first town in Lawrence county to raise its quota," and Volant was accorded the second place of honor. Dr. Wallace received the flags for both towns and made a short speech of acceptance in which he paid a compliment to the characteristic energy of both communities.

The chairman in introducing William Kennedy, commissioner of the New Castle Board of Trade, referred with much pride to the Scotch ancestry both of the speaker and of himself.

Mr. Kennedy is a man of force and broad education. His extensive travels and knowledge of history past and present enabled him to present his subject in a logical and interesting way. He brought to our people a newer and more convincing conception of the great world war, dwelling chiefly upon the achievements of England and her colonies. He prefaced his address by paying his respects to the Hohenzollern family. whom, he said, had been planning for world dominion not only forty years, but for four hundred years. He referred to early English history as proof of his assertions and spoke of the reign of George III and the Revolutionary war; the war of 1812, the Civil war and the Alabama claims, and finally the battle of Manila Bay, when England took a stand with Dewey. Reference to these events in American history was made in support of his claim that we owe unswerving allegiance to Great Britain as one of our allies. There has been much German influence brought to bear against England in this country, and it was to counteract this propaganda that Mr. Kennedy brought out the points above mentioned. He said that England has been and is our friend, and took occasion to refer to the protection afforded us by the British navy.

The speaker referred with cutting truthfulness to our complacency in entering this struggle and pointed out the danger before the country. War has not come home to us, bue he predicted that our coast cities should yet feel the weight of the Kaiser's air ships. He referred to the longe range German guns now in action as evidence that nothing is impossible in military science Mr. Kennedy was rather pessimistic in his conclusions as to the duration of the war. He said that military experts had fixed the time at from three to fifteen years, and said that many of the younger boys would see service and some of the men now above the draft age. This declaration created a profound impression upon all who heard it.

Mr. Kennedy comes of fighting stock. Members of his immediate family have been in the Revolutionary war, on the colonial side, at Waterloo, in the Crimea, (numbered with the Light Brigade made immortal by Tennyson)in the Boer rebellion and in the present struggle. A brother was killed on the British dreadnaught Queen Elizabeth in the Dardenelles, another disappeared at Mons, and a sister was killed by a bomb while serving as a Red Cross nurse in a hospital in France. This personal touch to his address served to illustrate the loyalty and devotion of our English allies.

The speaker paid his respects to the "dirty Hun" and said that the nation which once boasted of Luther, Schiller, Beethoven, Geothe, Wagner and others, had lost its soul. The Prussians have even changed the Bible and the Lord's Prayer to suit the purposes of the military masters. He insisted that we must no longer foster the idea that the German people are innocent of the atrocities charged, but all are alike and must be treated as outlaws until victory is assured. He declared that it would be 500 years before the rest of the world would trust the German nation. They have lied and deceived every one with whom they have dealt in this war. He said that had the allies been defeated at the Marne there would have been a German uprising in this country and an attempt made to seize the government.

He concluded his address by reciting his dream of peace: Lloyd George would call the allied nations together for conference, and in earnest of the pledge of the soldiery to get the Kaiser the battleship Pennsylvania would go up the Kiel canal and take on board the Kaiser and his banana-faced son, von Hindenbug, von Tirpits, von Ludendorff and the rest of the Potsdam bunch and meet the allied fleet at Heligoland. Then at the final conference Lloyd George would ask Uncle Sam to take the seat of honor at the head of the table, which is rightful place.

H. T. Getty closed the meeting with a short but interesting speech on the local financial achievements in connection with the Liberty Loans. He said that Uncle Sam had received about $150,000 from this community, and spoke of the general interest taken even by children, who are buying Liberty Bonds with their savings. He emphasized again and again the necessity for saving, and alluded to the loans yet to come which must be financed out of the savings and not from the surplus of our wealth. Mr. Getty said that up to the present time there had been very little sacrifice, but that the time was coming when there would be. We must provide for the future, he said, and to do that we must save.

He denied the story circulated in certain quarters, that the banks are deriving a profit from the Liberty Loans. Additional work and extra hours are the result of these campaigns to all banks.

He paid a tribute to the soldiers who have gone from this community by saying that with a few exceptions, all had bought Liberty bonds.

The chorus then sang a song written especially for the Liberty Loan campaigns, which is being used extensively in New York and vicinity. Director Campbell obtained the music especially for this meeting.

The assembly dispersed with the singing of America.

DEBATING SQUAD HOLDS FIRST PARTY

The Westminster College Debating Squad closed the season with a party in the debating room on the third floor of Old Main, Wednesday night. This is the first time in the history of the school that the debating season was closed with a banquet. The members of the squad to the number of nine, with their respective fair ones, assembled at eight and spent the time until dismissal in various games and amusements. After partaking of the lunch which had been prepared, the party broke up at a late hour, unanimous in voting this social affair a grand success. The party was chaperoned by Prof. and Mrs. H. S. Hollopeter.

Y. W. C. A. Meeting

The regular Y. W. C. A. meeting on Tuesday evening was given over to the installation of officers for the ensuing year. Miss Gladys Krause, president of the Y. W. C. A. for the past year conducted the meeting.

The services were very impressive as the old girls turned over the positions which they had so ably filled for the past year into new hands. Each member of the cabinet gave an account of the particular part of the Y. W. C. A. in which she had served for the past year. These accounts showed the great work which the Y. W.C . A. had done in the school and also for the needs of the outside world. Especially was this true of the treasurer's report which showed the great amount that our Y. W. had contributed to the different missionary and war fund budgets.

Two Plays Given by Dramatic Students

The class in dramatic expression under the direction of Prof. Herbert I. Hollopeter put on two plays in the College Chapel last night. His "Model" Wife, a one act comedy, was exceptionally well played and the parts were all produced in good style. Clair Vance and Mary Sloane, as Everett Arthur and Mrs. Munford Wells were especially good.

The Betty Wales Girls, a comedy in three acts, deals with college life in a girls' school and is intensely humorous from start to finish. The play is adapted to the Westminster setting which made it more interesting. Jean Speer as Betty Wales played the part of the leading lady and deserves a lot of credit for her brilliant acting. Aurel Anderson as Babe Henderson also starred. The cast:

JAY GARVIN AT SOUTHERN CAMP

Jay Garvin is one of the popular Westminster men who is now in camp learning the technique of modern warfare. Jay left school last February for Camp Sherman, Chillicothe, Ohio, where he was placed in the headquarters Company of the 332nd Infantry. Some time ago he was transferred to Camp Jackson, Columbia, S. C. as a member of the 1st Corps, Truck Company No. 1.

Garvin is a graduate of East Liverpool High School class of '12, and entered Westminster in the fall of the same year. Sickness halted his college course and he dropped out of school. He reentered Westminster in 1916 and is a member of the present Senior class.

Garvin played on the varsity base ball team for a number of seasons and was captain of the senior class basket ball team when his call to enter the service came.

He is planning to return to school to receive his diploma with his class on May 29.

Camp life seems to be agreeing with Jay as he recently wrote to some of his friends here saying that he had gained several pounds in one week.

The unit of which he is a member is rapidly getting into the service and it is likely they will go across in the near future.

Westminster Has Successful Season on Debating Platform

White and Blue Wins Three Contests out of Four From Strong Opponents--One Contest Lost to College of New York

The Westminster College debating squad has just closed one of the most successful seasons in the history of the institution, despie many handicaps due to wartime circumstances. When the smoke of registration had cleared away, it was discovered that only four old varsity debaters had returned to school. Three of the last year squad are now in the service of the country: L. K. Ferguson, J. C. Richards, and Harold Lucas. With the old men as a neucleus, our coach, Prof. H. S. Hollopeter, built up a squad which won three out of four of the scheduled contests. The 1918 squad was composed of the following men: McGeoch, Lostetter, Duff, Forbes, Brandon, Hart, McKnight, Skellie, Foster, and Spenser.

The first debate of the seeson was held with Waynesburg College at Waynesburg, Pa., on Mar. 14. The team which represented Westminster on the patform was Lostetter, McGeoch, and Duff. The contest was a very close and interesting one, but the representatives of Waynesburg were forced to accept the loser's share in a two-to-one decision. The students and facuty of Waynesburg united in extending to our team a royal reception and welcome which was sincerely appreciated.

The main event of the season was the debate with the College of the City of New York, held in the College Chapel, April 5. McGeoch, Lostetter, and Brandon upheld the arguments of the Blue and White on the affirmative of the proposition: "Resolved, that the federal government should take all necessary measures to prohibit, in the United States, the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors as beverages." In this debate the speakers appeared in full dress suits and made a very pleasing appearance on the chapel platform. Although two members of our team were vetertans of the struggle last year in which Westminster was declared the victor, yet our team lost by a two to one decision. The contest was the most bitterly contested struggle ever staged in New Wilmington, and but for the superior delivery of New York's representatives, Westminster undoubtedly would have been declared the winner.

The season closed with a dual debate with Bethany College on the proposition: "Resolved, that federal legislation should be enacted providing for the compulsory arbitration of industrial disputes." Westminster was represented on the home platform by Duff, McKnight and Spenser, who debated on the negative side while Forbes, Brandon, and Skellie journeyed to Bethany and upheld the affirmative there. Our men completely outclassed Bethany's debaters and easily won both of the contests.

Thus ended a season which, in some respects, was one of the most strenuous ever undertaken in the annals of our Alma Mater. Heretofore the squad has concentrated all its powers upon the study of a single question, which has been the one selected for all the debates of the season. During the present season, debates were scheduled on three different subjects, the Waynesburg debate having been argued on the Canadian Plan of Arbitration. Notwithstanding this variety of propositions upon which to study our men came through victors in all except one contest and acquitted themselves with credit in that. The members of the squad desire to extend their thanks to the coach, Prof. H. S. Hollopeter for his untiring efforts in our behalf, as well as for the efficient manner in which he directed the activities of the squad. Thanks are also due to the members of the faculty who have co-operated with us in every way, and who have sacrificed their own time in order to coach and criticize our feeble forensic efforts.

LETTERS

Ever since athletic sports came into prominence at Westminster, successful contestants have been awarded the coveted W as a reward of merit upon the field of athletic struggle. The insignia has been carefully guarded, and in the past has only been awarded to those men who have played in a certain number of games, or who have successfully competed in a specified number of track or field events. Athletes in the past have nobly expended their efforts toward securing the privilege of wearing a letter, with the result that Westminster has produced teams that have given the institution prestige among the colleges and universities both in this state and in adjoining ones.

A movement is now on foot to award the much coveted privilege of wearing a letter to debate men. The forensic contest is just as much a college activity as is football or basketball, yet it does not seem fair to award to debate men the same rights that are naturally connected with athletics. If letters are awarded to debaters why do not the members of the glee clubs, editors and managers of the Argo and students connected with other activities demand the same recognition? They are just as truly representing Westminster as are the debaters.

Debate should be awarded an insignia of some kind as should all forms of student activities but to award a letter to everyone who represented the college in any way would soon lessen the real meaning of a W to such a degree that few would strive for it

The student body as a whole is against the proposition as the petition now in circulation shows and some definite action should be taken to forbid the awarding of letters to any except those who have won them in athletics.

WRITE TO THE BOYS

At the present time there are are over half a hundred men who were in Westminster last year, in the service of their country. These men are human and naturally enjoy getting letters from ther college friends. They are representative Westminster men —men who while in school were doing things. We are proud of them, and justly so. They have sacrificed personal ambition, time and money, and are willing and glad to make the supreme sacrifice if need be that the world may be a safer place for Democracy.

Let us show our appreciation of these men by writing them cheerful, newsy letters. Do not depend upon the other fellow to write; do it yourself. No matter if you do only get a postal card in reply, answer it with a letter. Remember that a man in camp is leading a much more strenuous life than are we back here at home His time is largely taken up by the routine daily drill of camp life. A number of the will go over soon whether to return or not time alone will tell. Send them across with the realization that Westminster people are interested in them and in what they are dong.

Sit down today and write those letters you have been intending to send for a long time, it is the least you can do.

RELAY TEAM

Mainly through the untiring efforts of coach Hugh Lambie, Westminster is represented today at the big Relay Carnival, held under the auspices of the University of Pennsylvania at Philadelphia. In years gone by the Blue and White has held an enviable position in the sporting world through the fast relay teams which have represented her at the big eastern meet, as the article in last week's Holcad indicates, written by a man who more than once helped Westminster to win a first.

It is hoped that this may be a revival of that one time popular and valuable form of sport. Track men should be encouraged to never let interest in the Penn Relay meet die out in Westminster. It is an excellent advertisement for the school to pit men against the best athletes from colleges and universities over the United States.

Saved Shipmate's Life.

Few reports of heroism made to the navy department are more remarkable than that concerning James Marico, ship cook, first class, who will probably receive a gold life-saving medal, in addition to the letter of commendation sent him by the secretary of the navy. In the midst of a terrific gale Chief Quartermaster Eddker H. Robertson, U. S. N., was washed overboard from the U. S. S. Smith, while attempting to clear a jam in the steering gear. Exhausted by the cold and rough sea, Robertson could no longer help himself, when Marcio, tying a line to his waist, jumped into the water. Catching the quartermaster, he clung to the half drowned man until the two were hauled aboard. Not only was the act of Marcio's one of great heroism, but the test of his courage was shown in the chance he took with such a rough sea. The gale at the time was one of the worst in years and the ship was rolling at fifty-five degrees. This young hero enlisted in the navy in April, 1914, at Philadelphia.

Funston Has a Coward Test.

Nowadays they pick out the cowards before instead of after the battle, says a member of the medical staff at Funston. A trained staff at the medical camp spends its time in diagnosing the drafted man for symptoms of cowardice. When the symptoms are present the man is disqualified for service in the battle line. In some instances he is retained in the army and serves his country at menial tasks.

The officer ot the medical staff who gives this information, says he has became an expert in this particular line of research, and has learned to spot the physical coward with accuracy, but that of the 45,000 men who have been trained at Funston only thirty have borne the bacilli of the hesitant font.

For Him Who Dares.

The United States government is to give official recognition to acts of bravery on the field of battle by individual officers and enlisted men. There has been for many years what is known as the Congressional Medal of Honor, which is bestowed on soldiers who perform deeds of daring in the face of the enemy. It is the heart's desire of every American soldier to win this decoration, for it is this country's equivalent of the Victoria cross of Great Britain and of the Croix de Guerre of France.

High Cattle Prices Accompany High Beef Prices

If consumers are to pay less for beef, live-stock raisers naturally will receive less for cattle.

If farmers are paid more for live stock, consumers will necessarily pay more for meat.

Swift & Company pays for cattle approximately 90 per cent of the price received for beef and by-products. The remaining 10 per cent pays for dressing, freight to market, operation of distributing houses, and in most cases, delivery to the retailer. Net profits also have to come out of this 10 per cent.

This margin cannot be squeezed arbitrarily without danger of crippling the only effective means of performing the complex service of converting cattle into meat and distributing this meat to the fighting forces and to consumers.

Swift & Company's net profit on beef during 1917 was only ¼ of a cent per pound. On all products, it was a little less than four cents on each dollar of sales. Complete elimination of these profits would not affect appreciably retail prices of meat, or farm prices of live stock.

Swift & Company will be glad to co-operate in devising methods that will improve conditions in the meat and live stock industry.

Transfer of these officers to the replacement camp is taken to mean that they will be ordered to France in the very near future, in time to be of service in repulsing the Hun in the offensive now under way.

Lieut. Stewart received his commission at the conclusion of the first officers' training camp at Fort Benjamin Harrison and since that time has been stationed at the Ohio canonment."

No Thoughtless Days!

"We have our wheatless day and our meatless day once every week," says the Soda Fountain, "but so long as the war lasts we must never have a thoughtless day at any American soda fountain." Wastes at the soda fountain in years past have caused losses of thousands of dollars—particularly sugar wastes in the form of leakage ond overservice of sirups. A manufacturer of soda supplies reports observations during a visit recently made to more than 100 fountains during the period of the sugar famine, when he saw clerks preparing sirups by guess, using more than directions called for, and saw dispensers fill sundae dishes nearly to overflowing with crushed fruit, and draw anywhere from one and one-half to three ounces of sirup for a drink, the result being a cloying sickish drink instead of the fruity, refreshing soda that people like best. He recommends strict adherence to directions on labels, remembering that the manufacturer has spent years experimenting with his goods and knows best how they should be used. Too much sugar in soft drinks is not merely wasteful of ingredients, cutting down profits, but results in loss of trade.—Food Bureau Bulletin.

DAVE MILLER, '20 WRITES OF CAMP LIFE

Dave Miller, formerly a member of the class of 1920, writes a very interesting letter about camp life at Sherman. Dave is going to try to return to Westminster for Commencement.

Camp Sherman, Ohio,
April 16, 1918

Dear Westminster Friends:

We have just been released from quarantine and it was certainly a great relief for us to be out again after being confined to quarters for a week.

Army life is so different from that which we have been used to it makes one feel as if he were living in a new world, with a new environment.

Discipline is the breastworks of the army. We are told by our officers that discipline in the army today is of far greater importance than in the time of the Civil War. This rule is our most important item to carry with us in a military manner, for if disobeyed, may result in severe punishment.

The Red Cross and Y. M. C. A. have provided the camp with a building in every section where we have a chance to amuse ourselves. The Red Cross provided the camps with a large building known as the Community Building, which is a social center and provides a place where we can entertain our friends who come to visit us. It is built in the form of a red cross and may remind one of a fine hotel lobby. The Y's conduct libraries, and have picture shows, lectures, concerts, and various other things.

We are well taken care of. Our food is good, our clothes are warm and barracks kept clean. Our dining rooms are plain, no finely varnished tables and chairs no silverware, no china and no table cloths; just plain, ordinary long tables and benches. We eat out of tin dishes and drink from granite tins. Every man has his own mess kit which he washes and takes care of himself. When once seated at the table it is every man for himself. The dish is started at one end of the table and if it happens to be empty before it gets to your end, you are out of luck, for there is seldom any in reserve. I am still in the infantry. Every new recruit after bing in the infantry awile is anxious to get out of it. All think it the hardest part of the army, for we have to take long hikes and carry a nine pound gun and eighty pound pack. I am certainly thankful that I am strong and have good feet. We have men in our company who do not weigh a hundred pdunds and have to carry that eighty pound pack and gun. When they are hiking you hear them grumbling and want to fall out for rest, but have to go on. We cannot fall out of ranks until told so and one has no sympathy from the officer till he drops dead. Our division has to be ready to sail across the water by August 1st, and every moment is utilized so that every man may be at the highest standard of efficiency by the time to sail. We have had orders to drill and take hikes at night so we may be familiar with night work over there. Sabbath night about 11:30 after we were all sound asleep the bugle blew and all were ordered to be dressed and outside in our squads in three minutes. It certainly was some scramble, those men falling over top of one another to get their clothes on and out. Some wanted to know what the idea was. After we were straightened out in our squads the lieutenant told us it was only a fire drill. He said this being April ((fool) we could expect almost anything to happen at night. Our lieutenant told our company to be ready for transfer almost any day, to make room for 10,000 new recruits coming to camp the latter part of this month. We do not know where we will be sent, all are anxious to know, but we are never told anything until the last minute.

The kaiser is the principal talk among us, and all are anxious and willing to go over the mighty deep and get that Peace which will make the world safe for democracy. Some of us may have to sacrifice our lives; but that is a small price to pay for revenge on Germany for the kultur and strife she has committed against the women and children of Belgium and France.

We have a recruit in our company who will not put on a uniform or obey orders. Some of our men have expressed their opinion of him, while others have said to get a rope. That sounded too cruel to us to do such to our own American people. The lieutenant is trying to antagonize him by having an armed guard with him all the time, keeping him from reading newspapers, receiving letters or from writing letters. This may persuade him to put on a uniform through time but it does not seem to have much effect on him so far.

Best wishes to faculty and students.

VIC MINTEER HOME ON 44-HOUR PASS

Vic Minteer, who has been at Camp Sherman since before Christmas, dropt into town last Sabbath on a 44-hour leave from Camp Sherman. Although Minteer has been down there longer than some of the fellows who have already gone across he still expects to be in this country for a while till his company and bat talion have completed their course in gunnery. At present Vic is attending night school and studying telegraphy, gun projection, and other lines of work such as range finding as his company is detailed to go ahead of the battery proper and signal the locations of the guns with respect to the enemy and to find the proper range for firing.

Camp life seeds to be agreeing with Vic, as those who saw him will say. The work is from 9 to 8, with some fatigue work which fills the day beginning at 5:45 at reveille. There are still a few of the Westminster men down there in the same company as well as a few of the town boys. Prof. Hearn, Eugene Sampson and Norman Anderson are all together, and sent up with Vic their regards to everyone. Minteer says that it is becoming increasingly difficult to secure a furlough the most that can be gotten now is a 44-hour leave such as he got, although an effort is being made to secure an extension to 48 hours for the Pennsylvania boys.

"Minnie" is still holding down his old position as shortstop among the company "Nine" and says that their team is a regular one, occasionally winning a game from some of the numerous other teams.

Miz Dart Playing Ball in France

Miz Dart, former Westminster star tackle and catcher is now performing behind the bat for the 15th U. S. Engineers doing actual service with the American Expeditionary Forces in France. Lefty Dornon one of the star amateur twirlers of Pittsburgh is managing the team and they have won all games played.

Willie Greenway of W. & J., and Sunny Kesner of Carnegie Tech are the other college stars who are playing on the same team.

W. D. Cleland, '05 Now Captain

Dr. Wm. D. Cleland, '05, recently received his commission as capain in the Medical Corps of the United States army. Dr. Cleland's new commission comes as a distinct promotion from the rank of First Lieutenant. Before his enlistment Dr. Cleland was a prominent physician of Harlansburg. He is now stationed at Camp Logan, Houston, Texas.

Capt. Cleland was recently married to Miss Marv Long, '15, of this place.

Nothing Doing on Saturday, P. M.

When asked if his company ball team would come up for a game here in a week or so Minteer said: "Well, you fellows may be able to get a game up for some Saturday afternoon," and then he added, "but you needn't think that I'll play ball if I come around on Saturday afternoon." Of course nobody got the big idea.

Norman Anderson Home

Norman Anderson, special '17, was home on short furlough last Sabbath. "Chuckle" is tall as ever and heavier than he has ever been. He is said to be the biggest man in his company. He is in the infantry.

Seminary Bulletin

Dr. C. F. Wishart

When I was in college it was never my fortune to belong to a fraternity. It was forbidden, as I understood, under the federal constitution, the laws of congress the statutes made and provided in the great commonwealth of Illinois, the solemn interdict of the faculty, and a certain looking for of fiery indignation from dear old Dr. McMichael, the first. When I joined the Philo society the first question that was put to me was: "Are you a member of any college fraternity?" And the second was: "Will you become a member of any such fraternity during your course" Both of these I answered trembling in the negative.

Sometimes, however, since those days there has been in my heart a sort of wistful envy of the life-long friendships that have grown out of college fraternity associations. I still think as we were then taught that there are dangers connected with the secrecy of their organization and methods. But there was something about their fine associations which made me rather envious until it began to dawn upon me that three years after leaving college I had entered the finest fraternity in the world—a fraternity without any evil features, without any secrecy and yet with all the splendid traditions and inheritances, with all the glorious fellowship which the best college fraternity can know anything about. It is the fraternity that dates back to the time of Isaiah and Amos and Micah and whose records come down hrough history with some of the finest names in every generation on the roll. Men of ideals and of culture, men of trained minds and liberal education; a large majority of whom have turned away from commercial opportunity or brilliant careers in other professions that they might devote their lives to maintaining the saving salt of idealism in the civilization of the world. Could there be a better material for the personal of a great fraternity?

They are bound together, too by pressure from without as well as by the impulse of a common training and common purpose within. They are subjected to misunderstanding, to criticisms, sometimes to sneers and persecutions at the hands of the man on the street. They pass their lives in a majority of cases under the sternest kind of financial limitations. They have all learned that the great supreme lesson of sacrifice for an ideal. And because of this they are drawn together in a splendid sympathy of understanding and a spontaneous freeness of fellowship which I believe is unmatched in any other profession.

In spite of all that is said and imagined it is a happy association too. No class of men have more and better fun when they get together; no class of men so universally educate their children; and with all the modern tendencies to deprecate the ministry no class of men have on the whole a better standing in the community.

In a recent issue of "Who's Who in America" out of nearly twelve thousand names almost one thosand are sons of clergymen, a number out of proportion to the whole number of men in the population of the country. "According to that standard there should have been not more than fifty of these famous men the sons of clergymen." This is the statement of Dr. McCartney in his fine little book "The Minister's Son." Let me give another quotation.

"Of the more notable men in our history who were sons of ministers, we find in political life, Wilson, Hughes, Cleveland, Clay, Buchanan, Arthur, Quay, Morton, Beveridge, Witman, Sulzer, and the lamented Dolliver of Iowa; among jurists, Field and Brewer; among educators, Carroll, Faunce, James, Lounsbury, Stockton, Axson, Giddings; in history and literature, Sloane, Parkman, Bancroft, Holmes, Emerson, Henry James, Lowell, Gilder, VanDyke; in invention and science, Cyrus W. Field, Samuel F. Morse, Agassiz and Ottmar Merganthaler; inventor of the linotype; in music, DeKoven, and Louise Homer; in the church, Beecher, Alexander, Hodge, Abbott, Jonathan Edwards; in philosophy, James. In the hall of Fame, fifty-one Americans are honored. Of these ten are the sons of ministers.

The Westminster College Holcad

Vol. XXXIV — New Wilmington, Pa., May 4, 1918 — No. 29

A Sketch of the Early History Of the Holcad and First Staff

Little Ship, Launched in 1884, Has Been a Valuable Asset to Westminster

By Dr. R. G. Ferguson

The little ship, as its name means, set sail at the close of the year 1884, and was therefore on its way before I came to the college in the same year. The men and women who launched the enterprise and directed the early history were a brainy bunch.

They were these:

W. Hayes Moore.....Editor-in-Chief
I. N. Moore ..... Assistant
Robert L. Hay, H. P. Golden
Sadie M. McElree.....Literary Dept
R. J. Love, J. P. Vance....
..... Local and College Dept.
J. L. Snyder ....., Exchanges
Ralph P. Allen .... Business Manager

I. N. Moore, Golden, Love and Allen were of the class of 1885. Prof. I. N. Moore has made good in the educational field, both Normal and Collegiate. He served his Alma Mater for a term of years and of his own choice returned to his position where he now holds a high place in the esteem of his pupils. Harry Golden is a physician in the far West. Love is a pastor—a missionary—in the city of Pittsburgh, after spending a number of years in Knoxville College, Tenn. Ralph Allen is still in a journalistic enterprise with a wholesome moral trend. J. P. Vance was a man of unusual ability, lost to the world in a blizzard in Canada. The rest of the mariners were of the class of 1886. Hayes Moore had a brilliant though brief career as a preacher and pastor and years ago died of tuberculosis. He was worthy of the place of leadership to which he was chosen. Rob Hay was a pastor in New Brighton for years and later, with some thing of the missionary spirit, he went to the Pacific coast, where he still labors. Jonathan Le Moyne Snyder was for many years president of Michigan Agricultural School at Lansing—where with his fine executive powers he did a fine work for the school.

There was but one lady on the staff and she was the equal of any of her confreres. She was a charming person with a keen and finely disciplined mind. She taught in Allegheny High and wore herself out too soon as we judge. Later she became the wife of Rev. J. R. Millen of Knoxville College, Tenn.

With such persons at the helm the Holcad took high rank from the start. It was a monthly publication and in form that might easily be preserved. It became the resting place of the best literary productions in the college life as well as a history of men and things. I find a pleasure in looking over the early numbers and reveiewing the memory of what happened to my experimental days. In later years we have become more ambitious and a weekly issue is watched for with eager maybe anxious gaze to see what is reported of our fellows and ourselves. We believe that through the years the Holcad has fulfilled its promise—"to bring together the students, alumni and friends into one body of interested workers."

Sail on! and may the little vessel bring blessings to Westminster through the years to come.

ODE TO AMERICA

O, native land, 'twas at thy very birth
Thou struggled with thy mother-country, sword in hand,
To perpetuate thy freedom on this earth
And spread a true prosperity throughout the land.
Yea, it required years, and many a noble son
Laid down his life, poured out his blood
Ere that great strife was fought and won.
But yet again upon thy own beloved soil
Thou heard'st cries of anguish, pain and fear,
Of those who under scourge and lash were made to toil.
Thou heard'st and answered with a brandished spear.
And with that spear thou made the bondmen free,
And thou endowed him with his rightful liberty.
That, too, required years, and blood untold was shed
Ere thou again could raise thy prostrate head.
Ah, that was was all mere frolic to what thou now dost face,
For thy gigantic task is now
To save the human race.
For thou hast heard poor bleeding France's wail
Who on her knees did bow and humbly plead
That thou wouldst eastward hoist thy mighty sail
And save her in her hour of need.
And noble England, queen of all the mighty seas
Her face upturned, her arms outstretched to thee
Ah, yes, she too was stricken down upon her knees
And plead that thou would'st make her free.
And little Belgium, tear-stained, blood-soaked land,
Who, all the horrors ever known to man has braved,
Who saved the world with her uplifted hand,
For that self-sacrificing act, she must be saved.
O native land, though thy vast treasury of wealth be drained
And thy last brave son lay down his noble life
Not until the world's freedom has been fairly gained
Wilt thou consent to leave the field of strife.

Clarence E. Toy in France.

Clarence E. Toy is one of the most popular Westminster men who is over in France doing his bit. Toy left school very quietly last fall shortly after college opened and went to Pittsburgh, where he enlisted in the U. S. Base Hospital Unit L. The unit was not mobilized for some time so he returned to school and resumed his work here.

Toy while in college was reader for the Men's Glee Club and a speaker of considerable merit. He was president of the Junior class last year. A Ph. B. degree will be awarded the former Westminster man at the Commencement exercises this spring.

Pittsburgh Alumni Organize

President Robert W. Cummings, '13, of the Pittsburg Alumni Association, has appointed the following people to organize the Pittsburg district into an organization to further the interests of Westminster: W. T. Pierce, '95, chairman; Raymond Kistler, '12, and Miss Mary E. Davidson, '04. This committee held their first meeting last Saturday.

Senior Class Tendered Reception

A reception in honor of the members of the Senior class will be held next Thursday evening May 9, at the Hillside.

POLLY IN POLITICS IS WELL PLAYED

The play "Polly in Politics" presented by members of the French Club, in the College Chapel, was one of the most successful productions staged this year.

William E. Ashbrook as Colonel Jaspers Danvers played the part of the leading man and was especially good. Charlotte Logan as Polly Danvers took the part of leading lady and showed marked ability as an actress.

The story of the play follows: Colonel Danvers, a regular, and Joseph Pendexter, an insurgent, are candidates for speaker of the legislature. Pendexter is in love with Polly Danvers, but the colonel refuses his consent. Danvers' animosity toward Pendexter is still further increased by the fact that Pendexter has placed a lock and key on the telephone booth at the Imeprial Hotel as a reminder of a political secret of the regulars, revealed at the previous session.

The loss of a single regular vote is likely to defeat Colonel Danvers. On the morning of his election his lieutenant Jim Vilas is summoned to the hotel by Polly. Their conversation is interrupted by an unexpected telephone call for Danvers. Polly locks Vilas in the booth and holds him a prisoner until her father consents to her marriage with Pendexter. The cast:

The cast is as follows:

Col. Jasper Danvers ....Wm. Ashbrook
Mrs. Danvers .....Rebecca Crawford
Polly ..... Charlotte Logan
Joseph Pendexter ....Clyde Armstrong
James Vilas ..... James Spenser
Sammy .....Wilbert Anderson
Cora Jones ..... Mary Caldwell
Marie ..... Dorothy Holliday

COLLEGE RED CROSS

The Red Cross appreciates the work the college girls are doing in the classes in Surgical Dressings. About thirty girls are enrolled. The bulletins posted in the work room is a splendid testimony of their efficiency.

The college students will find much amusement at the White Elephant Party in the Gym next Tuesday night, May 7.

Come with your girl next Tuesday night
Come to the Gym so gay and bright;
Bring a gift that's an Elephant White,
A gift that to you brings no delight.
Wrap it up in paper so tight
That no one can see its outline aright.
Prepare to exchange with your neighbor just near,
Just keep on exchanging till the bell rings clear,
And if you find what to you is quite dear,
Drop out of the circle and go to the rear.
But if the gift to you brings a tear
Again try your luck, and have no fear.
Give a quarter at least, to him who greets
You at the door, and shows you the eats.
Hurry away to a booth to show off your feats
By hitting the Kaiser; then get you some sweets
And rare lemonade, which truly beats
The nectar of Jove--this alone competes

WM. G. DOUTHETT IS DOING HIS BIT

Wm. G. Douthett, Jr., of Butler, is one of the popular Westminster men who is doing his bit over there. Bill enlisted in the Allegheny General Base Hospital last spring, which organization lately became U. S. Base Hospital Unit L. The unit was not mobilized until the later part of December.

While in college Bill was prominent in various activities. He played a forward on the varsity basketball team and was captain of the Junior class team one year ago. In dramatics he could always be depended upon to carry out a difficult part in any play. He was also a member of the Men's Glee Club. Bill was president of the Van Clul when his call to service came.

Westminster Wins Fourth

President Wallace Tells of the "Victory That Overcometh."

Faith to be Justified by Final Victory; Doom of Evil is Sure and Certain.

The union services were held in the college chapel last Sabbath evening and Dr. Wallace was the preacher. His text was the last clause of 1 John 5:4, "And this is the victory that overcometh the world, even our faith." Dr. Wallace began by giving a definition of faith, in which he extended the definition given from the college platform some months ago. He defined faith as "the invisible link between the finite and the Infinite, whereby the eternal in man become charged by the dynamos of Omnipitence" Faith is the eternal in man coming to self-expression.

Life is a battlefield, and the battle is on. All around about us and within us is the fight. In the hearts of men there is being waged a fearful struggle. The forces of two worlds are fighting there. Man can never consent to a peace with wrong or injustice, for the eternal in man can never capitulate. This battle in the souls of men can have no honorable peace with evil, and the victory is the faith that overcometh.

The enemy in this battle is the world; not the world as God made it or as God will make it; but the world that sin has made, in which the people are under the tyranny of lust and sin and death; in which the senses are the master and the soul the slave; the world in which the spirit is the prisoner. This world rejects the Bible as the Word of Truth. This world which is the enemy belittles the crucified and scorns the atonement. It would take out of the experience of the race immortal hope. This is a formidable foe. This world looks invincible, but there is nothing to fear, for evil is doomed. "This is the victory that overcometh, even our faith" The final triumph of good may be delayed, but nevertheless the doom of evil is certain. The Omnipitent is never tired. If we be defeated at any time, it is not because the enemy is strong, but because we have somehow lost our faith. We have not been linked up to Omnipitence. When the victory comes, it will be a victory of faith.

But how is faith to accomplish this? First, faih discovers the allies in the fight. One need not be a spiritualist to believe that, this? First, faith discovers the crossed the flood, they are sill fighting. There are unseen angelic forces to aid the man whose faith is unflinching. But faith may discover allies also in circumstance. The apparent is not the real. Circumstances may seem to be going against us, but faith may discover allies there, there is the divine in it all. Things as they are on our side, if we are fighting the battle of faith, for faith discovers the unseen, invincibe hosts. Second, faith discovers power. If the soul opens the channel of faith, the power of the Infinite is on the side of the soul. Third, faith releases power.

Even now in spite of the world situation, faith is overcoming the world. It is afar cry back to the time when Christ made His entry into the city of Jerusalem amid the plaudits of the crowd. Then there seemed to be no kingdom save the faith in the souls of the twelve, but the advance since that time has been wonderful. That even now that faith is operative is recognized by the leaders in the great war. At the time of the battle of the Marne, Lord Roberts and the French and English leaders had calculated all their resources and been forced to realize that these were impotent to stop the Prussians. When the news of the victory came in, Lord Roberts uncovered his head and said, "Gentlemen, someone has been praying." And everywhere at the present time, "this is the victory that overcometh the word even our faith."

FOOTBALL SCHEDULE

Coach Tech Lambie has arranged one of the best football schedules ever played for the coming season. The schedule is practically complete with the exception of the opening game. It is likely that some fast prep school team will be taken on for the opener September 28.

October 12 is not yet closed, but a number of college managers have asked for the date. The first game scheduled for the local field is with Geneva on October 26. The University of Buffalo will be played at Sharon on Nov. 2. The last home game of the year will be played Nov. 16 with Thiel College as the attraction. Dr. Davidson Commencement Speaker

Dr. Wm. M. Davidson, Supt. of Schools, Pittsburgh, has been secured by the faculty committee to deliver the Commencement Day address to the members of the Senior Class.

Dr. Davidson is a public speaker of merit and Westminster is fortunate in being able to secure a man of his caliber to make the annual address.

Mary Wallace, Dorothy Holliday and Frances Verner walked to Mercer Saturday where they spent the week-end at the former's home.

College Represented at Funeral.

The college was represented at the funeral of Mrs. Frank Bush, mother of Harvey Bush, '18, in New Castle last Wednesday by Dr. W. Charles Wallace, Clyde A. Armstrong, William Dunn, Eugene Trimble, and Harold Thompson.

Dr. Wallace extended to the bereaved family the sympathy of the college community. Sergt. Robert Hamilton who is a member of the Lafayette Escadrille, now on furlough in this country, and a close intimate friend of Harvey's was present at the funeral and will when he returns to France in the near future inform the Westminster man of his mother's death.

Pres. Wallace Goes to Chicago.

President Wallace will leave Monday afternoon for Chicago, where he will attend the annual spring meeting of the U. P. Board of Education. The chief matter for discussion at this meeting will be Bible Chair Endowment. It is likely that special Bible departments will be started in each of the five denominational schools next year.

Dr. Wallace at Allegheny

President W. Charles Wallace left today for Allegheny College at Meadville where he will atend the exercises in connection with the celebration of the 25th anniversary of the presidency of Dr. W. H. Crawford as head of that institution.

Help Win the War

With commencement near at hand, the question confronts every college student, man or woman, what am I going to do this summer? There can be but one answer: get into something that is directly connected with the serious business of winning the war.

With the men this is not difficult, as there are many branches of the service in which they can enroll themselves. Perhaps the most patriotic thing a man who has finished his college course can do is to volunteer his services in either some branch of the army or navy.

For the undergraduate who wishes to finish his college work there is the farm, the munition factory, the ship building yards, and scores of other places where he can feel that he is doing something.

For the college woman there is a different problem. A number of branches of service are closed to her, but in spite of this there are many things that she can do toward winning the war. Many eastern college girls are giving their summer vacation over to farm work. The Vassar girls are doing all the work on the big college farm. Wellesley coeds are are also taking up farm work.

Then too the college girl with her trained mind can become a leader in her home community by lecturing on food conservation the Red Cross and Y. W. C. A. work are objects worthy of any college girl's attention.

Many girls are bringing honor and glory to the name of woman by their untiring heroic efforts behind the firing lines in France as Red Cross nureses, canteen workers and in various other ways.

These are only a few of the many things that college men and women can do to help win the war.

Westminster studnet it is up to you. Are you going to be idle this summer while others are toiling and struggling to make the world safe for you, or are you going to carry your full share of the burden of the war?

How About It, Freshmen Girls?

We hear so much about the "Old Westminster Spirit" these days of trial and testing of all spirit, and we have come to look upon it as something contagious and infectious, and hitherto we think it has been: but it seems to have failed signally and definitely in the case of some people, and it is a problem whether the spirit or the people are at fault.

As students of Westminster, we had always prided ourselves on our good sportsmanship, and it has been our boast that we are as good losers as could be found. But lo! we have some in our honored institution who cannot lose at all. Their rules of a game are like this: 1. We play the game for a prize. 2. If we win, it is a good game and we get the prize 3. If we lose, it is a sham and we get no prize.

Has the "Old Westminster Spirit" taught them to play a game in that way? Do we play our footbal and basketball games with the condition attached that they are only legal if we win? But on the other hand we imagine any one of our students playing a game with the same stipulations?. It is inconceivable for even the street gamins, the gutter snipes in the worst slums in the cities, would feel themselves dishonored (if their vocabulary embraces that word) if they did not give up their marbles when another boy won them. Is it possible that Westminster students have less of that feeling of honor than a street gamin? We cannot answer, yes, but where is the fault? Is it with our spirit which has failed to influence them or with the people who have failed to be influenced?

EVERY INSTINCT TELLS US WAR MUST GO ON

—KIPLING

Plea of English Writer to His Own People Is Applicable to All Americans

POET PAYS HIS OWN TOLL— THE LIFE OF HIS ONLY SON

Without an Allied Victory, He Declares, Earth Becomes Hell Without Hope

(Rudyard Kipling knows war. He knows world politics and relations. He knows Germany. And he has paid his toll—the life of his only son—to defeat her. Because of these things what he has to say carries a message to us over here. Of America, too, it is true that "Nothing else under Heaven matters today except that the war shall go on to that end." There is no way of carrying it on unless we let America have the money to use for it. Kipling gives some straight, sound, reasons why the people of this country must buy Liberty Bonds.—Editor.)

By RUDYARD KIPLING,
(In a Speech at Folkstone.)

From time to time the representatives of the Allies meet together and lay down what the war-aims of the Allies are. From time to time our statesmen repeat them. They all agree we are fighting for freedom and liberty, for the right of small States to exist, and for nations to decide for themselves how they are to be governed. All this we understand and perfectly believe. That is the large view of the situation. What is the personal aspect of the case for you and me?

We are fighting for our lives, the lives of every man, woman, and child here and everywhere else. We are fighting that we may not be herded into actual slavery such as the Germans have established by force of their arms in large parts of Europe. We are fighting against eighteen hours a day forced labor under the lash or at the point of the bayonet, with a dog's death and a dog's burial at the end of it. We are fighting that men, women, and children may not be tortured, burned, and mutilated in the public streets, as has happened in this town and in hundreds of others. And we will go on fighting till the race who have done these things are in no position to continue or repeat their offense.

No Half-way House 'Tween Victory and Defeat.

If for any reason whatever we fall short of victory—and there is no half-way house between victory and defeat—what happens to us? This: Every relation, every understanding, every decency upon which civilization has been so anxiously built up will go—will be washed out, because it will have been proved unable to endure.

The whole idea of democracy—which at bottom is what the Hun fights against—will be dismissed from men's minds, because it will have been shown incapable of maintaining itself against the Hun. It will die; and it will die discredited, together with every belief and practice that is based on it.

The Hun ideal, the Hun's root-notions of life, will take its place throughout the world. Under that dispensation man will become once more the natural prey, body and goods, of his better-armed neighbor. Women will be the mere instrument for continuing the breed, the vessel of man's lust and man's cruelty; and labor will become a thing to be knocked on the head if it dares to give trouble, and worked to death if it does not.

And from this order of life there will be no appeal, no possibility of any escape. This is what the Hun means when he says he intends to impose German KULTUR—which is the German religion—upon the world. This is precisely what the world has banded itself together to resist. It will take every ounce in us; it will try us out to the naked soul.

Our trial will not be made less by the earnest advice and suggestions that we should accept some sort of compromise, which means defeat, put forward by Hun agents and confederates among us. They are busy in that direction already.

— — Or Earth Becomes A Hell Without Hope.

But be sure of this: Nothing—nothing we may have to endure now will weigh one featherweight compared with what we shall most certainly have to suffer if for any cause we fail of victory.

The war must go on. The more we have suffered in this war, the more clearly do we see this necessity. Our hearts, our reason, every instinct in us that lifts us above the mere brute, show us that the war must go on. Otherwise earth becomes a hell without hope. The men, the ships, the munitions must go forward to the war, and behind them must come the money, without which nothing can move. Where our hearts are there must our treasure be also. There has been a great deal of money spent in England lately, several millions a day for the last twelve hundred days. That means that many people have had the chance of earning more money than they could have earned in peace times. * * *

Our security for our loan is not only the whole of the British Empire, but also the whole of civilization, which has pooled its resources in men, money, and material to carry on this war to victory. Nothing else under Heaven matters today except that the war shall go on to that end.

Pennsylvania's Share in the War.

Since the beginning of the war, 83,716 men have been sent from the State to the various training camps and barracks maintained by the Federal Government. The cost of operating the selective service draft machinery used to get these men to the point of entrainment has been $852,147.92.

Dr. J. O. Campbell and H. T. Getty were the speakers at the Liberty Loan meeting at the Angell school house on Tuesday evening. Much interest was manifested and about $2000 was subscribed. The same speakers were up at No. 1 school house last night. Both men have worked hard to help put the Wilmingtons across the line.

John L. Cox, north of town, last week disposed of one of his fine Jersey cows to Prof. J. A. Shott of this place. Mr. Cox owns some of the classiest Jerseys to be found anywhere. From the Camps

Bush Is On Furlough

Word has been received from Harvey Bush that he has received a furlough from the work which he is in and is now "on his own." for 20 days. Like most of the other American boys over there, Heinie is spending his leave in visiting places of interest in the different countries. This trip he visited Rome and reports a wonderful sight seeing trip. No doubt the impetus to travel will be greater than ever after the war to these fellows who have gotten a taste of it thru the foreign service. Bush has been changed to the office of interpreter and now travels more, accompanying the various officers on tours of inspection and similar work.

Private Bell on Furlough

Private Ralph Bell, '16, recenly spent a few days at his home in Sharpsville. Private Bell recently enlisted in the aviation and is now stationed at Camp McPherson, Atlanta, Georgia.

Art Shields in Artillery School

Arthur Shields, '18, who enlisted in the Medical Corps, and who has been in France for some time has left that branch of the service and is now training at a heavy artillery school. Art says he likes his new work much better than he did the Field Hospital service and that he expects to be in the real fight some time soon. His new address is Heavy Artillery School, A. P. O. 718, France.

Kike is Squad Leader

Earl K. Lostetter who went to Camp Lee last week writes that he is temporarily located in the 155th Depot Brigade. Kike says that he is acting as squad leader and that he is enjoying camp life. Information was received later which stated that Lostetter had received an appointment in he Gas Defense service and will likely go into training at Washington, D. C.

Views of Our College Presidents on the Claims of the Ministry

TARKIO

No occupation affords greater opportunity to the right young man than the Christian ministry

Does a man want work? The minister can find it day and night, seven days in the week. I know one whose only limit is his time and strength.

Is it high class work one seeks? The minister does the kind of work Christ did. "The Son of Man came not to be ministered unto but to minister." I know men of that type in the ministry.

Does one want interesting work? The minister works with men, men at their worst and men at their best. In either case his work is supremely interesting.

Were I choosing again, I would simply get into the work more intensely.

J. A. THOMPSON

COOPER

What consideration should a young man give the claims of the Gospel ministry?

This is a very important question to every seriously minded young man.

If the ministry is the highest calling and the Apostle Paul's admonition, "Covet earnestly the best gifts," is to be obeyed; then the Gospel Ministry should have the first and highest consideration.

The opportunities for service in the Gospel Ministry are unsurpassed The Ministry, in the next twenty-five years is going to help solve the problem of World Democracy.

This will call for the veary best talent the Church has. If as a young man you are looking for a service unsurpassed in every regard, I commend you to the Gospel Ministry.

R. T. CAMPBELL.

MUSKINGUM

1. It claims the young man for the bigggest job and the greatest task God set for men. "Ye are the light of the world." No small enterprise this. It takes a big man for so big a task.

2. It claims the young man for the most blessed fellowship that any man can know. "Go, lo I am with you." "Ye are God's fellow workers." To undertake the impossible with God and win out is a glorious privilege.

3. It claims the young man for the neediest realm of human life. "If thou canst do anything, have mercy on us and help us." "Come over . . and help us." This call for help from a needy world is the insistent claim that the ministry makes upon the virile young man today.

J. KNOX MONTGOMERY

MONMOUTH

Why the ministry as a profession?

Many reasons might be given. From among them let me suggest but two.

1. It is a profession that opens up avenues of usefulness.

In an address delivered some years ago before the divinity students of Yale, Associate Justice Brewer said, "In your profession better than anywhere else can one make his life an incarnate beatitude. Across most professions the highest word written is "fame"—across many avocations the higest is "wealth", but over the portal of your profession is "usefulness."

2. It is a profession thru which one pours the energies of his life into that which is enduring.

The child builds his castle of sand by the seashore—it is for the day. Michael Angelo puts his genius into St. Peters—it is for centuries. The earnest gospel minister puts his efforts into character—it is for eternity.

T. H. McMICHAEL

Owen Shaffer Transferred

Owen Shaffer, '15, who has been in training at Camp Sherman with several of the alumni and students from here is home for a few days on furlough enroute to Lakehurst, New Jersey, where he has been transferred to the Gas Defense division of the Army service. Shaffer specialized in chemistry when he was in attendance here and was chosen among others in the various camps to learn the work of making gas bombs and apparatus for defense against the gas attacks of the enemy. The gas mask which he used at camp was on exhibition in the window of Crooks' grocery for a time on Thursday and was a gruesome sight. One can better appreciate the use of these masks when he learns that the gases from the enemy bombs often lies in the trenches for hours at a time till they are literally shoveled out.

Shaffer is now in the same work as Fred McCrumb, '17 who has been at work in the gas division in Philadelphia for several months.

"IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE"

Has been chosen as the Commencement play to be given at Westminster College this year. The play will be presented on Monday evening, May 27, in the Presbyterian church. Prof. Hollopeter of the Department of Public Speaking, has chosen a strong cast for the production, having had between thirty and forty persons taking the course in acting Drama this year from which to choose the players.

Commencement visitors will also be agreeably surprised at the new equipment for stage work provided by the college this year. A set of fixtures consisting of appropriate stage enclosures with proper stage entrances and exits has been provided and will be appropriately decorated before the commencemen tplay.

To Attend Commencement

Dr. R. G. Ferguson is planning to attend the annual commencement exercises of the Pittsburgh Theological Seminary next week. Dr. Ferguson is a member of the Board of Trustees of that institution. From there he is planning to go to the commencement exercises of his Alma Mater, W. & J. at Washington, Pa., on May 10

DOUBLE FLIM FLAM

Clever Trick by Which Jeweler Recovered Money.

Had Been Victimized In Really Neat Manner, But All the Honors of War Were His When the Game Ended.

This is a story picked up in New York that has all the elements—save the love of touch—of a modern mystery story. M. Parrish Watson is a wealthy collector of Chinese art. He sends emissaries all over China digging up treasures. One of his agents has just returned.

In Peking he was in the shop of a pawnbroker. A silk-hatted American, a polished man of the world, came in, to secure a loan on a pearl which he took out of a velvet bag. The broker applied the tests and was satisfied the pearl was genuine. He advanced $10,000. Later in the day one of his experts rushed to him breathlessly with the startling statement that the pearl was the most clever counterfeit he had ever seen. The broker made another examination and found he had been the victim of a flim flam artist.

Several days afterward he called every jeweler in Peking into a conference. He told them of his experience and he said he was simply going to take his loss, but he thought it was his duty to warn his fellow merchants. He held up the pearl before them.

"Here it is," he said. "To show you what I think of it and that the incident is closed, I am going to destroy it." He placed the pearl on an iron and with a hammer smashed it to tiny fragments with one blow.

The next day all the Peking newspapers carried a story about the way the merchant had been tricked and how he had destroyed the bogus gem. Several weeks went by and the incident was almost forgotten.

One morning the American who had pawned the pearl entered the shop. A clerk recognized him and went toward him. "I have come for my pearl," he said.

The clerk was in a panic. He begged the customer to wait a few minutes and he rushed off to his employer with the news. The broker came out of his private office and met the customer.

"I have come for my pearl," repeated the American.

"You have the money to redeem it?" he was asked.

For answer the American counted out the exact amount and placed it on the counter. The broker went to the safe and brought back the pearl that was pawned. He had cleverly tricked the trickster. He knew there was only one chance of getting his money back and that was to make the customer believe the pearl had been destroyed. He resorted to this ruse and did not destroy the pawned pearl but a substitute. A surprised American walked out of the place with his counterfeit jewel—gnashing his teeth just like the smooth villain in the melodrama of old.

First Express Company.

The first express company in America was launched 79 years ago, when an advertisement appeared in the Boston and New York papers announcing that "William F. Harnden has made arrangements with the Providence railroad and the New York Boat company to run a car through from Boston to New York and vice versa four times weekly. He will accompany the car himself, take care of all small packages that may be intrusted to his care and see them safely delivered." Today Harnden might be prosecuted for publishing a misleading advertisement, for his "express car" was entirely imaginary, and he carried parcels in a valise. Harnden had long been a conductor on the railway, and his former associates permitted him to travel without charge. The railroad got nothing in the way of express charges. Harnden's first competitor was Alvin Adams, who became the founder of the Adams Express company.

Two Lines of Eligibility.

Down in Johnson county is a flourishing farmer's club, and, as there is a membership limit, naturally there are a number of folks outside who would like to be inside.

Two of the outsiders were discussing the club one day, and one of them asked: "How does a fellow go about getting into the thing?" The other farmer explained thus: "Well, so far as I have been able to dope it out, there are just two ways—you either have to be such a success as a farmer that it will be a feather in their cap to get you for a member, or such a doggone failure that it will be good advertising for them to take you and make something out of you."—Indianapolis News.

Braggadocio.

"I'd have you know that my grandfather came over in the Mayflower!" said the small boy with the curls.

"Huh! That's nothing," replied the boy with the pug nose, "my father came over in a ship what was struck by a submarine!"

Just Like Her.

"Did you see in the paper about Mrs. Putton-Ayres being almost overcome by coal gas?"

"No, but that's just like her, I suppose she was afraid people wouldn't know they had coal."—Boston Transcript.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Interesting Program For Commencement Week

Baccalaureate and Memorial Services Are to be Combined as Tribute to Soldiers Of Two Wars.

The program for Commencement Week at Westminster College has been completed and will be of interest to the people of the community as well as to the friends of the institution everywhere. The exercises open on Friday, May 24, at 2 o'clock, with a recital at the conservatory of music, and in the evening of the same day the annual Junior contest will take place at the Second United Presbyterian Church.

On Saturday, May 24, at 2 o'clock, there will be a music recital in the Second Church. At 6:30 in the evening the May Day exercises will take place, on the campus, and at 8:15 the Junior play—always one of the big events of Commencement Week—will be staged at the Presbyterian Church. The title of the play this year is, "At the End of the Rainbow." The cast has been coached by Miss Elizabeth Sankey, who so successfully prepared the players for the Junior class Red Cross benefit some time ago.

Sabbath, May 26, will be an eventful one in the Commencement activities. In the morning at 11 o'clock, at the Second Church, Rev. S. C. Gamble of Philadelphia, will preach the annual sermon to the Christian Associations. There will be special music under the direction of Prof. W. W. Campbell of the department of music.

In the evening at the same place, at 8 o'clock, President Wallace will deliver the baccalaureate sermon to the Senior Class and to the Grand Army of the Republic. Owing to the large number of Westminster alumni and undergraduates, and to the fact that several members of the class of 1918 are in the service, and that three of the boys have given their lives for their country, it is eminently fitting that these services be combined. As the veterans of the Civil War fought to preserve Democracy and to free the black race, so are the young men of today fighting for even a greater cause—the freedom of all peoples.

There will also be special music at this service by the College Choir.

Another music recital will be given on Monday, May 27, at 2:30, and in the evening, at the Presbyterian Church, the Department of Public Speaking, under the direction of Prof. Hollopeter, will present the comedy that the whole country has crowded the play houses to witness: "It pays to Advertise."

Tuesday, May 28, will be taken up with a recital by the department of Public Speaking, the Alumni business meeting, alumni banquet, class day exercises, music recital in the evening at the Second Church, followed by the Peace Powwow on the campus.

On Commencement day, at 10 o'clock, the graduation recital of the Public Speaking Department will take place. At 11 o'clock the Board of Trustees will meet, followed by the annual Alumni dinner at the Hillside at 12 o'clock.

The Commencement exercises will be held at in the Second United Presbyterian Church at 2 o'clock, when Supt. William M. Davidson of the Pittsburgh Schools will make the address. Our people should avail themselves of the opportunity to hear Dr. Davidson, as he is not only one of the leading educators of the country, but an excellent speaker.

The closing event of the week will be the concert in the evening by the Girls' Glee Club, at the Second Church. The club has been directed this year by Miss Mary Douthett and presents one of the best organizations in the college history.

Hart Leads Student Volunteers

At the regular meeting of the Student Volunteer Band, last week, Hugh Hart, '19, was elected to succeed Lorena Stewart, '18, as leader for the coming year. Miss Stewart, during the past year, has done much to make the local Volunteer Band what it is. Hart is well fitted to succeed her having been actively interested in missions for more than twenty years(?)

The Student Volunteer Conference held here the latter part of March gave great impetus to the Volunteer Movement in this institution. Now hat the students are awake to the bigness of the proposition, the prospects for a fruitful year for the Volunteer Band next year are extremely good.

Sophomore Picnic

The members of the Sophomore class enjoyed a picnic on Furnace Hill Wednesday evening About seven o'clock the Sophs gaily wended their way to the amphitheater and returned later by the moonlight. The time was spent in playing various games. After the lunch was served, mashmallows were toasted over the fire. Dr. J. O. Campbell proved himself an excellent chaperon and Jack Lewis showed his ability at dishing ice cream. At 10:30 the lads bade their fair lasses farewell at the Hillside and turned homeward. Much of the success of the picnic was due to the committee in charge composed of Elizabeth McLuckie, Anna McBride, Robert Foster and Lawrence Loghry.

Military Training

Dr. Wallace is in receipt of a letter from Secretary of War Baker outlining a plan for military training in the colleges next year. This arrangement will be made for all colleges having at least one hundred men students enrolled. Our own college does not have that number at present and it will require some effort on the part of students, faculty and alumni to bring Westminster up to the requirements. Under this arrangement all students over eighteen years of age will be encouraged to enlist as a part of the military force of the United States. The policy of the government will be, however, not to call these men until they have reached the age of twenty-one. Those under eighteen will be encouraged to enroll as a part of the training unit.

May Day

Alumni and friends are reminded of the May Day exercises, on May 25 from six to seven-thirty P. M. Director Lambie promises an interesting and attractive pageant.

Attention, Students!

Make arrangements with either George Martin or Allen Dickson to have your baggage hauled to the station when you leave. At your servce day or night. Prices reasonable. Adv.

THE WESTMINSTER-TECH FIELD MEET

Carnegie Tech's fast track squad defeated our team a week ago on the Tech athletic field in the annual dual meet between the two colleges. The score of the victory was 76 to 50.

Although Tech was expecting a hot contest they were surprised when Westminster produced the high point man for the meet. Johnston, '20, won more points than any other man on either team making a total of 11 points.

The following are the places won by Westminster men:

100 yd. dash—Loghry, first
220 yd. dash—Loghry, first
440 yd. dash—Atkinson, second
½ mile run—Atkinson, third
One mile run—Conway, second
Bastress, third
2 mile run—Bastress, third
120 yd. high hurdles—Johnston first.
220 yd low hurdles—Wierman, second; Johnston, third.
Pole vault—Berry, third
High jump—Johnston, first
Shot put—Berry, second; Ashton, third.
Hammer throw—Ashton, second.
Discus throw—Ashton, first; McMorris, third.

On Skellie

Skellie: Yes, Bob Foster is some musician. After Hick sang in the recital the other afternoon Bob turned to me and said, "Was that good, Skellie?"

Bob: (after a pause) "Yes, and do you know what Skellie said to me? He answered, "I don't know Bob, whad 'dye ask me for?"

How Many Suits, Bob?

Hick was telling of his mad trip with Bob Foster thru the window of the Crescent Club room, and Jean Ralston said: "Well it's a wonder one of you didn't cut yourself ory our clothes."

Hick.: "We" Bob did! He cut a hole in the best suit he had on!"

Hillside Notes

Emma May and Hazel Phipps spent the week-end at their respective homes in Sharon.

Elizabeth Matheny spent the weekend at her home in New Castle.

Charlotte Logan and Margaret Wylie were the guests of Josephine Keast at her home in New Castle over Sabbath.

Olive Hickman and Helen Johnston were over Sunday guests of Maude Spencer at her home in Sharon.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles Wallace and children took dinner at the Hillside on Sabbath.

Francis Perkins, Gladys Krause and Edna Bartlev enioyed a trip to Sharon with Prof. W. W. Campbell last Saturday.

Marion Freed, Claire Robinson and Mildred Allison, spent the week-end at the latter's home in New Bedford.

Edith Lusk was the guest of Catherine Feuhrer at the Hillside Wednesday evening.

The Misses Grace Springer, Gertrude Wilson, Marie Luke and Clara MacDowell entertained each other at get acquainted party given in honor of themselves the first of the week at Room 24. The preliminaries were held in the afternoon at which all four displayed great skill in culinary cunning. The affair was a huge success and all the guests left with a firm resolve that in the future similar orgies should be indulged in more frequently.

Class of '68 to be Honor Guests

Members of the class of '68 will be the guests of the President and the graduating class this year. This year marks the fiftieth anniversary of their graduation. They will be guests of honor at the Class Day exercises and will be entertained in the President's home at luncheon on Commencement Day. Dr. Wallace's father, Rev. Joseph R. Wallace, is a member of this class. There are sixteen members of the class of '68 still living. Of this number, eight are expected at Commencement.

Among Westminster's Alumni none is held in higher esteem by his acquaintances, or is more worthy of the many positions of trust and honor which he has held than William McElwee, Jr. Mr. McElwee was graduated from Westminster with the class of 1897. He immediately entered law school, was admitted to the bar and is now Borough Solicitor for the boroughs of New Wilmington and Bessemer. He is also attorney for the County Commissioners of Lawrence Co. His success in lawi is due to the wholesouled efforts which this loyal alumnus always puts forward, as well as to the kindly personality which he possesses.

Attorney McElwee was honored last Commencement by election to the position of President of the Alumni Association of Westminster College. a position which he has filled with distinction. Since the organization of the local Chapter, Mr. McElwee has served as Treasurer of the New Wilmington Red Cross, and the many commendations which he has received bear witness that he has served with efficiency.

At the present time, he is a candidate for the State Legislature on the Republican ticket. In his candidacy he has the undivided support of his home town and community. The Holcad takes pleasure in endorsing his candidacy and wishing him sucess.

Dr. and Mrs. Wallace to Entertain

On next Tuesday evening Dr. and Mrs. Wallace will entertain the Faculty and Seniors of the local High School.

On Thursday evening the Class of '18 will be the guests. Both these events will be in the President's home and will be very informal. The President's reception of the Seniors may be considered the first of the Commencement events.

Senior Vacation Starts Monday

Noon today sees the completion of the classroom work of the class of '18. The faculty has granted them one week's vacation. That week will no doubt be filled with outside activities so that it certainly will be a relief to be in a measure free.

Summer Plans of Faculty; What the Seniors Will Do

Vacation Season to be Utilized in Various Kinds of Work by Teachers and Graduates

FACULTY VACATIONS

The plans of faculty members for the summer months are always interesting to students.

Dr. Wallace will spend the month of June on the road for the Bible Chair Fund. He expects to spend one month, probably July, on the farm.

Doctor Ferguson plans to visit his old home as a part of his summer vacation.

Dr. Campbell has promised some of the local farmers his aid during part of the summer in farm work.

Miss MacLaggan plans to study at the University of Chicago for a part of the summer and after that will probably do a little traveling.

Dr. Oppitz expects to spend this summer working in a munitions factory near Cincinnati.

Mrs. Anderson Entertains Volunteer Band

On Tuesday evening the Volunteer Band was delightfully entertained by Mrs. Anderson and her daughters, Helen and Aurel. A track meet was conducted between teams from Staggerin University and Shoeshine College, Staggerin winning by two points. Bob Foster of Shoeshine, won the standing broad grin, making a record of three and three quarter inches. The Andersons proved themselves charming hostesses, and a splendid evening was enjoyed by all.

General Assembly To Meet

The General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church will meet in the Third Church, Pittsburgh on Wednesday evening, May 22. The sessions will probably last until the following Wednesday. Dr. Wallace will attend the Assembly as a commissioner from Westmoreland Presbytery.

Monday evening, May 27 will be "Education Night"when the status of the colleges and their relation to the war will be discussed. There will be three main addresses on that evening. Dr. Robert L. Kelley will speak on the subject, "Christian Culture vs. German Kultur." Dr. Kelley is executive secretary of the Association of Church Boards of Education and secretary of the Association of American Colleges He was formerly president of Earlham College. A very forceful article by Dr. Kelley on the American Colleges and the War appeared in a recent number of Scribner's Magazine.

Dr. Wallace will speak on "The United Presbyterian Colleges and the War." In preparation for this address Dr. Wallace has had correspondence with the Presidents of our own colleges. He finds that forty per cent of the men students who were in United Presbyterian colleges when war was declared are now in the service. His inquiries also confirm the findings of the Board of Education that only about one-third of the number of United Presbyterian students are in United Presbyterian Colleges. This finding suggests room for development for U. P. Colleges.

Ralph D. Kyle, of the U. P. Board of Education will speak on "Our Wartime Program." Dr. Kyle will use a stereopticon machine in his lecture and will use some pictures donated by the 1919 Argo staff.

Rev. A. A. Graham. '91, of the Second U. P. Church, is a commissioner to the General Assembly from this presbytery. He is also attending the meeting of the Committee of Missions which is meeting in the U. P. Church at Mt. Lebanon, Rev. E. C. McCown '01, pastor. Dr. J. O. Campbell will also be in attendance at the Assembly.

Emergency Speaking

On last Sabbath evening Dr. Wallace preached the baccalaureate sermon to the members of the graduating class of the High School at Harlansburg. On Tuesday evening he made the Commencement address at Volant High. Both of these were emergency engagements substituting for Dr. Jordan who is an uncle of Paul Simison.

WHAT IS "THE OLD WESTMINSTER SPIRIT?"

Just what is this thing that we so glibly refer to as "The Ol-l-l-d Westminster-r-r Spirit?" Is it something that clings to and inhabits the buildings and campus or is it a thing that has its form in the student mind? Is there anything in the attitude of the mind of Westminster people that is distinctive? To what extent are we who are now students in Westminster moved by this spirit, and are we moulding it properly?

There is an "Old Westminster Spirit." Let us get it before our minds and realize that it is something more than a name. It is desired that a larger number of students write their conception of "The Old Westminster Spirit," what it is, and what it should be, and hand them to a member of the Holcad staff. The length is necessarily limited to one hundred twenty words. The best of these productions will Le published in the Commencement number of the Holcad.

SANE PATRIOTISM

One of the opportunities that college students will have during the summer months will be to foster a spirit of sane patriotism among the people of their respective communities. The ideals of the nation must be kept at the original high standard. No compromise with lower ones is to be tolerated. One line along which there is need of great care is in the matter of mob violence. From all over the country reports have come of men threatened and ill-treated and even tofo rce them to buy Liberty Bonds, etc. Altho this may almost seem justifiable in certain cases, it has been abused in many more. Its very nature invites abuse. Public speakers whose utterances tend to encourage such violence are not to be countenanced. Such actions smell of the conduct of the Hun and cannot be tolerated by thinking people.

A SPONGE?

Are you a sponge? Do you habitually take in from other people and give nothing in return? A great many people go thru college in just that way. In the class room they use their neighbor's text books. In a class discussion they let the other fellow contribute all the ideas. At a social gathering they expect to be entertained rather than endeavor to entertain others. In every phase of life they let the other fellow put forth the effort while they reap the benefit Do you belong to this class? If you do

Large Crowd Greets Red Cross Worker

Not for many years has a larger and more enthusiastic audience greeted a speaker in New Wilmington, than that which assembled to hear Mrs. Clendenin in the Second U. P. Church last night As the great Red Cross worker entered the auditorium, accompanied by Dr. McLaughry, president of the local Branch, the audience arose enmasse by way of a welcome home.

Mrs. Clendenin is intimately identified with Red Cross work in Nw Wilmington. It was due to her efforts that the Auxiliary was first established, and she has taken a keen interest in its wonderful growth and work.

Mrs. Clendenin is a wonderful woman With marvellous energy she has thrown herself into the Red Cross movement and devotes her entire time and means to the comfort of the soldiers.

Her return to New Wilmington was primarily in the interests of the Red Cross drive now on, but it seemed to all present that she was glad to come back because she was among friends.

Time and space forbid the publication of her thrilling address, but it was a message that will not be forgotten. Fresh from the battle front in Flanders and in close touch with the English military authorities, she told of conditions as fully as is permitted by the government. She emphasized the good work of the American Red Cross both at home and abroad, and assured us that it was fully appreciated by the allied armies and by the people

Mrs. Clendenin assured her hearers that the allied line will hold, but said that the war must go on until Germany is decisively beaten. She praised the the heroic sacrifice and work of the women of England and France, and told us that we, too, must be prepared to make sacrifices.

A few words in connection with the food question was a revelation to the audience, for it illustrated plainly that we have made no sacrifices at all.

Mrs. Clendenin assured the American mothers that everything possible is being done for the boys over there, and that their welfare would always be the first consideration.

Paul Simison Killed At Camp Sherman

The tragic death of Paul J. Simison, only son of Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Simison of Volant, came as a shock to the people of Lawrence and Mercer counties, and especially to the residents of this community who had known him since childhood.

The sad news came last Friday in a telegram from Camp Sherman, Chillicothe, Ohio, where Paul was in the service of his country, announcing that he had been killed while working in a grain elevator by a falling bolt, which doubtless had either been left lying high overhead on a beam, or had become loosened from its fastenings. The bolt penerated his skull, causing instant death.

The body in charge of private Earl Fair of Volant, and private Dunlap of New Castle, reached Volant Sabbath morning.

The funeral services, attended by the largest concourse of people in the history of the community, were held in the Methodist Episcopal Church of Volant, Tuesday at 2 o'clock.

Reposing in a beautiful casket, draped with the Flag for which he had given his life, the body lay in state in the church for an hour preceding the service. Around the bier, on every side, were arranged the floral remembrances from scores of loving friends and business associates—a beautiful testimonial, fragrant of the sentiment of brotherhood.

The funeral service was in charge of the family pastor, Rev. Minigh, in which he was assisted by Rev. S. T. Davison of Erie, a former pastor, and intimate friend of the deceased. Dr. W. Charles Wallace, president of Westminster College, Dr. R. G. Ferguson and Dr. J. O. Campbell, and Rev. E. C. Mechlin of Rich Hill.

Dean Charles Freeman and Prof. W. W. Troup attended the funeral as representatives of the college and as personal friends.

Dr. Wallace led in prayer, after which Dr. Campbell read the scripture lesson. Tributes to the life and character of the departed were paid by Rev. Minigh, Rev. Davison and Dr. Ferguson. The words of the pastor and former pastor were eloquent of the loyalty of the young man to the church and of his work for its advancement. Dr. Ferguson dwelt upon Paul's college life and his association with him as a student at Westminster. Each regarded the other highly and when "Simmie," as we was familiarly known to his friends, left school at graduation, he had established with Dr. Ferguson a lasting friendship. And as this was true in this case, it was equally true with the other professors and students of his time.

At Fair Oaks cemetery the service was most impressive. More than 500 people were assembled about the grave when Rev. Minigh conducted the burial service of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Following the service a bugler from Troop F of New Castle, sounded "Taps," after which Hebron Lodge of Mercer, took charge of the funeral. About 100 members of the Masonic fraternity from Mercer, New Castle, New Wilmington and Volant were present. The deceased had been a member of Hebron Lodge, the Lodge of Perfection, New Castle, was a 32nd degree Mason, and a member of the Eastern Star Lodge of New Castle. He was also a member of the Commercial Travelers organization and of the New Castle Board of Trade.

Honorary pallbearers were members of the Masonic order, Robert L. Wallace, Clyde Smith and J. Elder Bryan of New Castle; Thomas A. Sampson, Earl C. Miller and Harold G. McClelland of Mercer. The active pall bearers were J. E. Matse, J. R. Manson, D. N. Campsey, and C. W. Martin, classmates at Westminster; Earl Fair and Warren Wilkins, both in the army service, and intimate friends of the deceased.

G. E. THOMPSON, Agent

Both Ends

(Producer and Consumer)

Against The Middle

(The Packer)

The consumer wants to pay a low price for meat.

The farmer wants to get a high price for cattle.

The packer stands between these conflicting demands, and finds it impossible to completely satisfy both.

The packer has no control over the prices of live stock or meat, and the most that can be expected of him is that he keep the difference between the two as low as possible. He does this successfully by converting animals into meat and distributing the meat at a minimum of expense, and at a profit too small to be noticeable in the farmer's returns for live stock or in the meat bill of the consumer.

Swift & Company's 1917 transactions in Cattle were as follows:

	Average Per Head
Sold Meat to Retailer for	$68.97
Sold By-products for	24.09
Total Receipts	93.06
Paid to Cattle Raiser	84.45
Balance (not paid to Cattle Raiser)	8.61
Paid for labor and expenses at Packing House, Freight on Meat, and Cost of operating Branch distributing houses	7.32
Remaining in Packer's hands as Returns on investment	$ 1.29

The net profit was $1.29 per head, or about one-fourth of a cent per pound of beef.

By what other method can the difference between cattle prices and beef prices be made smaller, and how can the conflicting demands of producer and consumer be better satisfied?

BILL GRUNDISH '16 WRITES FROM FRANCE

The following very interesting letter was received from Bill Grundish, '16, 15th U. S. Engineers, A. E. F. Bill was somewhat of a litterateur while in school and has not been neglecting that side of his life even tho he is in the Army.

On active service,

Dear Dick:

Your letter, written February twenty-sixth, arrived about a week ago, and I was mighty glad to hear from you. McMinn and I occasionally spend an evening talking about the old school and although we never tire of exchanging reminiscences about Austin, Joe, the cinder path, debates, football, the library alcove the "Anarchists", the Hillside, Dr. Smith's lectures, and Rosy White's poolroom, we are always eager for the latest news. So your letter was welcomed by both of us.

We have nicknamed our present camp "Gobbler's Knob." Needless to say, you wont be able to find that name on any map of France. The four barracks occupied by our company are situated on the steep slope of a scrubby, muddy knoll. The camp overlooks a broad level plain—green meadow land and brown fields—which extend tot he dark ridges of wooded hills in the misty distance. A most beautiful scene, when it isn't raining—it rains every day, worse luck!

But even on the dark gloomy days that are all too frequent over here, it is wonderfully inspiring to climb to the top of the knolll and to look over the valley or, on the other side, toward the seemingly endless vista of hills lying quiet and somber beneath the soft misty rain. And one unforgetable glimpse of the hills drenched in the splendor of the moonlight made me catch my breath at the glory and the wonder of it. I felt a pagan desire to worship at the shrine of beauty.

As I said above, our company occupies four barracks, portable buildings, the parts of which fit together only in theory. One building is given over to the kitchen and mess hall. The space in another is shared by the Y. M. C. A. sergeant's quarters, company office and officers quarters. The fellows sleep in the other barracks, each man occupying a collapsible cot. The quarters are fairly comfortable, except for three things,—myriad cracks and crevices provide an undue amount of fresh air, the roof leaks and all the running water in the neighborhood has the habit of "standing at ease" on the cinder floor. But we are getting things fixed up gradually and within a few weeks will feel at home. Then, no doubt, we will move.

That has been our experience over here. As soon as we make a comfortable camp, patching the walls, making cinder paths, repairing leaks, building shelves and duffel boxes, a sudden order comes—and we move. One time we thought we were settled for months. We built a fine barracks, lined it with tar paper, laid a board floor and, as a luxurious climax, installed electric lights. Three days later we were ordered to pack our belongings and "parti." as our French friends say.

"Sergeants, corporals, privates gay,
Talk all night and half the day,
The only question that you hear
Is where the dickens do we go from here?"

For obvious reasons, I can't tell you much about what we are doing over here. Our company, and the entire regiment for that matter, is making good, even if I do say it myself. By the way, do you know that the Fifteenth Engineers was the first armed alien force to land in England since the invasion by William the Conquerer.(ask Doc. Campbell for the exact date) and the first American volunteer organization to land in France. By George, I hope we have the honor of being first in Berlin. My, would'nt we feel "jake" swinging down the "Unter den Linden" singing our "Charlie Horse Psalm," the words of which are stirring but unprintable

I'm glad that winter is over, even if we do seem to be in the midst of the rainy season. There were days when we tramped about in deep snow, seeking in vain shelter from the icy wind that swept down the valley. And evenings when we lay in our bunks, snuggled in a pile of blankets, overcoats and slickers, trying to be warm as possible. Other days when we waded knee deep in mud and water, slickers, boots, hands and faces coated with yellow, sticky slime. Dark, muggy nights when we plugged away at the job in hand in spite of the drenching rain. But I must not forget to mention the pleasant feeling that comes after a hot cup of coffee and a plate of beans at midnight, or the laughing, singing, joking gatherings around the red-hot barracks' stoves. We manage to inject a lot of fun and pep into this army existence. French mud might hide the romance of war but it can't smother our appreciation for a good song or a snappy joke. Of course we grumble a bit. Grumbling and swearing are the only methods by which a soldier can express his dissatisfaction at the petty annoyances that arise every day. The fellows never "grouse" about the big things. Too much salt in the potatoes will cause infinitely more "kicking" than extra work on Sundays.

I can hear the fellows in the Y. M. C. A. singing one of our most popular songs. Someone is banging the piano, some others are strumming banjos and mandolins. A solist sings the verse and the entire bunch swings into the chorus:

"Hoorah for Reilly, hoorah for Reilly,
Someone in the crowd shouted, Hoorah for Reilly,
Eins, zwei, drie, vier,
Reilly's going to buy the beer,
Hoorah for Reilly,—
He's a dam fine man."

Please excuse the cuss word. For some unknown reason these innocent little cusses creep into almost all of our songs,—clean, honest oaths for the most part, and anyway, the army isn't exactly a ladies' seminary.

Several times in our wanderings over here we have come across negro troops. They are usually carefree, good-natured fellows, singing and laughing in spite of the adverse circumstances in which they find themselves sometimes. One darkie, according to his companions, was strolling along the deck of the transport coming over when a big wave came over the side of the ship. He fell on his knees and prayed earnestly, "Oh Lawd, if youahself can't come to mah aid please send youah swiftes' angel" If you ask one of these darkies if he volunteered the chances are that he will answer, "No sah, Ah didn't volunteeah an' Ah didn't get drafted, de govament just dun come an' took me." Some of the darkie quartets are excellent and I remember one labor unit that boasts a pretty fair "jazz" band. This same organization, all of the members of which were drafted, contained a fellow who surely is at least sixty years old. I asked him why he didn't tell the draft board his age. "They dun give me no chance," he replied, "They put me in a big ottermobile and dun tole me if I got out I'd get shot. Den dey shipped us all to camp." One coon asked a sergeant if the government would give him a mule when the war was over.

The bugler is sounding "taps" and strictly speaking, I should be "hitting the hay," to use a slang expression. But I work in the company office, and that covers a multitude of sins of omission. It also gives me an opportunity to use a typewriter, which I like better than scrawling letters with pen and ink. The work is rather pleasant compared with the jobs I tackled during the winter. I make out reports and returns and requisitions and write letters and tell the fellows there is no mail, and fix up allotment forms and insurance blanks and make out some more reports, and at intervals find time to eat and sleep and read a bit and scribble scraps of verse. I hope some day to persuade some callous editor that the verse is poetry, well worth publishing and paying for. Of course you realize that the company office isn't a real office with mahogany desks and efficient filing systems and trained stenographers. We have a long table, a field desk a box to file letters in, several shelves, an Underwood (serviceable) and two Coronas (one unserviceable), two mail boxes, a limited amount of stationery, a bottle of ink, a homemade cupboard with a place for everything and nothing in its place,—but it's a comfy little office for an organization on active service, and a little better than most units fix up.

This is the dickens of a long letter, old man, and I'll have to cut it short "toute de suite." Ask Miss MacLaggan if that expression is correct. I sent Dr. Freeman a short note thanking for a Christmas box I received from school. I hope he got it. I also received a card from Dr. J. O. Campbell, and intend to answer it. In the meantime give my regards. Good luck to you, Dick, when you jump into the army game. Remember me to the bunch.

Same's ever,

LETTER FROM "RANDY"

Bill Randolph, ex-'18, writes from Camp Pike, Ark. A little insight into "Randy's" camp life may be given by the knowledge that before being transferred to the Machine Gun Company, he was president of his company's Bible Class.

Camp Pike, Little Rock, Ark.
May 7, 1918.

Dear Friends:

I wish it might be possible for me to bundle up some of this lovely "Sunny South" weather we are having down here and send it to New Wilmington in time for Commencement. It would certainly make ideal weather for that occasion. This is surely a land of sunshine.

If ordinary life is one thing after another, camp life is more so. At least that is the way we feel at times. The first part of the week we look forward to the half holiday on Wednesday; and the rest of the week we are looking forward to Saturday afternoon and Sabbath. But camp life is necessarily a life of routine, and we know that it plays a very important part in the preparation which the United States is making for this great fight for universal democracy.

I am in a machine gun company. We are using the Colt gun which is air cooled. On the range recently it proved to be very unsatisfactory machine gun. After some five hundred rounds had been fired in close succession the barrel would become so hot that one could scarcely touch it. Every so often it becomes necessary to change barrels. We are to get the new Browning machine gun later on.

This is a beautiful camp, having an abundance of shade trees scattered about. It is situated about eight miles from Little Rock in what was formerly a regular wilderness. We do not know how long we shall remain here, but that is a matter that seldom worries us.

With best wishes to faculty and students, I am,

Very sincerely,
J. W. RANDOLPH

Sixty-Fourth Annual Commencement

Many Interesting Events Contribute To Make Event Notable One in the History of the College.

The Commencement exercises were held this afternoon in the Second United Presbyterian Church at 2 o'clock.

Following the invocation by Dr. Thomas Cummings, Miss Josephine Keast delivered the salutatory.

The address of the day was made by Superintendent Wiliam M. Davidson, LL. D., of the Pittsburgh Schools.

After a solo by Clyde Matson, William Wendell Duff delivered the valedictory.

Then followed the conferring of degrees. Miss June Grove and Miss Blanche Wright sang solos following the salutatory and valedictory.

A number of the members of the class of eighteen were absent on military service. Clarence W. Cummings of East Brook returned Tuesday morning for the remainder of the Commencement week, but no others were able to be in attendance. The Class Roll and the degrees conferred may be seen elsewhere in this issue. The program of the Commencement exercises may be found below:

SERMON TO CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATIONS

The sermon to the Christian Associations was preached on Sabbath morning in the Second United Presbyterian Church, by Rev. S. C. Gamble. Rev. Gamble is an alumnus of Westminster of the class of '01, and is now the pastor of the First United Presbyterian Church of Philadelphia.

The text of Rev. Gamble's sermon was from John 17:1, "These words spake Jesus, and lifted up His eyes to Heaven, and said: 'Father.'"

Rev. Gamble stated the purpose of the sermon to be to meditate on Jesus. Three points in the text were emphasized. First, Jesus looking up saw the face of the Father, and found guidance. Thus must it be with men, if they are to be guided rightly. Like the driver through the forest on a pitch-dark night when nothing could be seen, who guided his horses by looking up and driving by the pathway of light in the sky above the trees, thus we must go forward rightly and guide our course by the pathway in the sky.

Second, Jesus looking upward into the face of the father, recognized Himself as a faithful witness to Himself.

Third, Christ, looking into the face of the Father, saw a pathway of victory. And so with us, if we look upward and guide our course by the will of the Father, by the "pathway in the sky," will see before us a life victorious. Great triumps would await the people of God, if they would only center their thot upon Him and the advancement of his kingdom. Victory lies close to the cross. If the cross is real, victory is real. Faith tells us that He who was upon the cross is now upon the throne, and that thru Him we will conquer. That same promise is to us in this war, that victory will perch upon the banners of the right, and the best years of the world are yet to be, if we follow the pathway in the sky, beholding the face of the Father.

President's Reception

On Thursday evening, May 23, Dr. and Mrs. Wallace opened the Commencement season in a quiet way by entertaining the Senior Class informally in their home. The guests are enthusiastic in their expressions of appreciation of the entertainment. The favors were very clever.

THE BACCALAUREATE

Dr. Wallace preached a powerful sermon to the graduating class of the college last Sabbath evening, in which he committed to the gradutes the mission of arresters of the drift in human society. The text of the sermon was taken from Isaiah 32:2: "And a man shall be as a hiding place from the wind, and a covert from the tempest; as rivers of water in a dry place, as the shadow of a great rock in a weary land."

This is a vision not of society glorified, but of society firmly established. Its spirit is thoroughly modern. The verse preceding the text is the prerequisite. First Isaiah places just judgment; then he discloses what is to be the fountain force of society—personal influence. These words suggest a philosophy of history, a great gospel, and the ideal of duty of every one of us. In the figure man is represented as a shelter, a great rock in a weary land. The figure is an eastern one, a figure of the desert, where a great rock standing in the path of desert storms may break their force, arrest the drift of the driving sand and permit to spring up to leeward vegetation, and there afford shelter for it.

The first thing that the verse suggests is a philosophy of history. The first requisite of history and society is great, outstanding characters. These great characters set themselves against the drift of the blind forces and the evil forces of life. Far back as history goes progress has been only by some heroic soul setting himself against the drift and custom of his time, and giving shelter to the weaker, and bringing them forward in his advance. The great arresters of the drift stand clearly forth from out the past; Abraham resisting the drift toward idolatry; Isaiah standing against the drift of his day toward corrupt politics, and creating a shelter in which the grace and the strength of the state could flourish; Paul arresting the drift toward Judaism in those critical days of Christianity; Luther in the days of the Reformation; manifold of the great ones of history stand forth, men who have had fortitude of soul, and have dared to be arresters of the drift. Personal influence has been the greatest force in history. In this is the philosophy of history which Isaiah holds.

And in the very heart of this philosophy of history is a great gospel. None like Christ exemplify the arresting power of personal influence in human history In the shadow of his resistance the world is to be counted free. His was a peculiar influence—the influence which saved people from their sin. And sin is the strongest drift in history; the strongest habit of the individual. Christ alone resisted this universal drift and in the strength of His resistance we are free. In His shelter the power of sin loses its surging pull.

Third stands the ideal and duty of every one of us. Here Dr. Wallace addressed the graduating cass particularly charging them with a commission—to be arresters of the drift. To fill this high commission the great need is fortitude of soul. That attained, to go forward as shelters for the weaker, and arresters of the drift of life, was his high commission to the class of '18.

Gertrude Wilson and Clara McDowell motored to West Middlesex with Agnes Burton on Wednesday afternoon.

Miss Clark's many friends will be indeed sorry to hear that she will not be with us next year. When you speak of Miss Clark's friends you include a large circle for it is impossible for anyone to know her and not fall in love with her. In her three years at the Hillside she has done her work very quietly and very efficiently. When it comes to making people comfortable, Miss Clark has no equal. A large number of girls will testify to Miss Cark's fineness and loveableness. As for the fellows who work at the Hillside, there is not one who would not fight for her. Tho Miss Clark will not be with us, she will still be following her life work, that is, making people comfortable and happy.

In September, What?

The school year 1917-18 is past and gone. What of the future for Westminster? The future of Westminster will be determined to a very great extent by the people who are attending these Commencement events.

Board Members! You are the men behind the throne. It is in your power to make or unmake the old school. You guide the policies of the administration. You mould the thought of the students by your selection of Faculty members and officials. The welfare of the Old School and of the student body is your sacred trust as a personal matter that Westminster can develop and fill the place in the world that it is her right and duty to fill.

Faculty Members! You are the people who influence the thot of the students as they develop in the college. The degree of straightnss and purity of your thinking will determine to a great extent the thinking of the present student body not only while in college, but in the bigger years that are to follow.

Alumni! You represent Westminster to the outside world. Your manner of life interprets the Westminster spirit to those who observe you. Are you giving the proper interpretation? Please do not lose your ... in the school. It ... ake ...

Dickson, Retiring Editor

The new management of the Holcad takes this opportunity to express its best wishes to the retiring edior, A. W. Dickson, '18, who has done such good service on the publications of the institution. Those who have read the Holcad during the year can bear witness to the success of Dickson as an editor. As a Junior Dickson piloted the Argo thru a particularly prosperous and successful year. His other official activities have been so numerous that we fear to embarrass him by enumerating them. A man who has worked so hard and well will not be lost in the wide, wide world

Attended Funeral

On Friday of last week Dr. Wallace represented the faculty at the funeral of Dr. George Kennedy of Geneva. Dr. Kennedy was struck by a trolley car and instantly killed in Beaver Falls on Wednesday, May 22. Dr. Kennedy was Professor of Greek and Vice President of Geneva. He had been associated with Geneva College for thirty-six years and was one of the most distinguished classical scholars in the state. Dr. Wallace was an honorary pall bearer.

May Day Draws Large Crowd

The annual May-Day exercises were held on the College Campus on Saturday evening, May 25. The procession which started from the Hillside at 6:30 was led by Miss Rebecca Crawford, as Goddess of Liberty and Irvine Reaney and James Pitzer representing the Army and Navy of our country. The Queen and her attendants followed director Larabie and Miss Marian Dannheiser, the solo dancer and the Folk dancers were arranged in close succession. Six Red Cross nurses bore the American Flag at the rear of the procession. As the queen and her attendants proceeded to the throne. the double quartet sang "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean."

The Senior girls, dressed in Swedish costumes, did a lovely Swedish folk dance, Trallen, and the Freshmen girls followed them in an English Harvester's dance. Thegay Juniors and Sophomores danced another English Folk-dance, Gathering Peascods.

The little flower girls, scattering flowers in the path of the path of the queen-elect, Miss Eleanor Braham, preceded her to the coronation. Miss Ruth Stewart, the former queen, in a beautiful speech, crowned her and proclaimed her Queen of the May.

Miss Marian Dannheiser then danced a beautiful Daisy Dance before her majesty, the queen.

Following this came the Juniors and Sophomores in a Ruffty Tuffty folk dance. The Senior girls then wound and unwound the May Pole, perfectly. Just as the sun was setting, the Freshman girls formed in ranks and presented a very pleasing flag drill, as a tribute to our country's emblem.

As the quartette sang the Star Spangled Banner, the procession formed again and returned to the Hillside.

TENNIS

The first tournament of the season was played at Hiram, Ohio. Capt. Cummings, Shott, Dunn, Ashbrook and manager Schenck went on the trip by auto. Upon arrival there they learned that as Hiram is in the Ohio Conference they play only two-man tennis, so Willie and Bill (Willie for Dunn, and Bill for Ashbrook,) distinguishing feature acquired on the trip, contented themselves by taking over a couple of Freshies (boys of course) while Jim and Eddie played their matches. The singles were played last, Jim winning his 6-4, 6-3, and Eddie lost his 6-4, 7-5. In the doubles the teams were very evenly matched but our men proved too much for them, taking the first set 7-5, the second 6-3 and the third 6-2. As fate would have it Jim played against the same man when he guarded in Lasketball, and true to his old form, outplayed him.

The trip was indeed pleasant except when Schenck would take the back seat instead of the extra, and again whenever we approached a town Bill would be heard to say, "Get your pocketbook, manager, I'm hungry." O yes, we fed them; Eddie had to slide his chair back, for the counter was stationary, and as for the rest,—well, we don't dare say. Needless to say the return was quite pleasant for we had the Bacon (ham to be exact) right with us, and all felt very well over the result.

Grove City Match

On Monday afternoon a little party motored over from Grove City for a friendly game of tennis The rain of the preceding Monday had necessitated the canceling of the match at Grove City scheduled for that day, so this match was watched with doubled interest. The match was a draw as far as the singles were concerned, but Westminster managed to get away with the doubles by a narrow margin, making the final score 4-2 Westminster. Some excellent tennis was shown, Black of Grove City in particular showed up well. Black and Burton of Grove City played Cummings and Shott at the Cummings court, and Alexander and Sheldon played Dunn and Ashbrook at the Crescent court.

INTERCOLLEGIATE MEET AT PITTSBURGH

The Westminster College track team made a very gobd showing at the Pitt Meet Saturday, May 18, winning third place with 26 points. Pitt finished first, Carnegie Tech second and Penn State fourth.

The big feature of the meet was the running of Shea of Pitt in the dashes, but he had a close rival in Captain Loghry of Westminster who pushed him both in the 100 yard dash and the 220-yard dash. The time of the 100-yard dash was 10 2-5 seconds and of the 220 yard dash, 22 seconds.

Johnston took third in the high jump at 5 feet 4 inches, 4th in the 120-yard high hurdles and 4th in the 220 yard hurdles.

Ashton took third in the shot put, third in the hammer throw at 129 feet and fifth in the pole vault and second in the discus at 109 feet 8 inches. The relay team made up of Loghry, Conway, Johnston and Ashton won third place. The track team owes their successful season's work to the efficient coaching of athletic director Lambie.

Graduation Recital

Miss Mary Caldwell gave her graduation recital this morning, in the Second U. P. Church. Miss Caldwell is the only student to graduate this year in that department. She received her B. O. degree at the commencement exercises this afternoon. Miss Caldwell shows great talent in this line of work and has proven her ability in previous recitals. Her many friends predict a brilliant future for her in this work. The program was composed of a miscellaneous collection of pieces and is as folows:

The Revolt of Mother—A story of New England farm life.
Only a Boche—A soldier's soliloquy
Strongheart—An Indian love story
Moriah's Mo'nin'—Imeprsonation of a colored widow.
The Littlest Rebel—A southern story of the Civil War.

PUBLIC SALE BILLS PRINTED AT THIS OFFICE

From the Camps

REV. JAMES FERGUSON AT CAMP MILLS

Rev. James Ferguson, son of Dr. Ferguson, has left his pastorate at Bellevue for three and a half months and is in the Y. M. C. A. service at Camp Mills which is located at Hempsted, Long Island. Rev. Ferguson volunteered for a term of work in the Y. M. branch of the foreign service but was not accepted on account of health conditions. In spite of this disappointment he is working very busily at the post assigned him in this country and says that the work is most interesting. Camp Mills is one of the embarkation camps and for that reason Rev. Ferguson does not get to make acquaintance with many of the soldiers for they do not stay there very long. He writes that iin two days over 28,000 troops passed thru the camp for the transports.

The secretaries are located in good tents like those used by some of the soldiers and as they mix so much with the men they find that the soldiers as a rule are very frank and open with them. In fact, the soldiers ask them to do many things for them such as arranging for visitors, writing letters, etc. And anyone who knows Rev. Ferguson knows that the average soldier would not hesitate long in confiding in him especially at a time when about to ship for parts unknown.

Victor Houston in Town

Victor Houston ex-'15 who is training at Camp Sherman was in town last Tuesday. He came up from his home in East Brook to have a look about the school before going back to camp, and says that he is located not far from the battery in which se... local boys are placed. He sees Vic Minteer and Prof. Hearn quite often and reports that they are quite well and anxious to get back for Commencement. Houston came here from a year's work in Geneva and entered the class of '15 but after a term here he went to State College to take up the study of agriculture. His brother, also a Westminster man, has been across in France for several months. Vic is a sergeant in the cavalry.

K. Ferguson Still in New York

Kraeer Ferguson who has been sick in New York is "playing in tough luck" as far as getting to France is concerned. After his attack of mumps he contracted scarlet fever which kept him in the hospital for some time. This led to a very critical operation which he underwent a week ago last Thursday. It was on the mastoid bone in the ear and was considered quite serious by the surgeons who operated. However he is much better and at present has no fever and is able to sit up in bed alone. He was removed from the camp hospital to St. Mary's hospital where he is at present.

His father was with him for a few days during and after the operation but has returned home again reporting Kraeer as getting along very well.

From the Campus

Wendell W. Duff of the Senior Class was called to report for National Army service May 27. On account of the commencement, however, he has permission to stay with us until June 1. Duff is valedictorian of his class and was a member of the Varsity Debating squad. Duff goes to camp with the great good will from his fellow students.

PEACE POWWOW

After the concert last night the peace powwow was held on the College Campus. After recounting the brave deeds of each class by their representative braves, the class of '18 and the class of '19 buried the hatchet and smoked the old Peace Pipe. College songs and class songs and yells were heard. Such was a fitting end to the three years of keen but friendly rivalry of the two classes Forbes represented the class of '18 and Armstrong '19.

On to Northfield

A big delegation of men will represent Westminster at the Student Y. M. C. A. conference at Northfield, Mass, June 13-21. At least seven men have made definite plans to attend. The greater part ofthe exepense of these men will be met by themseleves, but some aid may be obtained from the local organization and the college. This is a conference for the northeastern states including Ohio, West Virginia and Maryland. John R. Mott will preside and men of such caliber will be leaders, throughout the entire session.

Argo on Sale

The 1919 Argo is on sale in the Argo room on the first floor of the college building. A few copies are still to be had.

Alumni Backs Track Men

Director Lambie wishes to acknowledge the support of a number of Alumni in sending a team from Westminster to the Penn Relays at Philadelphia. It is encouraging to students and managers to know that the Alumni of the school are back of them. The following men contributed a total of fifty-eight dollars, which went far toward meeting the expenses of the team: S. S. Mehard '69, George Z. Hosack, Reid Kennedy, '89, 9. R. Robinson, '89, L. R. Marks, R. G. Deevers, '02, W. Bruce McCrory, '01, J. A. Chambers '00, J. A. Stranahan, '05, E. V. Buckley, '16, J. C. Kistler, '86.

Senior Breakfast

Early on Friday morning morning the senior girls wended their way to the amphitheater on Furnace Hill where they cooked breakfast over a blazing fire. After breakfast various songs and yells were practised. The dignified ones returned in time to attend to their various duties, somewhat saddened by the reminder from "Hick" and Mary Cadwell that this was their last picnic together.

Chairman Young People's Work

At the session of the General Assembly at Pittsburgh, Dr. Wallace was made chairman of the Committee on Young People's work in the Church for the coming year.

Pink and Eth Entertain

On the Music house porch the other afternoon Pink and Eth entertained a party of friends at a macaroon and pop party. The guests all report a wildly hilarious time.

Picnic Breakfast

The Third Floor girls had a breakfast in the woods on Saturday morning in honor of Gertrude Wilson's birthday. Breakfast was cooked down by the cut and all report that it was excellent.

On Monday evening the Department of Public Speaking presented the play, "It Pays to Advertise" to a delighted audience. The play was a good one and well presented. THE BEST MEAT

Is none too good for our customers, and we spend considerable time and money securing it, rather than take just what comes to hand. Cattle are scarce, and there are many buyers, more than ever before, for that very reason, but you will be supplied, no matter how far we must travel to get it.

And just a word here about Ice. You will need ice to keep meats, vegetables, milk, butter, etc. Remember help is scarce, and we are trying to keep down the expense so the consumer. Order your ice in the morning for delivery that day. We will make deliveries on Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday.
